Condon Case Fires Rebuilt By Denial

Commerce Head Refuses To Present Records On Doctor Contrary To House Resolution; Struggle Builds Up

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—The commerce department formally refused today to hand over to the House an F. B. I. loyalty report on Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the federal bureau of standards.

House Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) thereupon declared:

"The last word hasn't been spoken."

He said the House now can try legislation to get the desired information.

In a resolution adopted Thursday by a 300 to 29 vote, the House had demanded that the FBI report on Condon be sent it.

A subcommittee of the House committee on un-American activities has called Condon the weakest link in the nation's atomic security, and accused him of associating with Russian spies, charges which he has denied. He also has been cleared by a Commerce department loyalty board.

The FBI report on Condon has been sought by the unAmerican activities committee but President Truman has told all government agencies they must keep secret their files on investigations of employees' loyalty.

SCHOOL FINANCE TO BE DISCUSSED

Important Fifth District Meeting Planned To Shape Legislation

Recommendations of the United School Committee of Louisiana will be discussed by John Doles, chairman of the state haison education committee, May 4, Virginia Hotel, crystal ballroom, at 7:30. Mr. Doles is a school board member, and a banker of Plain Dealing, La.

Mrs. Mildred Moore, Fifth district chairman, is urging all interested citizens, school personnel, school board members, school administrators, and senators and representatives from the Fifth district to attend this important meeting. She says: "As educational systems are slowly being reconstructed all over the world, a universal interest in education is developing.

"One encouraging sign of the times is that parents—and citizens generally—are no longer content to accept passively certain conditions that have grown up in our distribution of tax money. The major trend is to promote public support for better school programs in every section of the state. This is a difficult assignment. Interest in legislation, both state and national seem to have reached an all-time high in the past year. To meet this need a state-wide organization is being set up in every parish to study pending legislation, and to prepare a statement of policy that can be distributed widely by each organization represented."

Composed of representatives from citizen groups, school personnel, school administrators, classroom teachers and school board members and school superintendents this committee has for its major objective, "to secure an agreement on a legislative program for the children of the state that all groups can and will support."

This program calls for an expenditure of $50,725,000 additional funds for adequate financial support for Louisiana schools in the next two years and suggestions to the legislature on how such funds might be derived. It is the duty and province of the legislature to determine sources of revenue for governmental functions, including education. It is the experience of school people that school funds should be derived from a dedicated source. If the legislature desires suggestions as to the source, the following recommendations are suggested for consideration:

1. The present one per cent sales tax.
2. An additional one per cent sales tax.

STARNES ELECTED TO HEAD 1948 KEY CLUB

Tommy Starnes, 16-year-old Ouachita parish high school junior, was elected president of the Key Club International late yesterday by delegates attending the fifth annual convention in Memphis, it was reported last night.

Young Starnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Starnes, of 104 Stubbs avenue, Monroe, defeated his longtime friend, William Pregnall, of Charleston, S. C., in a run-off election necessitated when neither candidate received a majority in an earlier balloting.

Starnes will be spokesman for 500 clubs and 10,000 members throughout the United States and Canada. The clubs are sponsored by the Kiwanis International.

More than 1,100 boys attended the convention, it was reported.

LEADING CONTENDER HITS LILIENTHAL APPOINTMENT

CLEVELAND, April 24.—(AP)—Youngsters and old folks subjected Harold S. Stassen to a thoroughgoing political quiz today as he put finishing touches on his hard try for presidential delegates in Ohio.

Close by, his Republican rival in the all-important campaign to score in the May 4 Ohio primary, Senator Robert A. Taft, counseled with political leaders. Taft plans to answer Stassen's general stand in a radio broadcast tonight.

Before departing for Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., for a mock political convention, Stassen made these points in separate interviews with high school editors, newspapermen and a forum at the Cleveland City Club:

1. He disagreed with Taft on the question of confirming President Truman's new nomination of David Lilienthal as head of the atmoic energy commission. Taft says he is against it. Stassen says he is for it "providing no additional evidence against him has turned up."

2. To a City Club member's question about "big interests spending extensive funds on his campaign," he replied that contributions from $1 to

5 NAVY FLIERS JOKE WHILE WAITING FOR RESCUE SHIP

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—Five navy fliers, who ditched their plane in the Atlantic last night, spent three and a half hours "joking" until a passing liner rescued them from two life rafts.

The plane, a twin-engined Neptune, sank two minutes after it plopped into the icy seas about 40 miles west of Nantucket Light.

The men were returning from routine navigational flight to Bermuda to their base at Quonset, R. I., Naval Air Station when the plane's engines failed.

Two hours after abandoning their plane, the fliers spotted the lights of the U. S. liner Washington "about ten miles away."

"We waited half an hour until it came nearer and then shot up a flare," said Lt. Harvey H. Rouzer, 26, of (727 South Fulton St.) Salisbury, N. C., pilot, after the Washington docked here.

Then, Rouzer said, "we saw a Navy PB-1-W, which had spotted the flare and came toward us. We sent up another flare and it brought another plane, one of our own squadron.

"It circled us and dropped six parachute flares in a circle around our rafts. Then it flew off and buzzed the vessel."

Capt. John W. Anderson of the Washington said he first had thought the plane was on maneuvers, but later, spotting the flares, altered course toward them.

U. S. ACCEPTS U. N. FORMULA

Delegation Compromises In Attempt To Get Council To Favor Trusteeship

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—The United States delegation agreed today on a simplified formula to put the United Nations on record in favor of trusteeship for Palestine.

A spokesman for the U. S. delegation said the new strategy would follow these general lines:

1. The United States would first try to get the 58-nation Political committee of the General Assembly to agree that the U. N. would become the responsible authority in Palestine when the British Mandate ends May 15.

2. If the committee accepts this principle, the U. S. then would seek an agreement that a trusteeship is the only type of United Nations rule provided for in the U. N. charter.

3. With these basic issues decided, the assembly could get down to work on the details of a trusteeship plan. This could follow the lines laid down in the U. S. working paper now before the delegates, or it could be a simplified stop-gap plan to be used until a long-term scheme could be worked out.

With the end of the British mandate only three weeks away, time was the big element in the Palestine discussions, which continued here over the week-end. As a result, there was an increasing tendency to concentrate on emergency action.

This trend was reflected both in the Security Council's decision last night to set up a three-nation Palestine truce commission and in the political committee's decision to give top priority to a French move to safeguard the holy places of Jerusalem.

The truce commission—composed of the United States, France and Belgium—is expected to begin discussions

Bastrop Mill Worker Slain After Wife Shot

BASTROP, April 24.—(Special)—Howard Boutwell, 36-year-old International Paper Mill employe, was shot to death by Bastrop officers early today after critically wounding his wife.

Mrs. Boutwell was placed under treatment at the Bastrop General Hospital for a bullet wound in the abdomen. Her conditior was described by physicians as "still very serious" following an operation to save her life this morning.

Deputy Sheriff J. L. Cox said Boutwell shot his wife with a souvenir Japanese pistol about 11 o'clock last night during an argument over Boutwell's drinking. He said Boutwell then left the house but returned later and was trapped by city and state police officers under a bed in the room.

Jes' Ramblin'

Miss Sarah Bross' class in home economics at Neville High School received state-wide publicity when the current issue of the Louisiana public schools appeared the past week. This Journal carried on its cover page a group of girls of the 10th grade at Neville busily sewing for the less privileged. These young girls have performed a real service through the garments they have prepared for needy cases. The girls who are shown in the picture are: Nell Cowart, Barbara Wildey, Georgia Vollman, Beverly Vollman, Penny Nichols, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Nichols who modeled for the girls; Betty Freeman, Elaine Walker, Ann Braun, Norma Ray Burke, and Jo Ann Henderson. Betty Ellis was in the original picture but the picture as it appeared unfortunately cut her out of the view. These girls have had, through this class and their work, some excellent training in doing for others who are less fortunate. It should serve as a good lesson later in their lives.

GASOLINE REFINERY EXPLODES IN CALIF.

EL SEGUNDO, Calif., April 24.—(AP)—With a roaring jar that rocked a five-mile radius, a gasoline finishing plant blew up today in Standard Oil of California's sprawling El Segundo refinery.

Thirteen men, most of them fire fighters, were hospitalized for burns. No one was injured in the blast, scores of workmen having been evacuated from the immediate area when the fire broke out 25 minutes before the 3:30 a. m. explosion.

Fire departments from four nearby cities helped local companies bring the blaze under control in little over an hour.

Company officials said an inquiry was under way to determine cause of the second major fire at the refinery in five months. The blast blew a heavy piece of steel nearly a quarter of a mile, awakened thousands of residents in nearby cities and lit the sky with a roaring pillar of flame visible 15 miles away.

Today's blaze was kept away from vast storage tanks at the plant, one of California's largest. One of the tanks blew up last Dec. 5 killing one workman. Its cause was never fully explained, the blast being attributed variously to a bolt of lighting or to static electricity which set off the finished gasoline.

AIR POWER SIZE MAY BE SETTLED BY END OF WEEK

Gurney Expects Preliminary Decision To Be Made In Senate Hearings

SENATORS MAY GET BILL TO HALT PLANT SELLING

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—A preliminary decision in the contest about the size and makeup of a powerful combat air force may be reached in the Senate next week.

Senator Gurney (R-SD) told a reporter today that hearings opening Monday morning on a 70-air group money bill "should speed up a decision on this whole problem."

Gurney is chairman of the Senate armed services committee which has been unable to complete its decision on an all-inclusive bill covering expansion of the air force and other armed services, temporary draft, and universal military training (UMT).

Gurney added another item to the defense list today. He said he will introduce Monday a bill to halt sale of all government war plants, machine tools and other equipment that might be needed for "a possible emergency."

ITALIAN OUTCOME HEARTENS EUROPE

Fear Of Russian-American War Still Hovers Over Most Of Continent

PARIS, April 24.—(AP)—Happiness at the anti-Communist victory in Italy has swept like a spring breeze over Western Europe this week but the icy dread of a Russo-American war would not melt.

Democratic diplomats from London to the Dardanelles took new courage. So did the anti-Communist parties in France, the country which felt it was next on the list if Communists won in Italy.

But the first jubilant comments were tempered when two unescapable facts kept demanding attention.

1. In Italy 30 per cent of the population had voted for Russia against the West, and France also had a 30 per cent block of Communist followers that would not dissolve.

2. Two great powers, America and Russia, continued to shoulder each other around in a world that seemed lately too small for both of them.

The first quick result of the West's victory in Italy was a softening of Communist attacks. Communist newspapers from one end of Europe to the other first declared the election results were faked, then published them

WESTERN AREA CUT BY COLD WEATHER

A storm center dropped the mercury to 21 last night in Yellowstone park, Wyoming, and covered Denver, Cheyenne and other high spots with snow.

Temperatures in the rockies and plateau states ranged from the 20's to the 50's, while the nearby plains states had weather in the high 60's and 70's.

The weather bureau said the storm was expected to clear the area before tomorrow, moving off to the south and east after bringing a hard freeze and sending temperatures down to 15 in the mountains and 25 to 30 on the plains.

Russians Plan 'Safety' Rules

Clay Rejects Idea Of Americans Being Pushed Out Of German Capitol By Tighter Restrictions Of Flights

BERLIN, April 24.—(AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay gave notice today that the United States will continue to use the air corridor between Berlin and the Western occupation zones.

The American commander expressed U. S. policy following reports the Russians plan to restrict air travel of the Western Allies with new "safety" regulations.

He told a news conference:

"We will abide by the quadripartite (Four Power) agreements which set up the air corridor and we will continue use of the air corridor." He repeated this statement, as if for emphasis.

Clay reported the Russians have made no formal proposals to set up the restrictions. Such a program has been officially recommended to the Russian military governor by a Soviet Commission.

He said Four-Power agreement prohibits formation flying or military maneuvers in the air corridors but, when the time comes that you have

STEEL SETS PACE FOR INDUSTRY IN LABOR RELATIONS

EXPECT OTHER PLANTS TO FALL IN LINE WITH PLAN

PITTSBURGH, April 24.—(AP)—U. S. Steel's refusal to grant wage increases has put a detour sign on the road many labor leaders would lead to "third round" pay hikes.

A national pattern for pay boosts was set in 1946 when the U. S. Steel Corp. and the CIO-United Steelworkers agreed on raises of 18 1/2 cents an hour. In 1947, U. S. Steel again lead the way by granting 15 cent pay hikes.

But this year, U. S. Steel balked at more increases. The corporation broke off wage discussions with the union and said it was cutting prices instead. "Big Steel" said it was not interested in setting the stage for a third wave of post-war pay boosts.

Effects of the steel firm's action on other current negotiations stirred speculation over the week-end. One possible result could be a new wave of strikes, if U. S. Steel's example is followed widely in other industries. The steelworkers, however, have reaffirmed a contractural no strike pledge.

GREEK NAVY HITS GUERRILLA NESTS

ATHENS, April 24.—(AP)—Guns of the Greek navy are bombarding a force of 2,500 guerrillas in the south central area of Greece not far from the Gulf of Corinth, a general staff communique said today.

The naval units joined the army and air force to make it a three-pronged attack on the Communist-led guerrillas.

The communique gave no details of the naval attack, but a frontline correspondent for the newspaper Ethnos said he saw the destroyers Themistocles and Hastings in the gulf of Corinth send shells into guerrilla positions west of Lidoriki, in the western wing of a front extending to Agrappa, 60 miles to the northeast.

Approximately 600 of the 2,500 guerrillas were reported in the area of Lidoriki, which lies about 15 miles inland from the coast and 95 miles northwest of Athens.

A press report said 1,500 guerrillas

BOY KILLS SELF IN TRAGIC GAME

WATSONVILLE, Calif., April 24.—(AP)—A game of "cops and robbers" ended last night in the accidental death by hanging of 11-year-old Merlin K. Tweedy, of Corralitos.

Merlin was playing with his 7-year-old brother, Vern.

The younger boy said Merlin told him he would demonstrate how "bad guys" are hanged. He placed a slip knot around his neck, climbed a tree and fastened the other end of the rope to a branch. Then his feet slipped and he fell.

JEWS STRUGGLING FOR BUFFER AREA

JERUSALEM, April 24.—(AP)—Jewish militia fought today to take possession of a buffer area to seal off their greatest prize, the port city of Haifa.

While thousands of weary Arabs streamed from the city which was captured by Jews in a spectacular battle Thursday, Haganah guns blazed out at Balad Esh Sheikh and nearby Tirah, two villages about five miles east of the big port. The Arab villages are on the road to Nazareth and Tiberias, a city on the Sea of Galilee from which the Arabs also have been driven by the Jews.

The British said the Arabs asked for a truce at dawn after an all-night fight and agreed to surrender their arms. When only 22 rifles were turned in, however, the Jews delivered a new ultimatum for the delivery of all guns and the fighting was renewed. The latest reports said the British had arranged a temporary truce for the evacuation of women and children from the villages.

Dispatches from Haifa said the Jews were trying to prevent the evacuation of the 37,000 Arabs remaining in the city. The Jews considered the evacuation a political rebuff, and wanted them to remain to demonstrate that Arabs and Jews can live side by side. They offered the Arabs cooperation in solving food and supply problems.

Arab leaders replied to Jewish persuasions, however, that they could not "subject ourselves to conquerors."

Indications were that most of the Arabs would leave the city as a silent protest against the Jewish blitz of the parts of the town not controlled by the British.

The Arabs believed their withdrawal would prevent the British-owned oil refinery in the port area from operating. The refinery has been closed for two weeks and the gasoline shortage is acute. The refinery management said it would not reopen unless both Arab and Jewish laborers returned to work.

Arabs in the city were under a Jewish curfew, virtual house arrest. Haganah said five field guns, mortars and other arms had been found in an inch-by-inch search of Arab quarters.

Arab civilian leaders ordered the evacuation because they were unwilling to attempt to enforce Jewish terms for surrender of arms upon armed Arab volunteers. The city of 130,000 is about half Arab.

The Arab population was being moved across the bay to Acre by British army landing craft and small

SCHWELLENBACH IS REPORTED AS OKAY

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Lewis Schwellenbach, confined in Fort Jay regional hospital, Governors Island, with an "upper respitatory infection," was reported free of temperature late today.

Army authorities said the illness "was not of a serious nature."

An army spokesman said Schwellenbach was taken off the steamer "Cristobal" when it arrived in New York Wednesday. He had been on a non-official trip to Panama.

The spokesman said the Secretary was running a temperature when removed from the ship. He was visited at the hospital yesterday by Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, U. S. A., President Truman's physician.

MEXICO TELLS U. S. TO AVOID ASKING IF AGAINST GRANTING

BOGOTA, Colombia, April 24.—(AP)—Mexico told the United States delegation today not to try to obtain advantages from Latin American nations which it was unwilling to grant.

The warning came during a discussion in the Pan American conference of U. S. proposal that Latin American nations agree to give prompt and adequate compensation for property expropriated from foreign investors.

Several Latin American countries, including Mexico and Venezuela, opposed acceptance of the wording of the U. S. proposal on the grounds that it conflicted with their constitutions.

The discussion was held in a special working group of the conference's economic committee which is charged with writing a treaty to improve economic cooperation among the republics of the western hemisphere.

Mexican Delegate Antonio Carrillo Flores said:

"I insist it would be convenient if the United States delegation does not press for this proposal. A few days ago the United States delegation called attention here that this treaty could not amend regulations of the United States securities and exchange commission but now it insists we adopt measures which are openly in conflict with several of our constitutions."

Venezuelan Delegate Luis Lander advocated a general statement on expropriation leaving the procedure of compensation to special two-nation agreements. He said: "We cannot go further than our constitution. We cannot because our Congress would reject the treaty."

The U. S. delegation said it would be better to eliminate the part of the treaty dealing with expropriation than to draft a watered down text. A Mexican proposal that expropriation payments be made promptly and adequately in accordance with the constitution and laws of each country

1. The United States would first try to get the 58-nation Political committee of the General Assembly to agree that the U. N. would become the responsible authority in Palestine when the British Mandate ends May 15.

2. If the committee accepts this principle, the U. S. then would seek an agreement that a trusteeship is the only type of United Nations rule provided for in the U. N. charter.

3. With these basic issues decided, the assembly could get down to work on the details of a trusteeship plan. This could follow the lines laid down in the U. S. working paper now before the delegates, or it could be a simplified stop-gap plan to be used until a long-term scheme could be worked out.

With the end of the British mandate only three weeks away, time was the big element in the Palestine discussions, which continued here over the week-end. As a result, there was an increasing tendency to concentrate on emergency action.

This trend was reflected both in the Security Council's decision last night to set up a three-nation Palestine truce commission and in the political committee's decision to give top priority to a French move to safeguard the holy places of Jerusalem.

The truce commission—composed of the United States, France and Belgium—is expected to begin discussions

INDIANA MAN DOESN'T LIKE CAR PAINT JOB

He didn't like the job because:

1. The painters used an unattractive color of paint.
2. They painted only one side of the car, and
3. On the side they painted, they covered windows and all.

Mrs. Boutwell was placed under treatment at the Bastrop General Hospital for a bullet wound in the abdomen. Her conditior was described by physicians as "still very serious" following an operation to save her life this morning.

Deputy Sheriff J. L. Cox said Boutwell shot his wife with a souvenir Japanese pistol about 11 o'clock last night during an argument over Boutwell's drinking. He said Boutwell then left the house but returned later and was trapped by city and state police officers under a bed in the room.

When officers entered the room

Jes' Ramblin'

Miss Sarah Bross' class in home economics at Neville High School received state-wide publicity when the current issue of the Louisiana public schools appeared the past week. This Journal carried on its cover page a group of girls of the 10th grade at Neville busily sewing for the less privileged. These young girls have performed a real service through the garments they have prepared for needy cases. The girls who are shown in the picture are: Nell Cowart, Barbara Wildey, Georgia Vollman, Beverly Vollman, Penny Nichols, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Nichols who modeled for the girls; Betty Freeman, Elaine Walker, Ann Braun, Norma Ray Burke, and Jo Ann Henderson. Betty Ellis was in the original picture but the picture as it appeared unfortunately cut her out of the view. These girls have had, through this class and their work, some excellent training in doing for others who are less fortunate. It should serve as a good lesson later in their lives.

Approximately 40 merchants of the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce will descend upon towns in Caldwell, La Salle, Winn, Jackson, Lincoln and Union parishes Tuesday for the first Good Will Trip made by this group in seven years. Their arrival will be proclaimed by the lively strains of the crack Ouachita Parish High School band of 64 pieces, and sufficiently long stops will be made in towns to enable the visitors to rub shoulders with fellow merchants of the Monroe area. GASOLINE REFINERY EXPLODES IN CALIF.

EL SEGUNDO, Calif., April 24.—(AP)—With a roaring jar that rocked a five-mile radius, a gasoline finishing plant blew up today in Standard Oil of California's sprawling El Segundo refinery.

Thirteen men, most of them fire fighters, were hospitalized for burns. No one was injured in the blast, scores of workmen having been evacuated from the immediate area when the fire broke out 25 minutes before the 3:30 a. m. explosion.

Fire departments from four nearby cities helped local companies bring the blaze under control in little over an hour.

Company officials said an inquiry was under way to determine cause of the second major fire at the refinery in five months. The blast blew a heavy piece of steel nearly a quarter of a mile, awakened thousands of residents in nearby cities and lit the sky with a roaring pillar of flame visible 15 miles away.

Today's blaze was kept away from vast storage tanks at the plant, one of California's largest. One of the tanks blew up last Dec. 5 killing one workman. Its cause was never fully explained, the blast being attributed variously to a bolt of lighting or to static electricity which set off the finished gasoline.

WESTERN AREA CUT BY COLD WEATHER

A storm center dropped the mercury to 21 last night in Yellowstone park, Wyoming, and covered Denver, Cheyenne and other high spots with snow.

Temperatures in the rockies and plateau states ranged from the 20's to the 50's, while the nearby plains states had weather in the high 60's and 70's.

The weather bureau said the storm was expected to clear the area before tomorrow, moving off to the south and east after bringing a hard freeze and sending temperatures down to 15 in the mountains and 25 to 30 on the plains.

Gurney Expects Preliminary Decision To Be Made In Senate Hearings

SENATORS MAY GET BILL TO HALT PLANT SELLING

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—A preliminary decision in the contest about the size and makeup of a powerful combat air force may be reached in the Senate next week.

Senator Gurney (R-SD) told a reporter today that hearings opening Monday morning on a 70-air group money bill "should speed up a decision on this whole problem."

Gurney is chairman of the Senate armed services committee which has been unable to complete its decision on an all-inclusive bill covering expansion of the air force and other armed services, temporary draft, and universal military training (UMT).

Gurney added another item to the defense list today. He said he will introduce Monday a bill to halt sale of all government war plants, machine tools and other equipment that might be needed for "a possible emergency."

ITALIAN OUTCOME HEARTENS EUROPE

Fear Of Russian-American War Still Hovers Over Most Of Continent

PARIS, April 24.—(AP)—Happiness at the anti-Communist victory in Italy has swept like a spring breeze over Western Europe this week but the icy dread of a Russo-American war would not melt.

Democratic diplomats from London to the Dardanelles took new courage. So did the anti-Communist parties in France, the country which felt it was next on the list if Communists won in Italy.

But the first jubilant comments were tempered when two unescapable facts kept demanding attention.

1. In Italy 30 per cent of the population had voted for Russia against the West, and France also had a 30 per cent block of Communist followers that would not dissolve.

2. Two great powers, America and Russia, continued to shoulder each other around in a world that seemed lately too small for both of them.

The first quick result of the West's victory in Italy was a softening of Communist attacks. Communist newspapers from one end of Europe to the other first declared the election results were faked, then published them

BOY KILLS SELF IN TRAGIC GAME

WATSONVILLE, Calif., April 24.—(AP)—A game of "cops and robbers" ended last night in the accidental death by hanging of 11-year-old Merlin K. Tweedy, of Corralitos.

The younger boy said Merlin told him he would demonstrate how "bad guys" are hanged. He placed a slip knot around his neck, climbed a tree and fastened the other end of the rope to a branch. Then his feet slipped and he fell.

Russians Plan 'Safety' Rules

Clay Rejects Idea Of Americans Being Pushed Out Of German Capitol By Tighter Restrictions Of Flights

BERLIN, April 24.—(AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay gave notice today that the United States will continue to use the air corridor between Berlin and the Western occupation zones.

The American commander expressed U. S. policy following reports the Russians plan to restrict air travel of the Western Allies with new "safety" regulations.

He told a news conference:

"We will abide by the quadripartite (Four Power) agreements which set up the air corridor and we will continue use of the air corridor." He repeated this statement, as if for emphasis.

Clay reported the Russians have made no formal proposals to set up the restrictions. Such a program has been officially recommended to the Russian military governor by a Soviet Commission.

He said Four-Power agreement prohibits formation flying or military maneuvers in the air corridors but, when the time comes that you have

STEEL SETS PACE FOR INDUSTRY IN LABOR RELATIONS

PITTSBURGH, April 24.—(AP)—U. S. Steel's refusal to grant wage increases has put a detour sign on the road many labor leaders would lead to "third round" pay hikes.

A national pattern for pay boosts was set in 1946 when the U. S. Steel Corp. and the CIO-United Steelworkers agreed on raises of 18 1/2 cents an hour. In 1947, U. S. Steel again lead the way by granting 15 cent pay hikes.

But this year, U. S. Steel balked at more increases. The corporation broke off wage discussions with the union and said it was cutting prices instead. "Big Steel" said it was not interested in setting the stage for a third wave of post-war pay boosts.

Effects of the steel firm's action on other current negotiations stirred speculation over the week-end. One possible result could be a new wave of strikes, if U. S. Steel's example is followed widely in other industries. The steelworkers, however, have reaffirmed a contractural no strike pledge.

GREEK NAVY HITS GUERRILLA NESTS

ATHENS, April 24.—(AP)—Guns of the Greek navy are bombarding a force of 2,500 guerrillas in the south central area of Greece not far from the Gulf of Corinth, a general staff communique said today.

The naval units joined the army and air force to make it a three-pronged attack on the Communist-led guerrillas.

The communique gave no details of the naval attack, but a frontline correspondent for the newspaper Ethnos said he saw the destroyers Themistocles and Hastings in the gulf of Corinth send shells into guerrilla positions west of Lidoriki, in the western wing of a front extending to Agrappa, 60 miles to the northeast.

Approximately 600 of the 2,500 guerrillas were reported in the area of Lidoriki, which lies about 15 miles inland from the coast and 95 miles northwest of Athens.

A press report said 1,500 guerrillas

JEWS STRUGGLING FOR BUFFER AREA

JERUSALEM, April 24.—(AP)—Jewish militia fought today to take possession of a buffer area to seal off their greatest prize, the port city of Haifa.

While thousands of weary Arabs streamed from the city which was captured by Jews in a spectacular battle Thursday, Haganah guns blazed out at Balad Esh Sheikh and nearby Tirah, two villages about five miles east of the big port. The Arab villages are on the road to Nazareth and Tiberias, a city on the Sea of Galilee from which the Arabs also have been driven by the Jews.

The British said the Arabs asked for a truce at dawn after an all-night fight and agreed to surrender their arms. When only 22 rifles were turned in, however, the Jews delivered a new ultimatum for the delivery of all guns and the fighting was renewed. The latest reports said the British had arranged a temporary truce for the evacuation of women and children from the villages.

Dispatches from Haifa said the Jews were trying to prevent the evacuation of the 37,000 Arabs remaining in the city. The Jews considered the evacuation a political rebuff, and wanted them to remain to demonstrate that Arabs and Jews can live side by side. They offered the Arabs cooperation in solving food and supply problems.

Arab leaders replied to Jewish persuasions, however, that they could not "subject ourselves to conquerors."

Indications were that most of the Arabs would leave the city as a silent protest against the Jewish blitz of the parts of the town not controlled by the British.

The Arabs believed their withdrawal would prevent the British-owned oil refinery in the port area from operating. The refinery has been closed for two weeks and the gasoline shortage is acute. The refinery management said it would not reopen unless both Arab and Jewish laborers returned to work.

Arabs in the city were under a Jewish curfew, virtual house arrest. Haganah said five field guns, mortars and other arms had been found in an inch-by-inch search of Arab quarters.

Arab civilian leaders ordered the evacuation because they were unwilling to attempt to enforce Jewish terms for surrender of arms upon armed Arab volunteers. The city of 130,000 is about half Arab.

The Arab population was being moved across the bay to Acre by British army landing craft and small

SCHWELLENBACH IS REPORTED AS OKAY

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Lewis Schwellenbach, confined in Fort Jay regional hospital, Governors Island, with an "upper respitatory infection," was reported free of temperature late today.

Army authorities said the illness "was not of a serious nature."

An army spokesman said Schwellenbach was taken off the steamer "Cristobal" when it arrived in New York Wednesday. He had been on a non-official trip to Panama.

The spokesman said the Secretary was running a temperature when removed from the ship. He was visited at the hospital yesterday by Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, U. S. A., President Truman's physician.

5 NAVY FLIERS JOKE WHILE WAITING FOR RESCUE SHIP

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—Five navy fliers, who ditched their plane in the Atlantic last night, spent three and a half hours "joking" until a passing liner rescued them from two life rafts.

The plane, a twin-engined Neptune, sank two minutes after it plopped into the icy seas about 40 miles west of Nantucket Light.

The men were returning from routine navigational flight to Bermuda to their base at Quonset, R. I., Naval Air Station when the plane's engines failed.

Two hours after abandoning their plane, the fliers spotted the lights of the U. S. liner Washington "about ten miles away."

"We waited half an hour until it came nearer and then shot up a flare," said Lt. Harvey H. Rouzer, 26, of (727 South Fulton St.) Salisbury, N. C., pilot, after the Washington docked here.

Then, Rouzer said, "we saw a Navy PB-1-W, which had spotted the flare and came toward us. We sent up another flare and it brought another plane, one of our own squadron.

"It circled us and dropped six parachute flares in a circle around our rafts. Then it flew off and buzzed the vessel."

Capt. John W. Anderson of the Washington said he first had thought the plane was on maneuvers, but later, spotting the flares, altered course toward them.

BOGOTA, Colombia, April 24.—(AP)—Mexico told the United States delegation today not to try to obtain advantages from Latin American nations which it was unwilling to grant.

The warning came during a discussion in the Pan American conference of U. S. proposal that Latin American nations agree to give prompt and adequate compensation for property expropriated from foreign investors.

Several Latin American countries, including Mexico and Venezuela, opposed acceptance of the wording of the U. S. proposal on the grounds that it conflicted with their constitutions.

The discussion was held in a special working group of the conference's economic committee which is charged with writing a treaty to improve economic cooperation among the republics of the western hemisphere.

Mexican Delegate Antonio Carrillo Flores said:

"I insist it would be convenient if the United States delegation does not press for this proposal. A few days ago the United States delegation called attention here that this treaty could not amend regulations of the United States securities and exchange commission but now it insists we adopt measures which are openly in conflict with several of our constitutions."

Venezuelan Delegate Luis Lander advocated a general statement on expropriation leaving the procedure of compensation to special two-nation agreements. He said: "We cannot go further than our constitution. We cannot because our Congress would reject the treaty."

The U. S. delegation said it would be better to eliminate the part of the treaty dealing with expropriation than to draft a watered down text. A Mexican proposal that expropriation payments be made promptly and adequately in accordance with the constitution and laws of each country

MAY FELLOWSHIP RITES SCHEDULED

Church Council To Observe Occasion With Luncheon At Frances Hotel

The Twin City Council of Church Women will observe May Fellowship Day on Friday, May 7, beginning with a fellowship luncheon on the Frances hotel terrace at 12 o'clock noon. Mrs. C. K. Crandall, chairman of the Christian social relations committee of the council will have charge of the program.

"This fellowship day is the third of three special days observed worldwide by Christian women," said Mrs. E. C. Gibson, president of the council. "The first of these special days was World Community Day which was the first Friday in November, at which time the school children and church women of the Twin Cities cooperated splendidly in the packing and sending of boxes of school supplies and bundles of clothing to destitute peoples of the world community. The second day observed was World Day of Prayer, February 13. This was a beautiful prayer service—interracial, international and interdenominational—held in the Grace Episcopal Church.

"Now we are to recognize May Fellowship Day, which is annually observed on the first Friday in May, which will be May 7 this year. This observance will give expression to the reality, the strength, the warmth of Christian fellowship of united church women, generated by association in worship, study, action. This May Fellowship Day is the time we celebrate the fact of our unity in the service of Christ in thousands of communities across the nation. It is a time of rededication of the work of the council to the building of Christian community in our town, or city or rural area—and thus of beginning to play our part in the building of Christian World Community.

"For 1948 church women are directing their fellowship to the needs of all children, and in the personal terms of the theme: 'Every Child Is My Child.' The heart of the observance of May Fellowship Day must come through applying the spirit of fellowship continuously in meeting the needs of children in the community.

"The offering to be taken at this meeting is the sharing of our substance as the very real evidence of our commitment to unity in the service of Christ."

LOBBYISTS BUSY IN U. S. CAPITAL

By James Free

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(Special)—Cherry blossoms are fading along the Potomac these spring days, but lobbyists are blooming—officially—in the nation's capital as never before.

This lobby budding process cannot, like the flowers and trees, be attributed to the season. The factor that prompted the lobbyists to bust out all over of late is well known even outside of political horticulture circles! It is a federal government agency known as the department of justice.

A couple of months or so ago, the department began a special investigation of federal lobbyists. It wanted to find out: (1) Whether all the organizations and persons who ought to be registered under the federal regulation of lobbying act (of 1946) had done so, and (2) whether those registered had been filing all the receipts and disbursements reports required under that act.

Mere announcement of the investigation spurred lobbyists' registrations, which from the fall of 1946 to January 1, 1948, totalled 953. (That figure does accurately represent the actual number of lobbyists and/or participating lobby organizations. For some individuals are registered more than once and some organizations are represented by more than one lobbyist.)

Up to this week, there had been 1,167 registrations under the federal lobbying act. That figure meant that 214 registrations had occurred since the first of the year. During the first quarter of 1948, approximately 190 new lobbyists signed up.

That 190 total for the January-March period was almost four times the number registered in the quarter before the justice department began its investigation. It was, moreover, virtually twice as many as were registered in the previous six months.

Such arithmetic can hardly be considered coincidental. Many "Washington representatives" of business concerns, associations of various kinds, labor unions, trade groups, etc., had been slow in registering as lobbyists. Some felt that they did so little actual lobbying that they did not come under the law. Others evidently believed that no serious attempt would be made to enforce the measure.

In spite of the recent rash of registrations, every newspaper correspondent who frequents Capitol Hill knows of several unregistered citizens who do more week-to-week lobbying than many of those who have registered.

We say these men, or women, are lobbying because we know they are personally interested in certain types of legislation and we see them talking with senators and representatives. But are they lobbying? What is lobbying anyway? The answer is not so simple as one might think offhand.

Such a general definition would never do, for legal purposes in connection with the present law, because all amateur, or part-time, nonpaid lobbyists would then have to register. There are literally hundreds of thousands of letter writers, or citizens who sound off in person, who at times seek to influence legislative votes.

Lobbying can be an indirect affair, too. Any person who is paid to get other persons to write, telephone or telegraph their legislators on pending bills, is technically a lobbyist.

The borderline is sometimes thin between a citizen exercising his individual right to tell his congressman and others in the Congress what that citizen thinks about this and that proposed legislation and another citizen whose job includes some more or less professional relations with congressmen.

What makes it tougher to decide just who is and who is not a lobbyist is that there has not been, as yet, any court ruling on the registration law, nor any official definition of a lobbyist. It is commonly accepted that only those who receive money or other compensation for working for or against legislation are lobbyists. It is also generally acknowledged that public officials and newspapermen are exempt from the registration act. Often it is part of their job to express their opinions on pending legislation.

Lastly, one of the most puzzling things about the registration law, is that the question as to whether or not a person should sign up as a lobbyist is left up to the individual to decide. The justice department flatly refuses to tell a person or an organization that they should or should not register. It will cite the law, and tell the person involved to decide for himself.

If the person makes the wrong decision, or thinks he should not register when in fact he should do so, he may be subject to criminal prosecution.

It's rather confusing, and undoubtedly a number of persons have registered as lobbyists who are really no such thing.

IN MOVIELAND

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD, April 24.—(AP)—"This Lana Turner-Bob Topping wedding," said the oldtimer, "will have to go some to beat the hitchings this town has seen."

The old boy took a slug from his phosphate (his ulcer permits nothing stronger) and leaned back in the shiny leather chair. I pumped him for more details.

"Well," he began, "the grand-daddy of the all was the blowout Sam Goldwyn tossed for his romantic stars, Vilma Banky and Rod Laroque. That set the pattern for the big Hollywood weddings. The reception had a tremendous display of food, including rows of turkeys.

"I remember one star insisted on a slice from a certain fowl, but the chef said it was a tough old bird. When the star insisted, the chef admitted the turkey was a cardboard studio prop.

"There were also reports that the caviar was greased bird shot, but I was never able to prove it.

"Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond had a big one, too. Jeanette spent $300 on ropes to hold back the crowds in front of the Wilshire Methodist Church. Deanna Durbin and Shirley Temple also were married there. Deanna had 900 guests, including most of the big names in Hollywood. When she put her gifts on display, it looked like the main floor of a department store.

"Shirley's wedding drew a bigger crowd than most premieres. There were about 5,000 people crowded along Wilshire boulevard and Shirley was nearly mobbed. The little trouper was calm and unruffled by it all. More so than the parson, who had to shoo stray bobbysoxers out of the church.

"When Roz Russell and Freddie Brisson tied the knot, they invited a flock of Hollywood names to meet at Buellton, up the coast. They took over the hotel, motel and bar for the night. To avoid gawkers, they kept the marriage place secret until the last moment. The wedding took place the following day at the Danish town, Solvang, with a big picnic following.

"Carole Lombard and Clark Gable were cagy. They waited until the town's film writers left for the premiere of 'Alexander Graham Bell' in San Francisco, and then eloped to Kingman, Ariz.

"There were other big ones—Norma Shearer and Irving Thalberg, Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels, and some sensational elopements—Mary Pickford and Doug Fairbanks. Adrian and Janet Gaynor, Eve Wynn and Van Johnson.

"But my favorite wedding involved a famous actor. Standing outside the Sunset Boulevard Church was one of his former wives and their daughter, dressed in tatters. The ex-wife, who had a wry sense of humor, waited until the star emerged with his bride, then dispatched the little girl who dashed up to the bridegroom and screamed:

"'Daddy, I'm hungry!'"

A 3-inch common steel shell was found to have burst into 2378 pieces, in an experiment of military explosives.

Weak, Watery Blood Blamed for Making Men and Women Look and Feel Older THAN THEIR YEARS

How do you feel at the end of a day? Is that old time pep and drive lacking? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Thousands now regaining glowing good looks and vitality through the release of vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a general run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

MAY FELLOWSHIP RITES SCHEDULED

Church Council To Observe Occasion With Luncheon At Frances Hotel

The Twin City Council of Church Women will observe May Fellowship Day on Friday, May 7, beginning with a fellowship luncheon on the Frances hotel terrace at 12 o'clock noon. Mrs. C. K. Crandall, chairman of the Christian social relations committee of the council will have charge of the program.

"This fellowship day is the third of three special days observed worldwide by Christian women," said Mrs. E. C. Gibson, president of the council. "The first of these special days was World Community Day which was the first Friday in November, at which time the school children and church women of the Twin Cities cooperated splendidly in the packing and sending of boxes of school supplies and bundles of clothing to destitute peoples of the world community. The second day observed was World Day of Prayer, February 13. This was a beautiful prayer service—interracial, international and interdenominational—held in the Grace Episcopal Church.

"Now we are to recognize May Fellowship Day, which is annually observed on the first Friday in May, which will be May 7 this year. This observance will give expression to the reality, the strength, the warmth of Christian fellowship of united church women, generated by association in worship, study, action. This May Fellowship Day is the time we celebrate the fact of our unity in the service of Christ in thousands of communities across the nation. It is a time of rededication of the work of the council to the building of Christian community in our town, or city or rural area—and thus of beginning to play our part in the building of Christian World Community.

"For 1948 church women are directing their fellowship to the needs of all children, and in the personal terms of the theme: 'Every Child Is My Child.' The heart of the observance of May Fellowship Day must come through applying the spirit of fellowship continuously in meeting the needs of children in the community.

"The offering to be taken at this meeting is the sharing of our substance as the very real evidence of our commitment to unity in the service of Christ."

LOBBYISTS BUSY IN U. S. CAPITAL

By James Free

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(Special)—Cherry blossoms are fading along the Potomac these spring days, but lobbyists are blooming—officially—in the nation's capital as never before.

This lobby budding process cannot, like the flowers and trees, be attributed to the season. The factor that prompted the lobbyists to bust out all over of late is well known even outside of political horticulture circles! It is a federal government agency known as the department of justice.

A couple of months or so ago, the department began a special investigation of federal lobbyists. It wanted to find out: (1) Whether all the organizations and persons who ought to be registered under the federal regulation of lobbying act (of 1946) had done so, and (2) whether those registered had been filing all the receipts and disbursements reports required under that act.

Mere announcement of the investigation spurred lobbyists' registrations, which from the fall of 1946 to January 1, 1948, totalled 953. (That figure does accurately represent the actual number of lobbyists and/or participating lobby organizations. For some individuals are registered more than once and some organizations are represented by more than one lobbyist.)

Up to this week, there had been 1,167 registrations under the federal lobbying act. That figure meant that 214 registrations had occurred since the first of the year. During the first quarter of 1948, approximately 190 new lobbyists signed up.

That 190 total for the January-March period was almost four times the number registered in the quarter before the justice department began its investigation. It was, moreover, virtually twice as many as were registered in the previous six months.

Such arithmetic can hardly be considered coincidental. Many "Washington representatives" of business concerns, associations of various kinds, labor unions, trade groups, etc., had been slow in registering as lobbyists. Some felt that they did so little actual lobbying that they did not come under the law. Others evidently believed that no serious attempt would be made to enforce the measure.

In spite of the recent rash of registrations, every newspaper correspondent who frequents Capitol Hill knows of several unregistered citizens who do more week-to-week lobbying than many of those who have registered.

We say these men, or women, are lobbying because we know they are personally interested in certain types of legislation and we see them talking with senators and representatives. But are they lobbying? What is lobbying anyway? The answer is not so simple as one might think offhand.

Such a general definition would never do, for legal purposes in connection with the present law, because all amateur, or part-time, nonpaid lobbyists would then have to register. There are literally hundreds of thousands of letter writers, or citizens who sound off in person, who at times seek to influence legislative votes.

Lobbying can be an indirect affair, too. Any person who is paid to get other persons to write, telephone or telegraph their legislators on pending bills, is technically a lobbyist.

The borderline is sometimes thin between a citizen exercising his individual right to tell his congressman and others in the Congress what that citizen thinks about this and that proposed legislation and another citizen whose job includes some more or less professional relations with congressmen.

What makes it tougher to decide just who is and who is not a lobbyist is that there has not been, as yet, any court ruling on the registration law, nor any official definition of a lobbyist. It is commonly accepted that only those who receive money or other compensation for working for or against legislation are lobbyists. It is also generally acknowledged that public officials and newspapermen are exempt from the registration act. Often it is part of their job to express their opinions on pending legislation.

Lastly, one of the most puzzling things about the registration law, is that the question as to whether or not a person should sign up as a lobbyist is left up to the individual to decide. The justice department flatly refuses to tell a person or an organization that they should or should not register. It will cite the law, and tell the person involved to decide for himself.

If the person makes the wrong decision, or thinks he should not register when in fact he should do so, he may be subject to criminal prosecution.

It's rather confusing, and undoubtedly a number of persons have registered as lobbyists who are really no such thing.

IN MOVIELAND

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD, April 24.—(AP)—"This Lana Turner-Bob Topping wedding," said the oldtimer, "will have to go some to beat the hitchings this town has seen."

The old boy took a slug from his phosphates (his ulcer permits nothing stronger) and leaned back in the shiny leather chair. I pumped him for more details.

"Well," he began, "the grand-daddy of the all was the blowout Sam Goldwyn tossed for his romantic stars, Vilma Banky and Rod Laroque. That set the pattern for the big Hollywood weddings. The reception had a tremendous display of food, including rows of turkeys.

"I remember one star insisted on a slice from a certain fowl, but the chef said it was a tough old bird. When the star insisted, the chef admitted the turkey was a cardboard studio prop.

"There were also reports that the caviar was greased bird shot, but I was never able to prove it.

"Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond had a big one, too. Jeanette spent $300 on ropes to hold back the crowds in front of the Wilshire Methodist Church. Deanna Durbin and Shirley Temple also were married there. Deanna had 900 guests, including most of the big names in Hollywood. When she put her gifts on display, it looked like the main floor of a department store.

"Shirley's wedding drew a bigger crowd than most premieres. There were about 5,000 people crowded along Wilshire boulevard and Shirley was nearly mobbed. The little trouper was calm and unruffled by it all. More so than the parson, who had to shoo stray bobbysoxers out of the church.

"When Roz Russell and Freddie Brisson tied the knot, they invited a flock of Hollywood names to meet at Buellton, up the coast. They took over the hotel, motel and bar for the night. To avoid gawkers, they kept the marriage place secret until the last moment. The wedding took place the following day at the Danish town, Solvang, with a big picnic following.

"Carole Lombard and Clark Gable were cagy. They waited until the town's film writers left for the premiere of 'Alexander Graham Bell' in San Francisco, and then eloped to Kingman, Ariz.

"There were other big ones—Norma Shearer and Irving Thalberg, Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels, and some sensational elopements—Mary Pickford and Doug Fairbanks, Adrian and Janet Gaynor, Eve Wynn and Van Johnson.

"But my favorite wedding involved a famous actor. Standing outside the Sunset Boulevard Church was one of his former wives and their daughter, dressed in tatters. The ex-wife, who had a wry sense of humor, waited until the star emerged with his bride, then dispatched the little girl who dashed up to the bridegroom and screamed:

"'Daddy, I'm hungry!'"

A 3-inch common steel shell was found to have burst into 2378 pieces, in an experiment of military explosives.

Weak, Watery Blood Blamed for Making Men and Women Look and Feel Older

THAN THEIR YEARS

How do you feel at the end of a day? Is that old time pep and drive lacking? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Thousands now regaining glowing good looks and vitality through the release of vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a general run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. Do The People Remember?

"The people forget," said a self-styled political sage in a street-corner discussion of the campaign for municipal offices the other day. "Give a man the political organization which has been built up for a number of years, and he'll be elected no matter what his record."

Maybe that analysis, however brief and to the point, may have been true some eight or ten years ago, but is it applicable to the reaction of the voters and the taxpayers today? It's a point which certainly is debatable.

In recent years, there have been instances where "the people" haven't forgotten. There have been instances in our neighboring states, as an example, where the people, after blindly following their political mentors, have revolted in the face of inertia, inefficiency, laxity and dereliction of duty, and elected men whose records, both in public life and in private conduct of their affairs, have proven worthy of confidence.

Despite the charge that the present campaign has been relatively "quiet" despite the issues and the candidates involved, we are heartened by the fact that numerous individuals and some groups which have the welfare of the community uppermost in their activities are finding out for themselves just who's who and what's what in the battle for ballots. Among these is the League of Women Voters, an organization of intelligent women who undoubtedly will weigh the past performances and present promises of the various candidates, and will try to enlighten the voters on the issues at stake. And most certainly this group will not be fooled by oratory which promises much and, in the past, has delivered little.

We do not believe that there is an apathy of the voters and that our people can be lulled into a feeling of false security by some candidates, as has been charged. We believe the people as a whole realize that it is to their interest, and theirs and the community's alone, that honest, sincere men are elected to guide our city's destinies for the next four years.

Do "the people forget?" We don't think they will this time.

EFFICIENT, AS USUAL

Score another efficient job by Monroe's excellent fire department.

Last Thursday morning three gasoline tanks burst into flames at the North Louisiana Wholesale Oil and Gas Company. Three companies answered the call, and by cool, systematic work — not to mention plenty of individual bravery — the blazes were extinguished with a minimum of damage and without loss of life, which probably would have occurred if the firemen had employed ordinary methods and natural caution in approaching the task.

The owner of the company, E. N. Jackson, put it this way: "It was the best job of getting an impossible blaze under control I have ever witnessed."

According to our reporter who "covered" the fire, the crews climbed a scaffold surrounding the flaming tanks and succeeded in controlling blazes of the three burning gasoline tanks which could have exploded any minute.

Thus again the local department demonstrated the judgment and thoroughness which have characterized its service to the community for many years. The Grand Old Man of the department, whose passing we all mourned, instilled into his associates the practices which have been carried out by Chief Hales, Captains Faler, Roberts and others of the department, all of whom have contributed to the advancement of this most important facility of our city government. These men have kept apace of modern methods which have proven their worth to the community.

Monroe has one of the best fire departments in the state. The police department could well learn what efficient leadership and competent cooperation can do for all of us by taking a lesson from their next-door neighbors.

OUR JOB

Astronomers have been studying Mars with improved equipment and come to the conclusion that there are no higher forms of vegetable life on that planet. Owing to lack of oxygen, it is doubted if Mars can support even the simplest animal life.

Temperatures always below freezing, there is no liquid water, it never rains and conditions are about what they would be living on an earthly mountain 50,000 feet high.

This is delightful speculation about a faraway place, and a man must be very wise to make such plausible deductions. What a pity that men cannot devise instruments to appraise closer scenes that seem to be just as baffling as Mars.

Can life on this planet continue to exist in company with atomic discoveries? Will man's terrible ambitions and dreadful passions extinguish him? Can't the seers peer at Russian-American relations through a spectroscope and put them in their true colors so we can get somewhere? What about the confusion in America, a land which in its strength should not be confused at all?

Where is the magic that will cause man to forget his more or less divine discontentment and get down to the job of making Earth a grand place?

Projected rocket flights to the Moon and a marvelous scrutiny of Mars stimulate the imagination most pleasantly. But our job is to keep the highest form of life on our own planet from committing suicide.

No amount of American material assistance . . . can accomplish what is required to bring political stability and economic recovery to China. The major effort must be Chinese. —J. Leighton Stuart, U. S. ambassador to China.

Jimmie Fidler IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, April 24—Otto Kruger personally assures me that reports of his death, recently published in England, are entirely unfounded . . . . Donna (Mrs. Tony Owen) Reed and her husband are planning to adopt a third child. . . . Dame Rumor says all's definitely NOT well with the Oona O'Neill-Charles Chaplin idyll. . . . Friends are predicting that Margeurite Chapman and Kurt Kruger, who have a July date in Paris, France, will be married there. . . . Ha!. Bruce Cabot's $1500 watch, stolen some months ago in New York, has been located. The thief hocked it for $25!

Howcome all reporters (count me in) overlooked Gene Lockhart's recent, serious, operation? He's recouping now and will be able to face cameras again soon. . . . MGM has its lawyers working overtime in and effort to forestall a legal battle between Mickey Rooney and his missus over custody of their two children. . . . On Dock Stock's list for fall: Singer Jeri Sullivan and her spouse, Agent Marty Barrett. . . . Time out for Lili Palmer, whose right arm was severely scalded during a sceen for "No Minor Voices."

Toni Doyle, the "Califronia Centennial Girl," wants me to deny a report, broadcast by another reporter, that she's altar-bound with Charles Chaplin, Jr. . . . I hear that Roy Rogers and Dale Evans have finally inked a deal to co-star on a radio program scheduled to take the air next July. . . . The life story of Herbert L. Maris, Pennsylvania lawyer whose hobby is the vindication of unjustly convicted prisoners, and to whom I recently presented my "Americans In The News" Award, is getting movie bids.

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of the week: Universal-International's "Another Part of the Forest" (Fredric March-Dan Duryea-Ann Blyth-Edmund O'Brien). Sombre drama, but so magnificently played that it will win cheers from discerning fans . . . GOOD: Paramount's "Shaggy" (George Nokes-Brenda Joyce-Robert Shayne). A not-too-original story about a boy and his dog, yet it packs a lot of emotional appeal. . . . Columbia's "The Strewberry Roan." Gene Autry gallops home a winner in his first all-color picture. . . . SO-SO: United Artists' "Here Comes Trouble" (William Tracy-Joe Sawyer). Class B fare—and lamentably class-conscious . . . LOW BRIDGE: Screen Guild's "Where the North Begins" (Russell Hayden-Jennifer Holt). The North oughta sue for damages . . . BEST PEFORMANCE: Frederic March in "Another Par of the Forrest."

So Lauren Bacall is suspended again (the second time in three years) for refusing to play a role assigned her by her bosses (?) at Warner Brothers! Being the kind who believes in the sanctity of contracts supposedly entered into in good faith, I used to get irked with players who flouted the terms of their studio agreements, but this time I shall waste no sympathy on the Messrs. Warner. Stellar walkouts at their studio have been epidemic for years—so common that they should, just to relieve the traffic congestion, have two sets of doors, one for players flouncing off the lot and the other for players returning to eat the fatted calf. Until they muster the intestinal fortitude to close the latter doors to a few of their prodigals, thereby teaching their other contractees a needed lesson, they don't rate sympathy.

As long as pictures are sold on the basis of "star appeal," I suppose it's inevitable that the pampered darlings of the screen will be glorified at the expense of other Hollywood workers. Nevertheless, the practice is unfair enough, at times, to be disgusting. I'm thinking just now of a glowing editorial in a local trade paper, in which the writer gives to a few stars who made personal appearances, in order to raise money for the building of a magnificent new hospital at the Motion Picture Relief Fund's Country Home for industry unfortunates, all the credit for the new building. They deserve credit—but far from all of it. The Motion Picture Relief Fund is supported — generously — by virtually everyone in the movie industry. Studio laborers, technicians, publicity men—workers in every department—contribute fixed percentages of their salaries to that particular charity. In the aggregate, their "widow's mites" amount to more money—and a devil of a lot more personal sacrifice—than the money raised by the stars who are being awarded the acclaim.

Judging from Hedy Lamarr's $200,000 damage suit against "LOOK" Magazine, her feelings must have been deeply wounded by that article, which stated, or implied, that her beauty was improved by a nose bob. For what it's worth, let me of'er the lady my consolation. No matter whether that delightful little schnozzle got that way via nature, or via surgery, it's a honey. And men, being far from exacting, won't give a hang about its origin. They're simply interested in the net results.

HUMAN RELATIONS

One of the encouraging aspects connected with the rapid industrial growth of the South is the increasing emphasis being placed on human relations in Southern industry. More and more, industrial management is recognizing the importance of this phase of industrial progress, through personnel departments, through departments of employee relations, public relations, and in many other ways. This movement is headed up in the South through the annual conventions of the Gulf States Industrial Conference, at Biloxi, and the Southern Conference on Human Relations in Industry, at Blue Ridge.

This is as it should be. Machines can never be greater than men. Humanity must ever take precedence over machinery. The human factor must always rank first. Only in this way can democracy ever triumph over totalitarianism.

After all, the conflict between democracy and communism now raging throughout the world and tottering precariously on the brink of war, is nothing more than a conflict of ideas. It is a conflict between those who believe the individual is supreme and those who believe the state is supreme. It is a conflict between those who believe that the individual has certain God-given inherent rights which cannot be taken from him and those who believe the individual has no rights whatsoever that are not granted to him by the state. It is a conflict between those who believe that with the individual rests the responsibility for his own welfare and happiness and those who believe these things must be planned for him.

Probably we place entirely too much emphasis during these hectic days on the nations of Russia and the United States as being at cross-purposes. It is far broader than that; it is a conflict of ideas that spreads throughout the world; it is a conflict of ideas that may very well exist most strongly within any one nation of the world. The nations of Russia and the United States undoubtedly represent most typically the philosophies of communism and democracy respectively, but that does not necessarily mean that the opposite philosophy is excluded in the minds of the people in either nation.

So far as the United States is concerned, this means that we must continue to place human rights first, that we must continue to improve our standard of living, that we must ever look foward to making the Golden Rule effective in our every day life. This does not mean that we need expect Utopia tomorrow or even next day, or that differences of opinion will not continue to rasie, or that the wants of all can be satisfied. It is simply a goal we must ever keep in mind, else here, too, the opposite philosophies of communism and state socialism and totalitarianisms of other kinds will gain a foothold and eventually dominate the people.

So far as the South is concerned, this emphasis on human rights in industry is perhaps of even more importance than in the rest of the nation. In the first place, industry is growing more rapidly in the South than elsewhere. Industrial growth always brings problems of human relationships, or problems in the meeting of minds with regard to wages and welfare provisions and in many other ways. Only by handling these problems in the most intelligent and humanitarian way can the growth of industry in the South be successfully guided and produce real benefits to the South and its people. In the second place, the South has traditionally been the stronghold in the land of states rights, local self-government, and individual freedom, all of which are merely symptomatic of adherence to, and belief in, democracy. Human rights cannot be ignored if these traditions are to be preserved. A great responsibility lies on industrial management in the South. There is every indication that it will be met.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

What of the Jews in their ancient religious history of the Holy Land that they once occupied free from the dangers and difficulties that beset them in Palestine today?

Such a period in the life of Israel followed the return from the exile and cantivity in Babylon, about 500 years before the coming of Jesus Christ.

The story of it is in the Bible books of Nehemiah and Ezra, with much light on the life of the people and their social, moral and religious conditions and problems to be found in the later prophetic books of the Old Testament, such as Haggai, Micah and Malachi.

That restoration of an exiled people was not accomplished without danger and many difficulties. It required the genius, courage, and determined idealism of a military leader like Nehemiah, as well as the reforming zeal of a commanding religious leader like Ezra.

Not all the Jewish exiles returned from Babylon, when the rise of a new dynasty under Cyrus made the return possible. After 50 years or more of exile few of the organized exiles were capable of returning. And many of them, under the comparative freedom they had enjoyed in Babylonian captivity, had greatly prospered and chose to remain there. So successful were those that remained that they established a Jewish life, with schools and literature, the Babylonian Talmud, that survived all changes of rulers and dynasties, and lasted until the 11th Century of our Christian era.

The Jews who returned to their homeland must have been somewhat of the type of Zionists today, though their zeal seems to have been deeply for their fathers. Some conception of their passionate zeal may be found in the 137th Psalm.

In all this history there are pages of inspirations that have kept Judaism vital through the ages. The restoration was destined to have a profound influence upon the world and an intimate relation to the rise and spread of Christianity.

Many non-Jews in the Pagan world were drawn to Judaism by its superior morality. These converts, known as "proselytes," were among those to whom Paul successfully appealed with his conviction that Judaism found its fulfillment in Christ. Both Judaism and Christianity have survived, and they are both in the books we call the Bible.

The hope of the world is in that book and in the light and life that it offers mankind. "Watchman, what of the night?" And the coming day.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

THE DECREASING FARMER

Many of the changes that have come to the United States since we came into the Twentieth Century are due to causes other than politics. For instance, the steady movement off the farm is not the least of them.

Much of what might be called the American way of life was a farmer's way of life. The emphasis on the family, the general political, economic and social conservatism of our people was characteristic of those who owned their own land, their own homes, their own lives. The farmer, if poor, was never driven; he never developed a slave psychology. He was never afraid. He might be mortgaged but seldom feared the monthly bill collector. He could eat even if only what he himself produced.

Before 1870, more than half of the American people were farmers; since then the agricultural population has been reduced to less than one-fifth. That reduction has continued since 1929, when 24.9 percent of our people were farmers; in 1947, the farmer amounted to only 19.3 percent.

Of course, it does not require as many persons to produce farm products today as it used to, because of the mechanization of agricultural processes. If the chores can be done by a machine, sons and daughters step off the farms for work and life in the mills and factories and stores in the cities. From the standpoint of economics, the movement off the farm may benefit the individual because his cash income is increased, his material standard of living is appreciably raised, and the social advantages for his children may be improved.

However, city folks think differently from country folks. Few American farmers can possibly believe, as so many New Yorkers do, for instance, that the United States of America is a punk country and ought to be pushed aside for some European conqueror. Love of the soil is more readily translated into love of country than is possible for those who pound sidewalks and live in an atmosphere of neon signs and the excitements of restaurants and saloons. Families that feed themselves, where mamma cooks and the boys bring in the firewood, are closer to wholesome ideas than folks who live in the subways and eat in coffee shops and corner drug stores. It is the way of life that is much more important than the economics of the situation.

And that is something that we shall have to think about as our cities grow larger and the mind lives under the constant tattoo of city noises, of auto horns and radios and the constant motion of vehicles. The American family is being scattered and therefore ceases to exist, when there is no longer a central homestead and brothers live a continent apart and cousins do not know each other at all. It is a very different America we are molding when the family name, related to a geographical area, has lost all meaning.

Yet, that, the figures as well as observation show, is happening and if it continues at the terrific pace it has been moving since 1870, the American family will, at best, be a weak institution, useful for the infant years and then lost.

Perhaps this is one of the reason for our enormous divorce rate. For whereas it is understandable that those who devote themselves to what is fancifully called Cafe Society in the big cities, look lightly upon marriage as they look lightly upon all else, it becomes a caution when the divorce rate is high among the total population. We speak then of broken families. But is it not possible that the city families are broken even before a divorce takes place?

For instance, the farmer and his wife are constantly close to each other and to their children during the entire day. They live in a partnership and have to practice mutual aid to survive. But that is not generally a characteristic of city life. Everybody rushes off after breakfast and returns tired from work or even school toward evening. Absence makes them strangers. It's like the little boy who wondered who that strange man was about the house. It was, of course, his father. How would the little boy know?

Our Children

AN ENGAGEMENT

Decent people keep their engagements. Only in unforeseen circumstances that make this impossible can an engagement be honorably broken. Then the apology and the explanation must be promptly forwarded. Changing one's mind or doing something that appears pleasanter is just not done.

Children lean hard on the engagements their elders make with them. They expect them to be kept. They hold toward such promises the same faith that they have in the coming of tomorrow, and that faith is not to be treated lightly. Promises must be kept, and only when events make that impossible can the promise be broken without loss of faith on the child's side. The explanation and the apology must be as prompt, as sincere as in the case of the older people.

Older people, being seasoned to disappointment, can bear it better. Little children, whose faith in their elders' word is absolute, cannot understand a broken promise, a cancelled engagement and one must be patient, gentle and conciliatory about such a happening.

Polite conventions apply alike to adults and children. But the adult understands and the children do not, so the shock of them must at times be softened for the young ones. Grandma promises to take Bobbie to the circus; but that day Uncle Tom from China appears and Grandmother cannot keep her promise. Uncle Tom's coming creates a social emergency, and this must be explained to Bobbie who will accept it in all faith and confidence because Grandmother keeps her word on all occasions and this must be something special.

But suppose Aunt Ellen, who is not a member of that branch of the family and feels free to do so, invites Bobbie to go along with her to the circus. Can he go? Why not? There are some folk so duty-minded for others that they think that a child in such a situation should be allowed to suffer disappointment so as to get used to it. I am not on their side. I am for Aunt Ellen and Bobbie and his mother who gladly sent them off to the circus.

There will be plenty of time in the years to come for five-year-old Bobbie to bear disappointment. Mother can stay home cheerfully enough and help Grandma entertain Uncle Tom from China. But Bobbie's heart is in the circus and, if the grief of disappointment can be spared him, I say spare it.

The convention that holds a child to the adult code of manners is a bit too severe for a five-year-old. His turn will come in time. Keep engagements with him, if at all possible, and spare him grief whenever it can be done.

Weary children are often more difficult to get to bed at night. Dr. Fatri offers help to parents of children who cannot get to sleep at night in his leaflet P-28, "Bedtime Troubles."

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4 If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

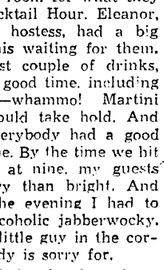
Pitching Horseshoes

By Billy Rose



I'm not much of a drinking man. And for two good reasons.

First, hard liquor tastes to me like something you take for the grippe.

Second, I've been selling it in my nightclubs for years, and taking on a cargo of lightning bugs has no glamour for me. it would be like a soda jerk going on a banana split binge.

But before the Anti-Saloon League sends around that long white ribbon, let me say I don't object to other people drinking. When we have neighbors over for a game of gin rummy, the bottles with the fancy stickers are right out in plain view, and all the guests have to say is "When."

There's only one concoction at which I draw the line. That's the Martini. Scotch and soda is a lullaby that puts you to sleep in easy stages. The Martini is a baseball bat to the base of the skull. Eight ounces and dowagers do the bumps.

This yellow mixture has been giving me a bad time for a lot of years. Especially during the summer months. Let me explain.

About ten years ago Eleanor and I bought a place up in Westchester. Between June and September we usually had some friends up for the week ends. As a rule, they were witty and civilized folk, and I enjoyed their company very much—that is, during the day.

But around seven o'clock each evening, these makeshift athletes would come off the tennis court and congregate in the game room for what they called Happy Cocktail Hour. Eleanor, always the good hostess, had a big pitcher of Martinis waiting for them.

During the first couple of drinks, everybody had a good time, including me. And then—whammo! Martini number three would take hold. And from then on everybody had a good time, excluding me. By the time we hit the dinner table at nine, my guests were more bleary than bright. And for the rest of the evening I had to listen to their alcoholic jabberwocky. I was that sober little guy in the corner who everybody is sorry for.

After taking this beating for a hundred week ends, I decided to do something about it. And the battle of Rose vs. Martini made the David and Goliath brawl look like kid stuff.

Let me give it you round by round. I started by holding a stop-watch on my guests. Very few of them consumed more than two Martinis during the first hour. I realized that if I could throw some hot soup into them before they buddied up to the third Martini, everything would be all right. The problem was how to get my guests to the dinner table an hour earlier. I had to have a logical reason. I didn't want people to go around saying Eleanor was married to one of Carrie Nation's cousins.

The plan I finally evolved darn near broke me. It was to build a small movie theatre and substitute Ginger Rogers for gin, Veronica Lake for vermouth and Olivier for the olive. This meant ripping the stalls out of the stable, bringing in half a mile of electric cable, building an asbestos booth, buying a couple of projectors, and then fast-talking the film companies out of their new pictures. By hocking my ASCAP royalties, I finally swung it, and last July opened what George Jessell calls "Loew's Rose."

We'll, it's been worth every kopeck it set me back. My week ends no longer get lost. At lunch I casually remark, "We're going to see the new Bing Crosby movie tonight. We'll have to start dinner early because the operator lives in Mt. Vernon.

Nobody squawks. And so, instead of sitting down at nine with a gang of howling holligans, I pick up my soup spoon at eight in the company of reasonable people. When a witty playwright comes to the house, he talks like a witty playwright.

After the movies, the guests usually come back to the game room. If they feel like a Martini, it's all right with me. My bedroom is on the other side of the house.

BIBLE THOUGHTS

But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him.—Hebrews 11:6.

Faith is a grasping of Almighty power;

Do The People Remember?

"The people forget," said a self-styled political sage in a street-corner discussion of the campaign for municipal offices the other day. "Give a man the political organization which has been built up for a number of years, and he'll be elected no matter what his record."

Maybe that analysis, however brief and to the point, may have been true some eight or ten years ago, but is it applicable to the reaction of the voters and the taxpayers today? It's a point which certainly is debatable.

In recent years, there have been instances where "the people" haven't forgotten. There have been instances in our neighboring states, as an example, where the people, after blindly following their political mentors, have revolted in the face of inertia, inefficiency, laxity and dereliction of duty, and elected men whose records, both in public life and in private conduct of their affairs, have proven worthy of confidence.

Despite the charge that the present campaign has been relatively "quiet" despite the issues and the candidates involved, we are heartened by the fact that numerous individuals and some groups which have the welfare of the community uppermost in their activities are finding out for themselves just who's who and what's what in the battle for ballots. Among these is the League of Women Voters, an organization of intelligent women who undoubtedly will weigh the past performances and present promises of the various candidates, and will try to enlighten the voters on the issues at stake. And most certainly this group will not be fooled by oratory which promises much and, in the past, has delivered little.

We do not believe that there is an apathy of the voters and that our people can be lulled into a feeling of false security by some candidates, as has been charged. We believe the people as a whole realize that it is to their interest, and theirs and the community's alone, that honest, sincere men are elected to guide our city's destinies for the next four years.

Do "the people forget?" We don't think they will this time.

EFFICIENT, AS USUAL

Score another efficient job by Monroe's excellent fire department.

Last Thursday morning three gasoline tanks burst into flames at the North Louisiana Wholesale Oil and Gas Company. Three companies answered the call, and by cool, systematic work—not to mention plenty of individual bravery—the blazes were extinguished with a minimum of damage and without loss of life, which probably would have occurred if the firemen had employed ordinary methods and natural caution in approaching the task.

The owner of the company, E. N. Jackson, put it this way: "It was the best job of getting an impossible blaze under control I have ever witnessed."

According to our reporter who "covered" the fire, the crews climbed a scaffold surrounding the flaming tanks and succeeded in controlling blazes of the three burning gasoline tanks which could have exploded any minute.

Thus again the local department demonstrated the judgment and thoroughness which have characterized its service to the community for many years. The Grand Old Man of the department, whose passing we all mourned, instilled into his associates the practices which have been carried out by Chief Hales, Captains Faler, Roberts and others of the department, all of whom have contributed to the advancement of this most important facility of our city government. These men have kept apace of modern methods which have proven their worth to the community.

Monroe has one of the best fire departments in the state. The police department could well learn what efficient leadership and competent cooperation can do for all of us by taking a lesson from their next-door neighbors.

OUR JOB

Astronomers have been studying Mars with improved equipment and come to the conclusion that there are no higher forms of vegetable life on that planet. Owing to lack of oxygen, it is doubted if Mars can support even the simplest animal life.

Temperatures always below freezing, there is no liquid water, it never rains and conditions are about what they would be living on an earthly mountain 50,000 feet high.

This is delightful speculation about a faraway place, and a man must be very wise to make such plausible deductions. What a pity that men cannot devise instruments to appraise closer scenes that seem to be just as baffling as Mars.

Can life on this planet continue to exist in company with atomic discoveries? Will man's terrible ambitions and dreadful passions extinguish him? Can't the seers peer at Russian-American relations through a spectroscope and put them in their true colors so we can get somewhere? What about the confusion in America, a land which in its strength should not be confused at all?

Where is the magic that will cause man to forget his more or less divine discontentment and get down to the job of making Earth a grand place?

Projected rocket flights to the Moon and a marvelous scrutiny of Mars stimulate the imagination most pleasantly. But our job is to keep the highest form of life on our own planet from committing suicide.

No amount of American material assistance . . . can accomplish what is required to bring political stability and economic recovery to China. The major effort must be Chinese. —J. Leighton Stuart, U. S. ambassador to China.

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, April 24—Otto Kruger personally assures me that reports of his death, recently published in England, are entirely unfounded . . . . Donna (Mrs. Tony Owen) Reed and her husband are planning to adopt a third child. . . . Dame Rumor says all's definitely NOT well with the Oona O'Neili-Charles Chaplin idyll. . . . Friends are predicting that Margeurite Chapman and Kurt Kruger, who have a July date in Paris, France, will be married there. . . . Ha!. Bruce Cabot's $1500 watch, stolen some months ago in New York, has been located. The thief hocked it for $25!

Howcome all reporters (count me in) overlooked Gene Lockhart's recent, serious, operation? He's recouping now and will be able to face cameras again soon. . . . MGM has its lawyers working overtime in and effort to forestall a legal battle between Mickey Rooney and his missus over custody of their two children. . . . On Dock Stock's list for fall: Singer Jeri Sullivan and her spouse, Agent Marty Barrett. . . . Time out for Lili Palmer, whose right arm was severely scalded during a sceen for "No Minor Voices."

Toni Doyle, the "Califronia Centennial Girl," wants me to deny a report, broadcast by another reporter, that she's altar-bound with Charles Chaplin, Jr. . . . I hear that Roy Rogers and Dale Evans have finally inked a deal to co-star on a radio program scheduled to take the air next July. . . . The life story of Herbert L. Maris, Pennsylvania lawyer whose hobby is the vindication of unjustly convicted prisoners, and to whom I recently presented my "Americans In The News" Award, is getting movie bids.

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of the week: Universal-International's "Another Part of the Forest" (Fredric March-Dan Duryea-Ann Blyth-Edmund O'Brien). Sombre drama, but so magnificently played that it will win cheers from discerning fans . . . GOOD: Paramount's "Shaggy" (George Nokes-Brenda Joyce-Robert Shayne). A not-too-original story about a boy and his dog, yet it packs a lot of emotional appeal. . . . Columbia's "The Strewberry Roan." Gene Autry gallops home a winner in his first all-color picture. . . . SO-SO: United Artists' "Here Comes Trouble" (William Tracy-Joe Sawyer). Class B fare—and lamentably class-conscious . . . LOW BRIDGE: Screen Guild's "Where the North Begins" (Russell Hayden-Jennifer Holt). The North oughta sue for damages . . . BEST PEFORMANCE: Frederic March in "Another Par of the Forrest."

So Lauren Bacall is suspended again (the second time in three years) for refusing to play a role assigned her by her bosses (?) at Warner Brothers! Being the kind who believes in the sanctity of contracts supposedly entered into in good faith, I used to get irked with players who flouted the terms of their studio agreements, but this time I shall waste no sympathy on the Messrs. Warner. Stellar walkouts at their studio have been epidemic for years—so common that they should, just to relieve the traffic congestion, have two sets of doors, one for players flouncing off the lot and the other for players returning to eat the fatted calf. Until they muster the intestinal fortitude to close the latter doors to a few of their prodigals, thereby teaching their other contractees a needed lesson, they don't rate sympathy.

As long as pictures are sold on the basis of "star appeal," I suppose it's inevitable that the pampered darlings of the screen will be glorified at the expense of other Hollywood workers. Nevertheless, the practice is unfair enough, at times, to be disgusting. I'm thinking just now of a glowing editorial in a local trade paper, in which the writer gives to a few stars who made personal appearances, in order to raise money for the building of a magnificent new hospital at the Motion Picture Relief Fund's Country Home for industry unfortunates, all the credit for the new building. They deserve credit—but far from all of it. The Motion Picture Relief Fund is supported—generously—by virtually everyone in the movie industry. Studio laborers, technicians, publicity men—workers in every department—contribute fixed percentages of their salaries to that particular charity. In the aggregate, their "widow's mites" amount to more money—and a devil of a lot more personal sacrifice—than the money raised by the stars who are being awarded the acclaim.

Judging from Hedy Lamarr's $200,000 damage suit against "LOOK" Magazine, her feelings must have been deeply wounded by that article, which stated, or implied, that her beauty was improved by a nose bob. For what it's worth, let me of er the lady my consolation. No matter whether that delightful little schnozzle got that way via nature, or via surgery, it's a honey. And men, being far from exacting, won't give a hang about its origin. They're simply interested in the net results.

Second, I've been selling it in my nightclubs for years, and taking on a cargo of lightning bugs has no glamour for me. It would be like a soda jerk going on a banana split binge.

But before the Anti-Saloon League sends around that long white ribbon, let me say I don't object to other people drinking. When we have neighbors over for a game of gin rummy, the bottles with the fancy stickers are right out in plain view, and all the guests have to say is "When."

There's only one concoction at which I draw the line. That's the Martini. Scotch and soda is a lullaby that puts you to sleep in easy stages. The Martini is a baseball bat to the base of the skull. Eight ounces and dowagers do the bumps.

This yellow mixture has been giving me a bad time for a lot of years. Especially during the summer months. Let me explain.

About ten years ago Eleanor and I bought a place up in Westchester. Between June and September we usually had some friends up for the week ends. As a rule, they were witty and civilized folk, and I enjoyed their company very much—that is, during the day.

But around seven o'clock each evening, these makeshift athletes would come off the tennis court and congregate in the game room for what they called Happy Cocktail Hour. Eleanor, always the good hostess, had a big pitcher of Martinis waiting for them.

During the first couple of drinks, everybody had a good time, including me. And then—whammo! Martini number three would take hold. And from then on everybody had a good time, excluding me. By the time we hit the dinner table at nine, my guests were more bleary than bright. And for the rest of the evening I had to listen to their alcoholic jabberwocky. I was that sober little guy in the corner who everybody is sorry for.

After taking this beating for a hundred week ends, I decided to do something about it. And the battle of Rose vs. Martini made the David and Goliath brawl look like kid stuff.

Let me give it you round by round.

I started by holding a stop-watch on my guests. Very few of them consumed more than two Martinis during the first hour. I realized that if I could throw some hot soup into them before they buddied up to the third Martini, everything would be all right. The problem was how to get my guests to the dinner table an hour earlier. I had to have a logical reason. I didn't want people to go around saying Eleanor was married to one of Carrie Nation's cousins.

The plan I finally evolved darn near broke me. It was to build a small movie theatre and substitute Ginger Rogers for gin, Veronica Lake for vermouth and Olivier for the olive. This meant ripping the stalls out of the stable, bringing in half a mile of electric cable, building an asbestos booth, buying a couple of projectors, and then fast-talking the film companies out of their new pictures. By hocking my ASCAP royalties, I finally swung it, and last July opened what George Jessell calls "Loew's Rose."

We'll, it's been worth every kopeck it set me back. My week ends no longer get lost. At lunch I casually remark, "We're going to see the new Bing Crosby movie tonight. We'll have to start dinner early because the operator lives in Mt. Vernon.

Nobody squawks. And so, instead of sitting down at nine with a gang of howling holligans, I pick up my soup spoon at eight in the company of reasonable people. When a witty playwright comes to the house, he talks like a witty playwright.

After the movies, the guests usually come back to the game room. If they feel like a Martini, it's all right with me. My bedroom is on the other side of the house.

DOWN SOUTH
By Thurman Sensing
Director of Research, Southern States Industrial Council

HUMAN RELATIONS

One of the encouraging aspects connected with the rapid industrial growth of the South is the increasing emphasis being placed on human relations in Southern industry. More and more, industrial management is recognizing the importance of this phase of industrial progress, through personnel departments, through departments of employee relations, public relations, and in many other ways. This movement is headed up in the South through the annual conventions of the Gulf States Industrial Conference, at Biloxi, and the Southern Conference on Human Relations in Industry, at Blue Ridge.

This is as it should be. Machines can never be greater than men. Humanity must ever take precedence over machinery. The human factor must always rank first. Only in this way can democracy ever triumph over totalitarianism.

After all, the conflict between democracy and communism now raging throughout the world and tottering precariously on the brink of war, is nothing more than a conflict of ideas. It is a conflict between those who believe the individual is supreme and those who believe the state is supreme. It is a conflict between those who believe that the individual has certain God-given inherent rights which cannot be taken from him and those who believe the individual has no rights whatsoever that are not granted to him by the state. It is a conflict between those who believe that with the individual rests the responsibility for his own welfare and happiness and those who believe these things must be planned for him.

Probably we place entirely too much emphasis during these hectic days on the nations of Russia and the United States as being at cross-purposes. It is far broader than that; it is a conflict of ideas that spreads throughout the world; it is a conflict of ideas that may very well exist most strongly within any one nation of the world.

The nations of Russia and the United States undoubtedly represent most typically the philosophies of communism and democracy respectively, but that does not necessarily mean that the opposite philosophy is excluded in the minds of the people in either nation.

So far as the United States is concerned, this means that we must continue to place human rights first, that we must continue to improve our standard of living, that we must ever look foward to making the Golden Rule effective in our every day life. This does not mean that we need expect Utopia tomorrow or even next day, or that differences of opinion will not continue to rasie, or that the wants of all can be satisfied. It is simply a goal we must ever keep in mind, else here, too, the opposite philosophies of communism and state socialism and totalitarianisms of other kinds will gain a foothold and eventually dominate the people.

So far as the South is concerned, this emphasis on human rights in industry is perhaps of even more importance than in the rest of the nation. In the first place, industry is growing more rapidly in the South than elsewhere. Industrial growth always brings problems of human relationships, or problems in the meeting of minds with regard to wages and welfare provisions and in many other ways. Only by handling these problems in the most intelligent and humanitarian way can the growth of industry in the South be successfully guided and produce real benefits to the South and its people. In the second place, the South has traditionally been the stronghold in the land of states rights, local self-government, and individual freedom, all of which are merely symptomatic of adherence to, and belief in, democracy. Human rights cannot be ignored if these traditions are to be preserved. A great responsibility lies on industrial management in the South. There is every indication that it will be met.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

What of the Jews in their ancient religious history of the Holy Land that they once occupied free from the dangers and difficulties that beset them in Palestine today?

Such a period in the life of Israel followed the return from the exile and captivity in Babylon, about 500 years before the coming of Jesus Christ.

The story of it is in the Bible books of Nehemiah and Ezra, with much light on the life of the people and their social, moral and religious conditions and problems to be found in the later prophetic books of the Old Testament, such as Haggai, Micah and Malachi.

That restoration of an exiled people was not accomplished without danger and many difficulties. It required the genius, courage, and determined idealism of a military leader like Nehemiah, as well as the reforming zeal of a commanding religious leader like Ezra.

Not all the Jewish exiles returned from Babylon, when the rise of a new dynasty under Cyrus made the return possible. After 50 years or more of exile few of the organized exiles were capable of returning. And many of them, under the comparative freedom they had enjoyed in Babylonian captivity, had greatly prospered and chose to remain there. So successful were those that remained that they established a Jewish life, with schools and literature, the Babylonian Talmud, that survived all changes of rulers and dynasties, and lasted until the 11th Century of our Christian era.

The Jews who returned to their homeland must have been somewhat of the type of Zionists today, though their zeal seems to have been deeply for their fathers. Some conception of their passionate zeal may be found in the 137th Psalm.

In all this history there are pages of inspirations that have kept Judaism vital through the ages. The restoration was destined to have a profound influence upon the world and an intimate relation to the rise and spread of Christianity.

Many non-Jews in the Pagan world were drawn to Judaism by its superior morality. These converts, known as "proselytes," were among those to whom Paul successfully appealed with his conviction that Judaism found its fulfillment in Christ. Both Judaism and Christianity have survived, and they are both in the books we call the Bible.

The hope of the world is in that book and in the light and life that it offers mankind. "Watchman, what of the night?" And the coming day.

These Days
By George E. Sokolsky

THE DECREASING FARMER

Many of the changes that have come to the United States since we came into the Twentieth Century are due to causes other than politics. For instance, the steady movement off the farm is not the least of them.

Much of what might be called the American way of life was a farmer's way of life. The emphasis on the family, the general political, economic and social conservatism of our people was characteristic of those who owned their own land, their own homes, their own lives. The farmer, if poor, was never driven; he never developed a slave psychology. He was never afraid. He might be mortgaged but seldom feared the monthly bill collector. He could eat even if only what he himself produced.

Before 1870, more than half of the American people were farmers; since then the agricultural population has been reduced to less than one-fifth. That reduction has continued since 1929, when 24.9 percent of our people were farmers; in 1947, the farmer amounted to only 19.3 percent.

Of course, it does not require as many persons to produce farm products today as it used to, because of the mechanization of agricultural processes. If the chores can be done by a machine, sons and daughters step off the farms for work and life in the mills and factories and stores in the cities. From the standpoint of economics, the movement off the farm may benefit the individual because his cash income is increased, his material standard of living is appreciably raised, and the social advantages for his children may be improved.

However, city folks think differently from country folks. Few American farmers can possibly believe, as so many New Yorkers do, for instance, that the United States of America is a punk country and ought to be pushed aside for some European conqueror. Love of the soil is more readily translated into love of country than is possible for those who pound sidewalks and live in an atmosphere of neon signs and the excitements of restaurants and saloons. Families that feed themselves, where mamma cooks and the boys bring in the firewood, are closer to wholesome ideas than folks who live in the subways and eat in coffee shops and corner drug stores. It is the way of life that is much more important than the economics of the situation.

And that is something that we shall have to think about as our cities grow larger and the mind lives under the constant tattoo of city noises, of auto horns and radios and the constant motion of vehicles. The American family is being scattered and therefore ceases to exist, when there is no longer a central homestead and brothers live a continent apart and cousins do not know each other at all. It is a very different America we are molding when the family name, related to a geographical area, has lost all meaning.

Yet, that, the figures as well as observation show, is happening and if it continues at the terrific pace it has been moving since 1870, the American family will, at best, be a weak institution, useful for the infant years and then lost.

Perhaps this is one of the reason for our enormous divorce rate. For whereas it is understandable that those who devote themselves to what is fancifully called Cafe Society in the big cities, look lightly upon marraige as they look lightly upon all else, it becomes a caution when the divorce rate is high among the total population. We speak then of broken families. But is it not possible that the city families are broken even before a divorce takes place?

For instance, the farmer and his wife are constantly close to each other and to their children during the entire day. They live in a partnership and have to practice mutual aid to survive. But that is not generally a characteristic of city life. Everybody rushes off after breakfast and returns tired from work or even school toward evening. Absence makes them strangers. It's like the little boy who wondered who that strange man was about the house. It was, of course, his father. How would the little boy know?

Our Children

AN ENGAGEMENT

Decent people keep their engagements. Only in unforeseen circumstances that make this impossible can an engagement be honorably broken. Then the apology and the explanation must be promptly forwarded. Changing one's mind or doing something that appears pleasanter is just not done.

Children lean hard on the engagements their elders make with them. They expect them to be kept. They hold toward such promises the same faith that they have in the coming of tomorrow, and that faith is not to be treated lightly. Promises must be kept, and only when events make that impossible can the promise be broken without loss of faith on the child's side. The explanation and the apology must be as prompt, as sincere as in the case of the older people.

Older people, being seasoned to disappointment, can bear it better. Little children, whose faith in their elders' word is absolute, cannot understand a broken promise, a cancelled engagement and one must be patient, gentle and conciliatory about such a happening.

Polite conventions apply alike to adults and children. But the adult understands and the children do not, so the shock of them must at times be softened for the young ones. Grandma promises to take Bobbie to the circus; but that day Uncle Tom from China appears and Grandmother cannot keep her promise. Uncle Tom's coming creates a social emergency, and this must be explained to Bobbie who will accept it in all faith and confidence because Grandmother keeps her word on all occasions and this must be something special.

But suppose Aunt Ellen, who is not a member of that branch of the family and feels free to do so, invites Bobbie to go along with her to the circus. Can he go? Why not? There are some folk so duty-minded for others that they think that a child in such a situation should be allowed to suffer disappointment so as to get used to it. I am not on their side. I am for Aunt Ellen and Bobbie and his mother who gladly sent them off to the circus.

There will be plenty of time in the years to come for five-year-old Bobbie to bear disappointment. Mother can stay home cheerfully enough and help Grandma entertain Uncle Tom from China. But Bobbie's heart is in the circus and, if the grief of disappointment can be spared him, I say spare it.

The convention that holds a child to the adult code of manners is a bit too severe for a five-year-old. His turn will come in time. Keep engagements with him, if at all possible, and spare him grief whenever it can be done.

Weary children are often more difficult to get to bed at night. Dr. Fatri offers help to parents of children who cannot get to sleep at night in his leaflet P-23, "Bedtime Troubles."

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

BIBLE THOUGHTS

But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him.—Hebrews 11:6.

Faith is a grasping of Almighty power;

The grand and blessed hour in which the things impossible to me
Become the possible, O Lord, through Thee.

The organization of a new Cub Scout Pack in West Monroe was initiated Friday night with a large attendance of enthusiastic parents from all over the city. A. C. Lea, Cub Scout commissioner presiding over this training meeting, which was attended by over fifty parents of prospective Cubs.

This was the first of three sessions of the Cub conference, and the entire program emphasized the place of parents in this younger boy phase of the Boy Scout program. An interesting movie entitled "The Cub Scout in the Home" was shown to the group and other items concerning the parent's part in this home centered, neighborhood directed program were discussed. Included in this meeting was an explanation of the Cub Scout literature, the Cub Pack and Den organization, an explanation of the duties of leaders, and a demonstration of the Cub entrance requirements.

It was announced that the theme of the second session of the Cub conference will be "The Cub Scout Den" and the third meeting is to be devoted to the Cub Pack and its organization. At the end of the third meeting, organization of the new pack is to be completed. Movies, demonstrations, and dramatizations will be featured in these meetings. The second meeting is to be held at the First Baptist Church, West Monroe, Friday, April 30, at 7:30 p. m.

W. Monroe Man Nears 100 Feeling 'Chipper'

Aged Courier Boy In Civil War Feels Fine In Retirement In Home Of Son; Diet, Two Eggs Per Meal

By Margaret Gambrell

A 'Southern Gentleman' as described in romantic novels of Civil War days, celebrated his 99th birthday in West Monroe, yesterday.

George Whitfield Tyner commented: "I don't feel any older than I did the day I was 21 and follow a diet of two eggs each meal."

Tyner, a distinguished one-time plantation owner and planter, is in excellent health for one his age and enjoys all modern conveniences of the present day.

"Pap," as he is called by friends and the family, was quite active until his last serious illness fifteen years ago. At that time, doctors gave him up, but miraculously he recovered.

Born in Lee County, Miss., April 24, 1849, he described his father as being "a doctor during the week and a Methodist minister on Sunday." There were 12 children, six boys and six girls, in the plantation family, according to the oldster, who is now a great-great grand father and the only survivor.

During the Civil War, "Pap" was a courier boy delivering messages horseback to Confederate troops between Meridian and Jackson, Miss.

The aged gentleman said he was only 15 years old at the outbreak of the war between the states and too young to take an active part in the battles.

He described his courier job as "keeping him on the go."

"Pap" belonged to the 33rd regiment of the Confederate army and served under General Johnson. The courier saddle, he explained, had a seven-inch iron horn and pad-locked saddle bags, which only certain officers had keys to open.

"It was a running war," he said, "and the battles I saw were short." Often, he explained, his family would feed 15 or 20 Confederate soldiers for breakfast.

The retired gentleman recalled eight of his father's slaves remaining on the plantation after the fourteenth amendment was passed.

The old-time Southerner still harbors a dislike for the north and believes most damyankees are unfriendly.

He could not remember the name of the school in Mississippi he attended.

Not having any desire to become a doctor, he became a cotton planter and cattleman.

"Pap" was married at the age of 26. Since the death of his wife, in 1910, he has not remarried and denies having any courtships, although a Columbia widow sent him a birthday cake and a pint of ice cream for his birthday.

He was the father of four children, all of whom are dead with the exception of his youngest son, George E. Tyner, with whom he resides in West Monroe.

At the age of 99, he attributes his age to "never worrying or getting excited." He sleeps about ten hours every night and seldom has colds or infirmities.

"Pap" listens to the radio most of the day and especially enjoys religious music, news and fiddling, to "I still like to dance," "Pap" said, "I still like to dance, "Pap said, "and I never missed a square dance." He was a great horseman and never learned to drive, although he purchased several cars.

"Pap" is not opposed to changes in anything other than his diet. He insists on having two eggs each meal. He also enjoys seafoods and his only habit is chewing tobacco.

"Pap" said he was a great Huey Long follower and today retains a big interest in politics.

He has never felt the need for glasses or false teeth and refuses to wear either, although he owns both.

Since "Pap" began using a walking cane, he seldom goes to church because of the difficulty in climbing stairs.

He's proud of his age and looks forward to turning 100.

The only relative in the family to pass the mark of a century was an aunt of "Pap's" who lived to be 102.

W. Monroe Man Nears 100 Feeling 'Chipper'

Aged Courier Boy In Civil War Feels Fine In Retirement In Home Of Son; Diet, Two Eggs Per Meal

By Margaret Gambrell

A 'Southern Gentleman' as described in romantic novels of Civil War days, celebrated his 99th birthday in West Monroe, yesterday.

George Whitfield Tyner commented: "I don't feel any older than I did the day I was 21 and follow a dict of two eggs each meal."

Tyner, a distinguished one-time plantation owner and planter, is in excellent health for one his age and enjoys all modern conveniences of the present day.

"Pap," as he is called by friends and the family, was quite active until his last serious illness fifteen years ago. At that time, doctors gave him up, but miraculously he recovered.

Born in Lee County, Miss., April 24, 1849, he described his father as being "a doctor during the week and a Methodist minister on Sunday." There were 12 children, six boys and six girls, in the plantation family, according to the oldster, who is now a great-great grand father and the only survivor.

During the Civil War, "Pap" was a courier boy delivering messages horseback to Confederate troops between Meridian and Jackson, Miss.

The aged gentleman said he was only 15 years old at the outbreak of the war between the states and too young to take an active part in the battles.

"Pap" belonged to the 33rd regiment of the Confederate army and served under General Johnson. The courier saddle, he explained, had a seven-inch iron horn and pad-locked saddle bags, which only certain officers had keys to open.

"It was a running war," he said, "and the battles I saw were short." Often, he explained, his family would feed 15 or 20 Confederate soldiers for breakfast.

The retired gentleman recalled eight of his father's slaves remaining on the plantation after the fourteenth amendment was passed.

The old-time Southerner still harbors a dislike for the north and believes most damyankees are unfriendly.

He could not remember the name of the school in Mississippi he attended.

Not having any desire to become a doctor, he became a cotton planter and cattleman.

"Pap" was married at the age of 26. Since the death of his wife, in 1910, he has not remarried and denies having any courtships, although a Columbia widow sent him a birthday cake and a pint of ice cream for his birthday.

He was the father of four children, all of whom are dead with the exception of his youngest son, George E. Tyner, with whom he resides in West Monroe.

At the age of 99, he attributes his age to "never worrying or getting excited." He sleeps about ten hours every night and seldom has colds or infirmities.

"Pap" listens to the radio most of the day and especially enjoys religious music, news and fiddling, to "I still like to dance," "Pap" said, "I still like to dance, "Pap said, "and I never missed a square dance." He was a great horseman and never learned to drive, although he purchased several cars.

"Pap" is not opposed to changes in anything other than his diet. He insists on having two eggs each meal. He also enjoys seafoods and his only habit is chewing tobacco.

"Pap" said he was a great Huey Long follower and today retains a big interest in politics.

He has never felt the need for glasses or false teeth and refuses to wear either, although he owns both.

Since "Pap" began using a walking cane, he seldom goes to church because of the difficulty in climbing stairs.

He's proud of his age and looks forward to turning 100.

The only relative in the family to pass the mark of a century was an aunt of "Pap's" who lived to be 102.

WIFE OLDER THAN HUSBAND ADVISED

Women Now Usually Live 8 Years Longer Than Mates

By Alton L. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Reporter)

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—Girls should set their caps for husbands younger than themselves, as one step to avoid widowhood in old age.

That advice comes from Dr. Clive M. McCay, professor of nutrition at Cornell University. Right now wives usually live eight years longer than their husbands, he said.

This eight-year difference is due partly to the fact that most women marry a few years older than themselves. But there still would be a difference even if they married men of the same age. The females simply are biologically stronger. It's true of humans as well as animals, Dr. McCay added.

There are reasons, economic as well as romantic, why women probably won't choose younger mates. Because they don't, the years of later life bring more problems for women than men, he told a recent conference on questions of aging.

Housing is one of these. Where will the widows live? Many will need jobs; all should have social activities, entertainment, hobbies or other activities. Dr. McCay thinks such problems are something that women's clubs should be keenly interested in. More Americans are living longer, and the majority of the longer lives are being lived by women.

Cooperative housing has been one suggestion. Another is small apartments especially for older people. Life insurance policies that pay adequate sums at certain ages and economic levels are another.

In medicine, more stress is being placed on treatment and wise living to prevent the disabilities of old age, and to maintain health, strength and enthusiasm through the later years.

On the food side, one step toward this is a new super-bread, high in calcium and inexpensive proteins, Dr. McCay said. It contains six to eight per cent of dry skim milk, which is a cheap, good source of calcium Dr. McCay said. It also contains about six per cent soy flour to add proteins cheaply.

COLUMBUS, Ohio—(AP)—The common grass or leopard frog shows great promise of providing a new quick and inexpensive test for human pregnancy, Dr. D. F. Miller, Ohio State University zoologist and entomologist reports. Tests have been made by Dr. Miller and Dr. P. B. Wiltberger, Columbus physician. While certain variables still remain to be worked out, it appears that the frog test offers advantages of economy, simplicity, accuracy, and sensitivity, and that it may be the fastest method for detecting pregnancy in the first stages, they said. In the method, a small quantity of urine from the woman is injected under the frog's skin.

THREE NEGROES DIE IN BLAZING HOME

SHREVEPORT, La., April 24.—(AP)—Nathaniel Watson, 27-year-old Negro and two of his children, ages 2 and 4, were burned to death today in their home near Belcher, La.

Watson died in Charity Hospital, Shreveport, about 6:30 a. m.

Caddo parish officials said the house apparently caught fire shortly after 1 a. m. from an oil stove or lamp.

boats, and plans were being made to move other thousands by British army truck overland to Nazareth, neighboring Lebanon and Nablus in the Arab's so-called "triangle of strength" in central Palestine.

The evacuation was being carried out at the time Jews observe the Passover in commemoration of their own exodus from Egypt, and from docks where the British customarily deported intercepted Jewish immigrants to Cyprus.

Thousands still huddled in refugees without food.

Elsewhere nine Arabs, five Jews and a British policeman were killed in continuing violence today.

The British reported that the Jews were unsuccessful in yesterday's attempt to capture three Arab villages, Beit Iksa, Biddu, and Nebi Samuel on the northwestern outskirts of Jerusalem and lost 20 dead in the operation. Nearly every house in Beit Iksa was levelled by Jewish explosives.

After heavy firing in the border land of Arab Jaffa and Jewish Tel Aviv on the coast last night, Haganah reported it had moved some of its strongholds into Arab territory.

This holy city is girding for war like a southern United States city preparing for a hurricane.

The 150,000 Jews and Arabs here believe chances for a truce are dim. Both claim the city for their capital, and both are buckling on the sword to fight for it.

Public services are crumbling, as the British pull out faster than anticipated. British army headquarters began moving out today in a long convoy bound for Haifa.

In Jerusalem, as elsewhere in Palestine at the moment, the military advantage is with the Jews. The Arabs once had driven the Jews out of mixed quarters. But Haganah has fought its way back in some places and is poised at the perimeter of others.

Every street of the city is blocked by road barriers, some 20 feet high. Jewish and Arab tommygunners peer over them at every approaching car or person. Motorists able to get enough gasoline to drive have their cars searched as many as half a dozen times in a ten-minute trip.

Many markets in mixed areas are cementing shut their doors and windows. Business has all but collapsed. Mail still comes through—weeks late. Telegrams to Tel Aviv and Haifa take as much as five days. By next week there may be only a couple dozen British officials here. Three dozen foreign correspondents face loss of their cable link with the outside world soon.

The consular corps of a dozen nations are evacuating women staff members.

The main attention of political quarters was directed to Amman, Trans-Jordan capital, where the Arab League's military council was meeting with King Abdullah to decide when and whether to send Arab national armies into Palestine.

Gen. Ismael Sawfat Pasha, former Iraqi war minister and now commander-in-chief of the Arab army of volunteers, freely admitted publicly at the meeting that present Arab forces in Palestine are unaquatable of saving the situation for the Arabs.

after breaking down the door, Boutwell opened fire. Police returned the fire, killing him instantly with a shot in the chest and two more in his legs.

Cox said Boutwell and his wife had been estranged for some time. Boutwell was placed in the parish prison early last week for beating the woman, he said, but was released Wednesday when she withdrew charges.

Mrs. Boutwell, the officer said, had filed suit for divorce. While awaiting settlement, they lived at separate places. At the time of the shooting, their two children were staying with Mrs. Boutwell's mother, Mrs. H. C. Vaughn, near Forest.

Cox said Boutwell had gone to his wife's home about 11 p. m. He quoted other roomers in the house as saying they heard a shot, then saw a man, whom they identified as Boutwell, flee through the back door.

About 12 p. m., Cox said, a man called police to inquire about Mrs. Boutwell's condition. Suspecting it was the husband, they set about checking places from which he might have called, and finally trapped him in his wife's home.

Boutwell's body was taken to Oak Grove where relatives reside. Services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the chapel of the Catron-Gay funeral home, with the Rev. R. L. Clayton, pastor of the Oak Grove Methodist Church, officiating. Interment will be made in the Oak Grove cemetery.

In addition to his widow and children he is survived by a brother, Rem Russell of Oak Grove and two sisters, Mrs. Abbie Cockerham of Pioneer and Mrs. Myrtle Bedenbender of Monroe.

PRESIDENT PLANS WEST COAST TRIP

Agrees Tentatively To Visit Washington State In June, Governor Says

SPOKANE, April 24.—(AP)—President Truman has agreed tentatively to visit Washington state in June, Gov. Mon C. Wallgren said today.

"I feel pretty definite that he is coming," the governor said, "it is a question of working out details of his itinerary."

He said President Truman's trip to the state tentatively is scheduled for June 9, 10 and 11. The president might make an address in Spokane and might also visit Richland or Grand Coulee dam, Seattle, Olympia and possibly Tacoma. He would fly on to California to make a scheduled address June 12.

His call to the president, Wallgren said, had no bearing on a quarrel at the convention over sending an instructed or uninstructed delegation to the National Democratic convention. The president did not ask that a delegation pledged to support him for reelection be chosen, the governor said.

"I personally have favored free and open conventions," the governor said. "I think the delegates can use their own judgment on naming an instructed or uninstructed delegation."

Wallgren, a close friend of the president, said he had predicted some time ago that Washington's delegation would not be instructed.

The U. S. spokesman here said he could not disclose which countries, besides Britian and France, are being consulted regarding troops to enforce the trusteeship scheme.

The Chinese delegation issued a formal statement saying: "The Chinese delegation to the United Nations states categorically that there has been no negotiation with the United States delegation in New York regarding the possible use of Chinese troops for enforcement of a trusteeship in Palestine."

The week-end found the CIO-United Auto Workers without a wage offer amid a threatened strike. A six cent hourly boost proposed by Chrysler Corp., was withdrawn a few hours after U. S. Steel refused to boost wages. The auto workers want a 30 cent hourly advance.

The CIO-United Packing House Workers are in the throes of a strike over wage demands. Negotiations are stalemated.

The Steelworkers unveiled part of their strategy when they said yesterday their union would ask some 600 steel producing and fabricating companies to extend for from 60 to 90 days the April 30 deadline on wage negotiations.

Other than the break-up of talks with the U. S. Steel Corp., little is known of progress of discussions with the companies. Sessions with the Bethlehem Steel Corp., have been halted temporarily.

The CIO and the Steelworkers contend higher living costs make pay boosts essential. They argue profit statements of industry generally show wage increases can be afforded.

U. S. Steel, Westinghouse and others answered that new wage boosts would add to the inflationary spiral. New prices advances would follow, they asserted.

U. S. Steel said it was cutting prices $25,000,000 a year in the hope it would help promote a trend toward lower living costs. Westinghouse, General Electric and others also have announced price reductions.

WIFE OLDER THAN HUSBAND ADVISED

Women Now Usually Live 8 Years Longer Than Mates

By Alton L. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Reporter)

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—Girls should set their caps for husbands younger than themselves, as one step to avoid widowhood in old age.

That advice comes from Dr. Clive M. McCay, professor of nutrition at Cornell University. Right now wives usually live eight years longer than their husbands, he said.

This eight-year difference is due partly to the fact that most women marry a few years older than themselves. But there still would be a difference even if they married men of the same age. The females simply are biologically stronger. It's true of humans as well as animals, Dr. McCay added.

There are reasons, economic as well as romantic, why women probably won't choose younger mates. Because they don't, the years of later life bring more problems for women than men, he told a recent conference on questions of aging.

Housing is one of these. Where will the widows live? Many will need jobs; all should have social activities, entertainment, hobbies or other activities. Dr. McCay thinks such problems are something that women's clubs should be keenly interested in. More Americans are living longer, and the majority of the longer lives are being lived by women.

Cooperative housing has been one suggestion. Another is small apartments especially for older people. Life insurance policies that pay adequate sums at certain ages and economic levels are another.

In medicine, more stress is being placed on treatment and wise living to prevent the disabilities of old age, and to maintain health, strength and enthusiasm through the later years.

On the food side, one step toward this is a new super-bread, high in calcium and inexpensive proteins, Dr. McCay said. It contains six to eight per cent of dry skim milk, which is a cheap, good source of calcium Dr. McCay said. It also contains about six per cent soy flour to add proteins cheaply.

COLUMBUS, Ohio—(AP)—The common grass or leopard frog shows great promise of providing a new quick and inexpensive test for human pregnancy, Dr. D. F. Miller, Ohio State University zoologist and entomologist reports. Tests have been made by Dr. Miller and Dr. P. B. Wiltberger, Columbus physician. While certain variables still remain to be worked out, it appears that the frog test offers advantages of economy, simplicity, accuracy, and sensitivity, and that it may be the fastest method for detecting pregnancy in the first stages, they said. In the method, a small quantity of urine from the woman is injected under the frog's skin.

THREE NEGROES DIE IN BLAZING HOME

SHREVEPORT, La., April 24.—(AP)—Nathaniel Watson, 27-year-old Negro and two of his children, ages 2 and 4, were burned to death today in their home near Belcher, La.

Watson died in Charity Hospital, Shreveport, about 6:30 a. m.

Caddo parish officials said the house apparently caught fire shortly after 1 a. m. from an oil stove or lamp.

RAYVILLE IS OUT FOR BUSINESS

RAYVILLE, April 24.—(Special)—Business and professional men of Rayville, long realizing the need of concerted effort to encourage the establishment of new business and industry in Richland parish, have taken an initial step in the organization of the "Rayville Business Mens' Club."

The club, which will be incorporated under the laws of the state, came into existence after several mass meetings of the business men for the purpose of discussing the need and type of organization best suited. Observers were also dispatched to cities in Louisiana and Arkansas to study different civic bodies and report their recommendations. An effort has been made to incorporate the fine points of all these in the club's charter.

At the mass meetings which were enthusiastically attended it was pointed out that Rayville, located as it is in the midst of oil and gas activity as well as one of the richest agricultural centers, has not been taking advantage of its opportunities. Despite the fact that many new businesses have located here in the past five years they have come of their own volition and without special inducement.

The new businesses, it was said, had brought in many wide-awake young men who have entered wholeheartedly into the civic, religious and economic betterment of the town.

In the organization of the "Rayville Business Mens' Club" these young men as well as the older citizens will be given an outlet for their energy and an opportunity for real service and, judging from the enthusiastic reception given the club, Rayville should shortly begin to feel the driving force of this organized effort.

The officers of the new club are: Russell Burk, chairman; W. L. Jarmon, vice-chairman, and E. A. Jennings, secretary-treasurer. The board of directors is composed of twelve men.

LONG INHERITS BUILDING PLAN

Starts Administration In The Midst Of Big Construction Program

BATON ROUGE, La., April 24.—(AP)—Along with all the other responsibilities that go with a state government, the new Louisiana administration is inheriting a $65,000,000 construction program.

Some of it is well under way, some has been contracted for, some is in the blueprint stage only. But in one way or another the state has invested at least some public funds in every phase of it.

One of the major decisions to be made by Gov.-Elect Earl K. Long and his supporters in the legislature will be on continuance of the whole program, or on possible modification or abandonment of phases of it.

The $65,000,000 sum represents in round figures the total of projects undertaken by the three state departments primarily concerned with physical construction and improvement—the department of highways, institutions and public works.

The governor-elect already has declared himself in favor of an extensive highway program. He has said also that he wants to do as much as possible for state institutions and that where worthwhile plans have been made, he intends to carry them through, although the department of institutions as such is to be abolished.

This is the situation as the administration charges:

The state department of highways reports $27,000,000 worth of road and bridge projects under construction and contracts awarded for an additional $4,000,000 worth. In addition it has plans ready in various stages for $46,000,000 more, but since the state has little or no investment as yet in these projects, this figure is not included in the general total.

The department of institutions has been carrying out a $25,000,000 program of additions and improvements to the hospitals and penal institutions. Of this work, about $10,000,000 worth is complete or nearly so.

Contracts have been let for an additional $4,320,000 worth, of which the largest single item is a receiving station and hospital for the Louisiana state penitentiary, $1,500,000. Other items contracted for include a tuberculosis unit for the Lafayette Charity Hospital, $842,000; other additions to the hospital, $342,000; a bath house at Hot Wells near Alexandria, $350,000; two dormitories at the state college and training schools, $461,481; a clinic building at the Florida Parishes Charity Hospital, $170,000.

The department of institutions also has ordered plans prepared for an additional $11,375,000 worth of work. The largest items are the proposed new Confederate Memorial Hospital at Shreveport, $8,000,000, and a new mental hospital in St. Tammany parish, $2,500,000. A farm development at the state colony would account for another $450,000.

The remainder of the work under way consists of the statewide drainage program of the department of public works. This work is in a different category, since much of it involves money provided by local governmental units as well as the state.

The drainage program is designed to reclaim farm land and prevent periodic overflow in about half the states area. One phase of it has largely been taken over, at state urging, by the U. S. army engineers. They are improving the drainage through the "main outfalls"—important secondary streams such as the Tensas, Boeuf and Mermentau rivers and Bayou Lafourche. The state's contribution to this part of the program has been principally purchasing right-of-way. This has been done out of a $5,000,000 appropriation by the legislature. The work is about half done.

The remainder of the statewide drainage program is financed by the state and by parishes or levee districts. Its estimated cost is $13,000,000, of which about $7,000,000 worth of projects already are completed or well under way.

Twenty parishes and six levee districts have floated bond issues to contribute to the task of clearing and improving lesser streams for which no federal assistance is available.

To a large extent at least, the department of institutions program could be financed from the proceeds of bond issues already voted. The highway department also has a considerable balance on hand which probably would provide for completing the projects under way. Completion of the statewide drainage program, especially if additional parishes enter it, might require additional appropriations.

FIVE ARE ARRESTED BY STATE POLICE

THE NATION TODAY
By James Marlow

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—Paul G. Hoffman is a middle-aged, middle-sized, pleasant-looking man who goes in for double-breasted suits.

He looks like a successful businessman, and that's what he is. He was head of the Studebaker Corporation.

He also looks like a man who can keep his temper pretty well, and he'll probably have to before he's through with Washington.

He's now the head of ECA—the Economic Cooperation Administration—which will handle the Marshall plan help for Europe.

Hoffman called a news conference yesterday and about 20 newsmen, radio commentators and magazine writers showed up.

The meeting seemed pretty typical of ECA at this point: Brand new and trying to get started.

Hoffman recently appointed Fitzgerald, a food expert, to direct the food part of the Marshall program. Bissell is a special consultant to Hoffman.

They're about his only two top assistants, except for W. Averell Harriman, who has been named "roving ambassador" for the program in Europe. Harriman has been secretary of commerce.

Except for a few chairs and radio gear to broadcast the news conference, the room was bare.

It's just another room on one of the five floors ECA has taken over in a new building here. The building itself is so new workmen still are busy on it.

The ECA program is so vast—it calls for spending $5,300,000,000 in Europe in one year on food, loans and goods—that Hoffman can't and probably never will know all the details.

When a question was asked about food, he had to turn to Fitzgerald for the answer.

Bissell chimed in with most of the answers on non-food things like the amount of steel and machinery that will be shipped to Europe.

ECA won't be able to start running in any smooth way until Hoffman can pick a deputy administrator and his other chief assistants.

As the program gets under way—if things go wrong—Hoffman will be on the receiving end of criticism.

That's one of the hazards of taking a big government job. And the way this program is carried out—since it's so huge—will be watched closely by Congress.

Some men—General George C. Marshall was one of them—get so much respect from Congress that they have a pretty mild time with congressmen.

MASONIC MEET PLANNED FRIDAY

York Rite Bodies Of Monroe Will Assemble In Masonic Temple

The York Rite Masonic bodies of Monroe will hold their eighth annual Friendship meeting at the Masonic Temple next Friday night, April 30, at 8 o'clock.

Honorable Tom Q. Ellis, clerk, of the supreme court of Mississippi, will be the speaker. Mr. Ellis, who has presided over the Grand Lodge of Mississippi, together with all of Mississippi's other Grand York Rite organizations, is a dynamic speaker with a reputation for delivering inspiring as well as entertaining talks. He was featured at last year's Friendship meeting in Monroe. His two addresses at the recent conclave of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar held in Shreveport highlighted that conclave. He has made so many friends among Ouachita parish Masonry that his return this year is the result of a general appeal by the Masons of the community.

The York Rite Friendship meetings were initiated on an annual basis in 1941 by W. E. (Ned) Leigh who was then grand high priest of Royal Arch Masons of Louisiana. Since that time the custom has been followed in most of the chapters throughout the state. Last year Curtis Hair, grand high priest, requested that each chapter in Louisiana hold at least one Friendship meeting during the year. The request was generally observed; one chapter holding five such meetings, resulting in much enthusiasm.

At Friday night's meeting B. M. McKoin and Henry O. Hartman, past grand commanders, and Barney L. Mulhern, grand captain of the guard, will represent the Grand Commandery, K. T. W. E. Leigh and Henry O. Hartman, past grand illustrious masters, will represent the Grand Council, R. & S. M. W. W. Washburn, W. E. Leigh, Curtis B. Hair, past grand high priests, and Henry O. Hartman, G. P. S., will represent the Grand Chapter, R. A. M. Robert W. Cretney, grand senior warden, and Dee A. Strickland, past grand master, will be present from the Grand Lodge of Louisiana F. & A. M. Guy B. Gannaway presides over the chapter, council and commandery in Monroe.

Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting. On behalf of the York Rite bodies of Monroe Roy W. Craig, general chairman of the arrangements committee, has extended a cordial invitation to all Master Masons of northeast Louisiana to attend this meeting.

HAPPY — Sen. Glen H. Taylor of Idaho smiles as he starts vice-presidential race on Wallace third party ticket.

The department of institutions has been carrying out a $25,000,000 program of additions and improvements to the hospitals and penal institutions. Of this work, about $10,000,000 worth is complete or nearly so.

Contracts have been let for an additional $4,320,000 worth, of which the largest single item is a receiving station and hospital for the Louisiana state penitentiary, $1,500,000. Other items contracted for include a tuberculosis unit for the Lafayette Charity Hospital, $842,000; other additions to the hospital, $342,000; a bath house at Hot Wells near Alexandria, $350,000; two dormitories at the state college and training schools, $461,481; a clinic building at the Florida Parishes Charity Hospital, $170,000.

The department of institutions also has ordered plans prepared for an additional $11,375,000 worth of work. The largest items are the proposed new Confederate Memorial Hospital at Shreveport, $8,000,000, and a new mental hospital in St. Tammany parish, $2,500,000. A farm development at the state colony would account for another $450,000.

The remainder of the work under way consists of the statewide drainage program of the department of public works. This work is in a different category, since much of it involves money provided by local governmental units as well as the state.

The drainage program is designed to reclaim farm land and prevent periodic overflow in about half the states area. One phase of it has largely been taken over, at state urging, by the U. S. army engineers. They are improving the drainage through the "main outfalls"—important secondary streams such as the Tensas, Boeuf and Mermentau rivers and Bayou Lafourche. The state's contribution to this part of the program has been principally purchasing right-of-way. This has been done out of a $5,000,000 appropriation by the legislature. The work is about half done.

The remainder of the statewide drainage program is financed by the state and by parishes or levee districts. Its estimated cost is $13,000,000, of which about $7,000,000 worth of projects already are completed or well under way.

Twenty parishes and six levee districts have floated bond issues to contribute to the task of clearing and improving lesser streams for which no federal assistance is available.

To a large extent at least, the department of institutions program could be financed from the proceeds of bond issues already voted. The highway department also has a considerable balance on hand which probably would provide for completing the projects under way. Completion of the statewide drainage program, especially if additional parishes enter it, might require additional appropriations.

THE NATION TODAY
By James Marlow

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—Paul G. Hoffman is a middle-aged, middle-sized, pleasant-looking man who goes in for double-breasted suits.

He looks like a successful businessman, and that's what he is. He was head of the Studebaker Corporation.

He also looks like a man who can keep his temper pretty well, and he'll probably have to before he's through with Washington.

He's now the head of ECA—the Economic Cooperation Administration—which will handle the Marshall plan help for Europe.

Hoffman called a news conference yesterday and about 20 newsmen, radio commentators and magazine writers showed up.

The meeting seemed pretty typical of ECA at this point: Brand new and trying to get started.

Hoffman recently appointed Fitzgerald, a food expert, to direct the food part of the Marshall program. Bissell is a special consultant to Hoffman.

They're about his only two top assistants, except for W. Averell Harriman, who has been named "roving ambassador" for the program in Europe. Harriman has been secretary of commerce.

Except for a few chairs and radio gear to broadcast the news conference, the room was bare.

It's just another room on one of the five floors ECA has taken over in a new building here. The building itself is so new workmen still are busy on it.

The ECA program is so vast—it calls for spending $5,300,000,000 in Europe in one year on food, loans and goods—that Hoffman can't and probably never will know all the details.

When a question was asked about food, he had to turn to Fitzgerald for the answer.

Bissell chimed in with most of the answers on non-food things like the amount of steel and machinery that will be shipped to Europe.

ECA won't be able to start running in any smooth way until Hoffman can pick a deputy administrator and his other chief assistants.

As the program gets under way—if things go wrong—Hoffman will be on the receiving end of criticism.

That's one of the hazards of taking a big government job. And the way this program is carried out—since it's so huge—will be watched closely by Congress.

Some men—General George C. Marshall was one of them—get so much respect from Congress that they have a pretty mild time with congressmen.

MASONIC MEET PLANNED FRIDAY

York Rite Bodies Of Monroe Will Assemble In Masonic Temple

The York Rite Masonic bodies of Monroe will hold their eighth annual Friendship meeting at the Masonic Temple next Friday night, April 30, at 8 o'clock.

Honorable Tom Q. Ellis, clerk of the supreme court of Mississippi, will be the speaker. Mr. Ellis, who has presided over the Grand Lodge of Mississippi, together with all of Mississippi's other Grand York Rite organizations, is a dynamic speaker with a reputation for delivering inspiring as well as entertaining talks. He was featured at last year's Friendship meeting in Monroe. His two addresses at the recent conclave of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar held in Shreveport highlighted that conclave. He has made so many friends among Ouachita parish Masonry that his return this year is the result of a general appeal by the Masons of the community.

The York Rite Friendship meetings were initiated on an annual basis in 1941 by W. E. (Ned) Leigh who was then grand high priest of Royal Arch Masons of Louisiana. Since that time the custom has been followed in most of the chapters throughout the state. Last year Curtis Hair, grand high priest, requested that each chapter in Louisiana hold at least one Friendship meeting during the year. The request was generally observed; one chapter holding five such meetings, resulting in much enthusiasm.

At Friday night's meeting B. M. McKoin and Henry O. Hartman, past grand commanders, and Barney L. Mulhern, grand captain of the guard, will represent the Grand Commandery, K. T. W. E. Leigh and Henry O. Hartman, past grand illustrious masters, will represent the Grand Council, R. & S. M. W. W. Washburn, W. E. Leigh, Curtis B. Hair, past grand high priests, and Henry O. Hartman, G. P. S., will represent the Grand Chapter, R. A. M. Robert W. Cretney, grand senior warden, and Dee A. Strickland, past grand master, will be present from the Grand Lodge of Louisiana F. & A. M. Guy B. Gannaway presides over the chapter, council and commandery in Monroe.

Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting. On behalf of the York Rite bodies of Monroe Roy W. Craig, general chairman of the arrangements committee, has extended a cordial invitation to all Master Masons of northeast Louisiana to attend this meeting.

CONDON

National security demands that, the President said.

A bill authorizing any congressional committee to obtain from government agencies whatever information it considers necessary already has been approved by the House expenditures committee.

But the Senate also would have to act on it, and it might encounter a presidential veto even if the Senate went along.

William C. Foster, acting Secretary of Commerce, sent a letter to John Andrews, clerk of the House today "respectfully" refusing the loyalty report on Condon, and referring the question to President Truman.

Martin told newsmen:

"I can see no reason that the (FBI) paper should not be made public. If there is nothing in it, it would be to the advantage of Dr. Condon to have the contents disclosed.

"If it is damaging, then the country should know it. There has been so much discussion about it that the public is entitled to know what is in it."

Rep. Herbert (D-La.) said the next step, in his opinion, should be adoption of a resolution to authorize congressional committees to get the information they want from government agencies.

The question now is: "Who is bigger, the President or Congress," Herbert said. "Ultimately, I think the people and not the President will win."

Rep. Nixon (R-Cal.) said the Commerce department has indicated clearly that "it does not want all the facts on the Condon case to come out."

Both Herbert and Nixon are members of the unAmerican Activities committee.

Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.) called the Commerce department's action "an outrage." He, too, is on the unAmerican Activities committee.

This trip will be the first of several to be taken this spring and early summer.

STASSEN

$1,000 "without strings" are accepted. So far twelve to thirteen thousand individuals have contributed an average of $41 each. Stassen said he was "independent and free" to take his stand on public issues.

3. He said his brand of Republicanism more nearly conformed with that of the majority of the Republicans in Congress than that of Senator Taft.

This was the last day of Stassen's active campaign in Ohio, he said, save for a radio broadcast he intends to make on May 3 in Cleveland, the eve of the primary. He is contesting Taft for 23 of Ohio's 53 delegates to the Republican convention.

Getting down to his prospects for victory, the burly Minnesotan said it still was too early for predictions but he did set forth some strong hints.

For one thing, Stassen told his news conference, the "most critical period of my entire campaign will be during the next 30 days."

Next to Ohio the Oregon primaries are the most important, where he will vie with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for delegates, he said. He plans to fly to Portland, Ore., tomorrow from Minneapolis to open the "final phase" of his drive there. He also expects to be in Oregon the three days before the primaries: May 18, 19, 20.

Stassen refused to be drawn into a personal controversy with Taft. He parried repeated questions about Taft's expressed annoyance over the meaning of "liberalism" with the remark:

"I have a very high personal regard for the senior senator from Ohio. He has a full right to his views."

NEGRO WORKER FREE UNDER $2000 BOND

DETROIT, April 24.—(AP)—A 52-year-old political foe of Walter P. Reuther was freed today after two days of questioning in the attempted assassination of the fiery union leader.

The release on $2,000 bond of Nelson Davis was ordered by Circuit Judge Arthur Webster despite the pleas of Detroit police that the Negro auto worker be detained another 48 hours.

Davis, a minor local official of Reuther's United Auto Workers, was taken into custody Thursday on a report from a union tipster that he could give information on Reuther's shooting, police said.

Reuther was reported doing well in Grace hospital. He was taken there immediately after the shooting, in which his right arm was nearly torn off by the shotgun blast. Specialists said they believed he might regain full use of his arm, despite injury to a nerve.

CHILD DIES FROM REGURGITATION

TALLULAH, La., April 24.—(Special)—Sherry Diane Hetland, 9-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hetland, of near here, died while enroute to a local hospital yesterday afternoon from what Dr. E. Otis Edgerton termed "regurgitation."

Besides her parents, the infant is survived by one brother, Thomas E. Benton; her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hetland, and her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Ashley, all of Madison parish.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Tallulah Methodist Church with the Rev. J. D. Wallace, pastor of the Willow Bayou Baptist Church, and the Rev. J. F. Kilpatrick, pastor of the Tallulah Methodist Church, officiating.

PESSIMISTIC RED WINS SWEEPSTAKE

Luigi Prato, of northern Valenza, won 60,000,000 lire (roughly $100,000) for guessing that his party would take a trouncing at the polls.

He was sole winner, and only the government taxes put a bit into his prize.

Millions of Italians spent millions of lire in "totalvoto," trying to hit the jackpot by guessing how many deputies each party would get. Luigi hit it on the nose.

The newspaper Momento Sera said everybody in Valenza turned up at Luigi's home after he won—everybody but his Popular Front pals.

NAVY ASSERTS NATION MUST DEPEND ON SEAROADS IN WAR

Main Job In Any Future Conflict Will Be To Obtain Scarce Materials

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—The United States must depend on the searoads of the world for raw materials—come peace, come war—the navy said today.

Two wars in the past 30 years have cut heavily into the nation's natural resources and one of the navy's main jobs in any future conflict will be guarding freighters, laden with manganese, chrome, tin, rubber and aluminum.

The navy, in a book prepared for its top councils, lists 20 "representative raw materials" brought from overseas in 1946, and traces U. S. "life lines" in world charts for each material.

"The Continental United States is not and has not been self-sufficient in all the raw materials necessary either to carry on successfully a modern war, or to maintain a balanced national economy in peacetime," the book's foreward declares.

"While we are rich in certain natural resources, we do not have within Continental North America, adequate supplies of manganese and chrome, imperative in the manufacture of steel; of tin, a requisite for engine bearings; of rubber, indispensable to our automotive transportation systems; of bauxite, basic in the manufacture of aluminum; and of a number of other essential materials.

"It is vital for the United States to keep open the sea lanes over which these supplies come from far distant places."

The book makes no mention of stockpiling of critical materials, which is planned to prevent the U. S. running out of essential supplies in wartime.

A study of the charts reveals that all or nearly all of ten of the 20 essential materials are procured in the Western Hemisphere. The remainder come largely from Africa, the East Indies and the Far East.

Small quantities of only three ores are imported from Europe, and presumably would be cut off in case of conflict on that continent.

Chrome ore comes from Russia and Turkey (14.2 percent); manganese ore Britain, Spain, France, Portugal and The Netherlands (8.6 percent).

Most of the United States' chrome ore and manganese is imported from Africa and India (50.6 percent and 56.8 percent respectively); most of its tungsten, from South America (47.2 percent).

The petroleum chart showed no imports from the strategic Persian gulf area, where the navy has been drawing fuel for its ships for years.

The navy took about 22,000,000 barrels from the Persian Gulf in 1946, an official said, and is buying at about the same rate now.

He explained the navy's oil was not shown on the charts since it was used directly in the ships and was not actually imported into the U. S. No other essential material was handled this way.

Total U. S. procurement in 1946—domestic production plus imports—was 1,824,883,429 barrels, of which only five percent was imported—from Mexico and South America.

"Know your fellow neighbor better, and you will like him," the men from the Twin Cities will get a closer-up knowledge of the men who like themselves are managing their business and striving generally for a better world in which to live. The party will be headed by Herbert Fink, the popular chairman of the retail merchants division.

The safety slogan contest sponsored by the National Safety council produced a large number of slogans entered for prizes which at the same time embodied lessons of safety in the home and safe driving. Here are some submitted:

He went for a spill,
Good thing accident insurance
Paid the doctor's bill."—Bobby Bass.

"Don't forget to put yours toys away
So you will live to play,
Another day."—Suzanne Dupont.

"Don't try to drink and drive
And tomorrow you will still be alive."—Chas. Fontana.

"Don't mix drinking and driving
So tomorrow you'll still be thriving."—Skipper Hunter.

When the Ouachita parish school board meets for the next session, there will be a woman in the group for the first time. Mrs. Harold Mouk, wife of a well known insurance man, has been appointed by Gov. Jimmie Davis as member to serve out the unexpired term of A. B. Guthrie from Ward one. She is a thoroughly capable woman well versed in the needs that are to be encountered in the progress of education in a time when the entire setup sees likely to be greatly modernized. Incidentally for more than 20 years, the city school board has had a woman as member. She is Mrs. Daisy Terzia who fills a most responsible post in capable manner.

Joe Ann Wood, of 118 Richmond street, Monroe, who is employed in the city hall, is of the opinion that someone endeavored to play a joke on her when writing a letter to Jes' Ramblin' which bore her name. She states that she most surely did not write it and that the circumstances cited in the letter never happened so far as she is concerned. Jes' Ramblin' sincerely regrets if any embarassment was occasioned, and promises it will not happen again.

SNELL AGAINST SMELL

SEATTLE, APRIL 24.—(AP)—The enemy used it first. State Game Director Don Clarke said today he had no choice but to order all-out chemical warfare. His hunters are using gas bombs to kill off predatory skunks.

A technique of testing the air of machine shops to detect the rare element beryllium in quantities as minute as six one-trillionths of a pound has been put to use by a large laboratory.

AIR POWER

Hearings on the House-approved 70-group air force will be before the Senate appropriations committee. Chairman Bridges (R-NH) of that group already is on record in favor of the 70-group plan rushed through the House ahead of all other measures by a top-heavy 343-3 vote.

Secretary of Defense Forrestal will be the initial witness at the Senate hearings. He already has upped his original plans for a 5-group air force to 66 groups.

This caused Rep. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) to say today that the only issue now remaining is "jet or mothball plans."

Johnson, a member of the House armed services committee, urged Forrestal and the Senate to follow the lead of the House in providing funds to immediately begin conversion from "the mothball airplanes of World War II."

Forrestal said his 66-group compromise involves returning some 10 groups of World War II B-29 bombers to active service.

"The issue is," Johnson said in a statement, "not one of billions of dollars more but rather of 82,000,000 to provide in 1950 and 1951, 1,056 modern planes of which more than 75 per cent are jet powered; 804 of these are jet fighters and 50 are 4-engine bombers."

When Gurney's committee meets Monday afternoon, it expects to receive another administration compromise on UMT.

This would delay for at least a year the original plan to set up a separate UMT to train 18 and 19 year olds. Instead they would train with regular army, navy and air force recruits and draftees but for less than the two years which drafted men would serve.

Forrestal still is asking a long range UMT program but told senators he will go along with the combination of draft and UMT training during the next year.

The House armed services committee was to meet behind closed doors to begin writing its temporary draft bill. It calls for registration of men 18 through 30 years with actual induction limited to those 19 through 25.

Gurney said the new proposal to freeze sale of surplus wartime plants, tools and machinery came from the munitions board, one of the planning agencies of the national military establishment.

It proposes a permanent pool of plants and machinery that could be quickly converted to wartime production if necessary.

The board plans to set aside 28 war plants that previously had been offered for sale as surplus. It also asks that a large number of other plants offered for sale or lease be converted by a "security clause" which would allow the government to reconvert them for military production within 120 days.

The munitions board said the plants and production equipment being placed on its preparedness list "represent a government investment of millions of dollars and years of time to construct."

The "national reserve of industrial productive capacity" now covers 146 plants, the board said and added: 30 plants now are under lease but could be quickly converted to government use; 31 others have been sold subject to the "security clause"; 23 are being used for production and 62 are under control of the War Assets corporation which sells war surpluses.

It said "150 to 200 additional plants may be placed on the security clause list."

The board also reported that 192,000 items of machine tools are production equipment already have been selected from a stock of 2,000,000 but that additional tools and machinery should be put in reserve.

BATHTUB EQUALS PIG

FRANKFURT, Germany—(AP)—Which will you take: a pig or a bathtub? In Germany, city folks take pigs and farmers take bathtubs. For such deals, the farmer has become the most hated man in Germany. The city people say: "Better times will come when the carpets on the pigsty floors are returned to their owners"—the hungry industrial workers who traded them for food. American and German officials say that not every farmer is a black marketeer. Many do their best to help the needy town people. But experts say if all the pigs that vanished in 1947 had been legally distributed, the average German's meat ration would have been upped 50 percent. Now the average man gets only eight pounds of meat a year.

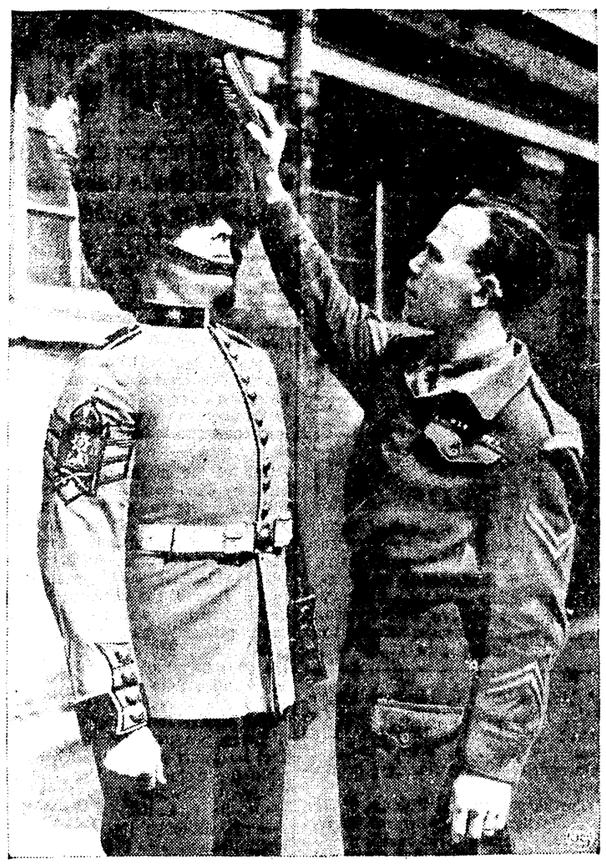
British Guards Go in the Red



Bearskin shakos and all, the old traditional uniforms of London's Brigade of Guards are coming out of mothballs. The colorful scarlet tunics, which have been in storage since 1939, will be worn for all future state occasions, beginning with June 10, the king's official birthday. Here, Corporal A. R. MAN FINDS BODIES OF TWO IN 2 HOURS

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 24.—(AP)—Twice within two hours, Charles S. Cook found human bodies.

He saw the body of four-year-old Peter Kern III yesterday in St. Joseph river here and brought police to recover it. The child fell in the river at Mishawaka Apriu 2.

Returning to his home near Osceola, Cook found the body of William Buckley, 79, lying on the floor. The cornoner said Buckley, employed by Cook, had died of a heart attack.

BLOCK HIGH WILL GIVE 3-ACT PLAY

JONESVILLE, La., April 24.—(Special)—"Winning Schemers" is the title of a three-act farce comedy to be presented the night of May 10 by the Block High School senior class.

Rehearsals are being held nightly by the cast of nine. Mrs. G. H. Moore, sponsor of the senior class, is directing the play.

to use fighter escort, I don't think you'll worry about that very much."

Clay said the Russians have made no move to hold talks they had proposed for clarifying their restrictions on land travel to Berlin. Asked if he thought a reasonable solution could be reached on this question, he replied:

"Reasonable people can sit across a table and develop a reasonable solution, but I can't see much prospect on this."

He said that no pressure is being put on American dependents to leave Berlin or Germany because of the strained political situation here, but added:

"Anybody who feels isolated and nervous over here ought to go home. Personally, I'd soon not have nervous people around. I don't feel isolated."

It was reported by Stars and Stripes in Frankfort today that more than half the families of U. S. airmen in Europe answered yes when asked if they wanted to fly home at government expense. The army newspaper said between 1,500 and 1,600 of the air force's 2,800 family units will be flown home as soon as planes are available.

Clay said 43 families representing 72 dependents in Berlin had asked for passage home. There are about 2,500 dependents in Berlin.

The American licensed press reported the Russians are purging their zonal border police of all but "trusted Communists." Dana News Agency dispatch said approximately 30 per cent of the 7,000 German police who guard the Russian zone's border with the West, had deserted.

The Russians today released 20 of the 50 German barges which they had held up at Wittenberge. The skippers were told however that they could not return from the British zone until they got new interzonal permits but they were not told where or how they could get the new papers.

The British said their suspension of inland water traffic through the Soviet zone will remain in force until the situation is clarified. All the released barges were bound for Hamburg.

TERZIAS ARE OFF TO MINN. MEETING

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Terzia and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Terzia, Jr., left Friday to attend the 44th annual convention of the American Wood Preservers' Association being held this week at St. Paul, Minn.

The A. W. P. A., is the father of all wood preserving and their specifications are the final authority for all of the various pressure treatments of wood products.

The completion of the plant of the Leo Terzia Wood Preserving Company, being located on the Missouri Pacific railroad at Standifer street has been delayed due to critical shortage of essential steel equipment, however, Mr. Terzia hopes to have their plant in operation sometime this summer.

Uncle Sam imported 1,663 tons of dried figs in 1946-47 and 921 tons of these came from Turkey.

National security demands that, the President said.

A bill authorizing any congressional committee to obtain from government agencies whatever information it considers necessary already has been approved by the House expenditures committee.

But the Senate also would have to act on it, and it might encounter a presidential veto even if the Senate went along.

William C. Foster, acting Secretary of Commerce, sent a letter to John Andrews, clerk of the House today "respectfully" refusing the loyalty report on Condon, and referring the question to President Truman.

Martin told newsmen:

"I can see no reason that the (FBI) paper should not be made public. If there is nothing in it, it would be to the advantage of Dr. Condon to have the contents disclosed.

"If it is damaging, then the country should know it. There has been so much discussion about it that the public is entitled to know what is in it."

Rep. Herbert (D-La.) said the next step, in his opinion, should be adoption of a resolution to authorize congressional committees to get the information they want from government agencies.

The question now is: "Who is bigger, the President or Congress," Herbert said. "Utimately, I think the people and not the President will win."

Rep. Nixon (R-Cal.) said the Commerce department has indicated clearly that "it does not want all the facts on the Condon case to come out."

Both Herbert and Nixon are members of the unAmerican Activities committee.

Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.) called the Commerce department's action "an outrage." He, too, is on the unAmerican Activities committee.

The purpose is not to stress sales by any merchant but to impress upon all where stops are made that the Twin Cities are friendly places and to stress a friendly relationship that should exist between the larger cities of the area and the smaller towns in the vicinity.

This trip will be the first of several to be taken this spring and early summer.

STASSEN

$1,000 "without strings" are accepted. So far twelve to thirteen thousand individuals have contributed an average of $41 each. Stassen said he was "independent and free" to take his stand on public issues.

3. He said his brand of Republicanism more nearly conformed with that of the majority of the Republicans in Congress than that of Senator Taft.

This was the last day of Stassen's active campaign in Ohio, he said, save for a radio broadcast he intends to make on May 3 in Cleveland, the eve of the primary. He is contesting Taft for 23 of Ohio's 53 delegates to the Republican convention.

Getting down to his prospects for victory, the burly Minnesotan said it still was too early for predictions but he did set forth some strong hints.

For one thing, Stassen told his news conference, the "most critical period of my entire campaign will be during the next 30 days."

Next to Ohio the Oregon primaries are the most important, where he will vie with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for delegates, he said. He plans to fly to Portland, Ore., tomorrow from Minneapolis to open the "final phase" of his drive there. He also expects to be in Oregon the three days before the primaries: May 18, 19, 20.

Stassen refused to be drawn into a personal controversy with Taft. He parried repeated questions about Taft's expressed annoyance over the meaning of "liberalism" with the remark:

"I have a very high personal regard for the senior senator from Ohio. He has a full right to his views."

NEGRO WORKER FREE UNDER $2000 BOND

DETROIT, April 24.—(AP)—A 52-year-old political foe of Walter P. Reuther was freed today after two days of questioning in the attempted assassination of the fiery union leader.

The release on $2,000 bond of Nelson Davis was ordered by Circuit Judge Arthur Webster despite the pleas of Detroit police that the Negro auto worker be detained another 48 hours.

Davis, a minor local official of Reuther's United Auto Workers, was taken into custody Thursday on a report from a union tipster that he could give information on Reuther's shooting, police said.

Reuther was reported doing well in Grace hospital. He was taken there immediately after the shooting, in which his right arm was nearly torn off by the shotgun blast. Specialists said they believed he might regain full use of his arm, despite injury to a nerve.

CHILD DIES FROM REGURGITATION

TALLULAH, La., April 24.—(Special)—Sherry Diane Hetland, 9-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hetland, of near here, died while enroute to a local hospital yesterday afternoon from what Dr. E. Otis Edgerton termed "regurgitation."

Besides her parents, the infant is survived by one brother, Thomas E. Benton; her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hetland, and her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Ashley, all of Madison parish.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Tallulah Methodist Church with the Rev. J. D. Wallace, pastor of the Willow Bayou Baptist Church, and the Rev. J. F. Kilpatrick, pastor of the Tallulah Methodist Church, officiating.

PESSIMISTIC RED WINS SWEEPSTAKE

Luigi Prato, of northern Valenza, won 60,000,000 lire (roughly $100,000) for guessing that his party would take a trouncing at the polls.

He was sole winner, and only the government taxes put a bit into his prize.

Millions of Italians spent millions of lire in "totalvoto," trying to hit the jackpot by guessing how many deputies each party would get. Luigi hit it on the nose.

NAVY ASSERTS NATION MUST DEPEND ON SEAROADS IN WAR

Main Job In Any Future Conflict Will Be To Obtain Scarce Materials

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—The United States must depend on the searoads of the world for raw materials—come peace, come war—the navy said today.

Two wars in the past 30 years have cut heavily into the nation's natural resources and one of the navy's main jobs in any future conflict will be guarding freighters, laden with manganese, chrome, tin, rubber and aluminum.

The navy, in a book prepared for its top councils, lists 20 "representative raw materials" brought from overseas in 1946, and traces U. S. "life lines" in world charts for each material.

"The Continental United States is not and has not been self-sufficient in all the raw materials necessary either to carry on successfully a modern war, or to maintain a balanced national economy in peacetime," the book's foreward declares.

"While we are rich in certain natural resources, we do not have within Continental North America, adequate supplies: of manganese and chrome, imperative in the manufacture of steel; of tin, a requisite for engine bearings; of rubber, indispensable to our automotive transportation systems; of bauxite, basic in the manufacture of aluminum; and of a number of other essential materials.

"It is vital for the United States to keep open the sea lanes over which these supplies come from far distant places."

The book makes no mention of stockpiling of critical materials, which is planned to prevent the U. S. running out of essential supplies in wartime.

A study of the charts reveals that all or nearly all of ten of the 20 essential materials are procured in the Western Hemisphere. The remainder come largely from Africa, the East Indies and the Far East.

Small quantities of only three ores are imported from Europe, and presumably would be cut off in case of conflict on that continent.

Chrome ore comes from Russia and Turkey (14.2 percent); manganese ore Britain, Spain, France, Portugal and The Netherlands (8.6 percent).

Most of the United States' chrome ore and manganese is imported from Africa and India (50.6 percent and 56.8 percent respectively); most of its tungsten, from South America (47.2 percent).

The petroleum chart showed no imports from the strategic Persian gulf area, where the navy has been drawing fuel for its ships for years.

The navy took about 22,000,000 barrels from the Persian Gulf in 1946, an official said, and is buying at about the same rate now.

He explained the navy's oil was not shown on the charts since it was used directly in the ships and was not actually imported into the U. S. No other essential material was handled this way.

Total U. S. procurement in 1946—domestic production plus imports—was 1,824,883,429 barrels, of which only five percent was imported—from Mexico and South America.

"Know your fellow neighbor better, and you will like him," the men from the Twin Cities will get a closer-up knowledge of the men who like themselves are managing their business and striving generally for a better world in which to live. The party will be headed by Herbert Fink, the popular chairman of the retail merchants division.

The safety slogan contest sponsored by the National Safety council produced a large number of slogans entered for prizes which at the same time embodied lessons of safety in the home and safe driving. Here are some submitted:

He went for a spill,
Good thing accident insurance
Paid the doctor's bill."—Bobby Bass.

"Don't forget to put yours toys away
So you will live to play,
Another day."—Suzanne Dupont.

"Don't try to drink and drive
And tomorrow you will still be alive."—Chas. Fontana.

"Don't mix drinking and driving
So tomorrow you'll still be thriving."—Skipper Hunter.

When the Ouachita parish school board meets for the next session, there will be a woman in the group for the first time. Mrs. Harold Mouk, wife of a well known insurance man, has been appointed by Gov. Jimmie Davis as member to serve out the unexpired term of A. B. Guthrie from Ward one. She is a thoroughly capable woman well versed in the needs that are to be encountered in the progress of education in a time when the entire setup sees likely to be greatly modernized. Incidentally for more than 20 years, the city school board has had a woman as member. She is Mrs. Daisy Terzia who fills a most responsible post in capable manner.

Joe Ann Wood, of 118 Richmond street, Monroe, who is employed in the city hall, is of the opinion that someone endeavored to play a joke on her when writing a letter to Jes' Ramblin' which bore her name. She states that she most surely did not write it and that the circumstances cited in the letter never happened so far as she is concerned. Jes' Ramblin' sincerely regrets if any embarassment was occasioned, and promises it will not happen again.

SNELL AGAINST SMELL

SEATTLE, APRIL 24.—(AP)—The enemy used it first. State Game Director Don Clarke said today he had no choice but to order all-out chemical warfare. His hunters are using gas bombs to kill off predatory skunks.

A technique of testing the air of machine shops to detect the rare element beryllium in quantities as minute as six one-trillionths of a pound has been put to use by a large laboratory.

Hearings on the House-approved 70-group air force will be before the Senate appropriations committee. Chairman Bridges (R-NH) of that group already is on record in favor of the 70-group plan rushed through the House ahead of all other measures by a top-heavy 343-3 vote.

Secretary of Defense Forrestal will be the initial witness at the Senate hearings. He already has upped his original plans for a 5-group air force to 66 groups.

This caused Rep. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) to say today that the only issue now remaining is "jet or mothball plans."

Johnson, a member of the House armed services committee, urged Forrestal and the Senate to follow the lead of the House in providing funds to immediately begin conversion from "the mothball airplanes of World War II."

Forrestal said his 66-group compromise involves returning some 10 groups of World War II B-29 bombers to active service.

"The issue is," Johnson said in a statement, "not one of billions of dollars more but rather of 82,000,000 to provide in 1950 and 1951, 1,056 modern planes of which more than 75 per cent are jet powered; 804 of these are jet fighters and 50 are 4-engine bombers."

When Gurney's committee meets Monday afternoon, it expects to receive another administration compromise on UMT.

This would delay for at least a year the original plan to set up a separate UMT to train 18 and 19 year olds. Instead they would train with regular army, navy and air force recruits and draftees but for less than the two years which drafted men would serve.

Forrestal still is asking a long range UMT program but told senators he will go along with the combination of draft and UMT training during the next year.

The House armed services committee was to meet behind closed doors to begin writing its temporary draft bill. It calls for registration of men 18 through 30 years with actual induction limited to those 19 through 25.

Gurney said the new proposal to freeze sale of surplus wartime plants, tools and machinery came from the munitions board, one of the planning agencies of the national military establishment.

It proposes a permanent pool of plants and machinery that could be quickly converted to wartime production if necessary.

The board plans to set aside 28 war plants that previously had been offered for sale as surplus. It also asks that a large number of other plants offered for sale or lease be converted by a "security clause" which would allow the government to reconvert them for military production within 120 days.

The munitions board said the plants and production equipment being placed on its preparedness list "represent a government investment of millions of dollars and years of time to construct."

The "national reserve of industrial productive capacity" now covers 146 plants, the board said and added: 30 plants now are under lease but could be quickly converted to government use; 31 others have been sold subject to the "security clause"; 23 are being used for production and 62 are under control of the War Assets corporation which sells war surpluses.

It said "150 to 200 additional plants may be placed on the security clause list."

The board also reported that 192,000 items of machine tools are production equipment already have been selected from a stock of 2,000,000 but that additional tools and machinery should be put in reserve.

BATHTUB EQUALS PIG

FRANKFURT, Germany—(AP)—Which will you take: a pig or a bathtub? In Germany, city folks take pigs and farmers take bathtubs. For such deals, the farmer has become the most hated man in Germany. The city people say: "Better times will come when the carpets on the pigsty floors are returned to their owners"—the hungry industrial workers who traded them for food. American and German officials say that not every farmer is a black marketeer. Many do their best to help the needy town people. But experts say if all the pigs that vanished in 1947 had been legally distributed, the average German's meat ration would have been upped 50 percent. Now the average man gets only eight pounds of meat a year.

The colorful scarlet tunics, which have been in storage since 1939, will be worn for all future state occasions, beginning with June 10, the king's official birthday. Here, Corporal A. R. to use fighter escort, I don't think you'll worry about that very much."

Clay said the Russians have made no move to hold talks they had proposed for clarifying their restrictions on land travel to Berlin. Asked if he thought a reasonable solution could be reached on this question, he replied:

"Reasonable people can sit across a table and develop a reasonable solution, but I can't see much prospect on this."

He said that no pressure is being put on American dependents to leave Berlin or Germany because of the strained political situation here, but added:

"Anybody who feels isolated and nervous over here ought to go home. Personally, I'd soon not have nervous people around. I don't feel isolated."

It was reported by Stars and Stripes in Frankfort today that more than half the families of U. S. airmen in Europe answered yes when asked if they wanted to fly home at government expense. The army newspaper said between 1,500 and 1,600 of the air force's 2,800 family units will be flown home as soon as planes are available.

Clay said 43 families representing 72 dependents in Berlin had asked for passage home. There are about 2,500 dependents in Berlin.

The American licensed press reported the Russians are purging their zonal border police of all but "trusted Communists." Dana News Agency dispatch said approximately 30 per cent of the 7,000 German police who guard the Russian zone's border with the West, had deserted.

The Russians today released 20 of the 50 German barges which they had held up at Wittenberge. The skippers were told however that they could not return from the British zone until they got new interzonal permits but they were not told where or how they could get the new papers.

The British said their suspension of inland water traffic through the Soviet zone will remain in force until the situation is clarified. All the released barges were bound for Hamburg.

TERZIAS ARE OFF TO MINN. MEETING

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Terzia and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Terzia, Jr., left Friday to attend the 44th annual convention of the American Wood Preservers' Association being held this week at St. Paul, Minn.

The A. W. P. A., is the father of all wood preserving and their specifications are the final authority for all of the various pressure treatments of wood products.

The completion of the plant of the Leo Terzia Wood Preserving Company, being located on the Missouri Pacific railroad at Standifer street has been delayed due to critical shortage of essential steel equipment, however, Mr. Terzia hopes to have their plant in operation sometime this summer.

Uncle Sam imported 1,663 tons of dried figs in 1946-47 and 921 tons of these came from Turkey.

CINCINNATI, April 24.—(AP)—Elmer Singleton twirled a five-hitter today as the Pittsburgh Pirates thumped Cincinnati 7-1 for their first win of the season over the Reds. With a crowd of 10,385 looking on, Pirate Max West clubbed a sixth inning homer to break a 1-1 tie and turn the tide. GIRL SOFTBALLERS GIVE BASEBALL TRY

JONESVILLE, La., April 24.—(Special)—It may not prove the age-old argument about which is the fastest game—softball or baseball—but it certainly will be a novelty Sunday afternoon when the Jonesville Bruins, a 15-year-old age limit boys baseball team, meets the Southern Chevrolet girls' softball team of Alexandria.

They'll play baseball on Block High School diamond beginning at 3:30 p. m.

Although the advantage seems to be all the boys, the record of the Southern Chevrolet girls evens things up. They were finalists in the 1947 state semi-pro softball tournament. Managing the feminine aggregation is Agnes Grice of Alexandria. The Herrin-Collins-McInnis team of Baton Rouge edged the Alexandrians in the final game to take the championship.

Sportswriter Ray Lee of the Alexandria Daily Town Talk said this week that he didn't know how the girls would fare in baseball but if they did half as well as they perform in softball, "the Bruins are in for a mighty rough afternoon."

The game will be the season's opener for the Bruins and Coach Frank Schneider has selected Bud Wilson as the starting hurler.

Harrisonburg Wins Fame With One-Man Squad—Henry Hand

HARRISONBURG, La., April 24.—(Special—You've heard of one-man track teams but "you ain't heard nuthin" until you've been told about the antics of Henry Hand, a senior at Harrisonburg High School.

The diminutive honor student is really a one-man team at Harrisonburg High because he is the only one to don thinclads. And, he did it so well that he won two firsts, a second and a third in the Class B and C events at the annual Central Louisiana Rally in Pineville last week end.

Coaching himself for four weeks prior to the rally, Hand set the best time of the day (including A and AA entries) in the half-mile to win in two minutes and seventeen seconds.

Using chairs he borrowed from the school auditorium as practice dummies prior to the rally, Hand sped over the high hurdles to win first place in 19 seconds.

Getting in only a couple of weeks practice with a javelin, he tossed the spear 132 feet for second place honors in that event.

Although running third in the 440-yard dash, Henry was only two seconds behind the winner who nipped over the line at 56 seconds.

For his efforts, the plucky lad received two gold medals, a silver and a bronze one.

In racking up these honors, Hand was watched by only one hometown supporter, Clarence Routon, Jr., who made the trip to Pineville to keep the trackman company.

Catahoula parish schools do not have track and field teams so when Henry transferred to Harrisonburg High School from Coushatta last fall, he was dismayed at the thought of losing out of track competition. However, he began a month ago preparing himself for the Central Louisiana Rally.

Despite his excellent showing, he will not be allowed to compete in the state rally because eligibility is based on a team score.

His one-man team score was 17 points while several schools boasting complete teams only compiled 18.

If there are any college coaches reading this—yes, he graduates in May.

DERBY DANDIES

Erratic Escadru Seen As Definite Threat With Fast Finishing Style

NEW YORK, April 24—(NEA)—Escadru won the Ardsley Handicap at a mile-and-a-sixteenth over a sloppy Jamaica track last fall by running well off the pace and letting go in the stretch.

In the Experimental Freed Handicap No. 2 at the same distance and over a fast, but deep, Jamaica strip, William L. Brann's chestnut son of Challenger 2nd was rushed to keep up with the early speed, lugged in again and flattened out. He closed well in the Experimental Handicap No. 1 at six furlongs.

He is beautifully bred. Challenger 2nd commanded the highest stud fee advertised in 1947, $2500 and no return. His dam is a Sir Gallahad III mare. He was foaled at Glade Valley Farm, Frederick, Md.

Tony Kelley, who galloped him, was very high on Escadru.

"He's a colt of beautiful disposition and unusual intelligence," he said, "very smart, quick to learn and well mannered.

Trainer Ed Christmas chose to wait until August at Saratoga before starting Escadru, and he had trice won, showed and finished fourth by the time the Champagne Stakes rolled around.

There he was one of five which raced heads and necks apart to the stretch, where he swept around the leaders on the outside and led to the 16th pole. There Vulcan's Forge bounded past to prevail by better than a length in the good time of 1:36 3/5 for the mile.

Escadru appeared to lug in all the way, and Johnny Adams' efforts to keep him from bothering horses might have cost him the race.

Escadru had a more clear-cut excuse in the Remsen Handicap.

He was bumped hard by Quebec as they came out of the gate, and as he moved in pursuit of My Request, Myrmidon and Ace Admiral going into the back-stretch he was blocked, and Adams was forced to rise in his stirrups and take back.

Escadru moved up on the outside while Big If and My Request fought through the stretch, and again Adams had his hands full trying to keep his mount from bearing in. My Request gave up, and Escadru in second place was closing fastest of all.

His time in the slop of the Ardsley, 1:45 4/5, was but a shade lower than that for the Remsen, which was run over a fast track.

In 10 starts, Escadru has won four races, placed twice, showed once and been out of the money three times. He has earned $35,000.

Escadru is the type that figures to come on, but he'll have to move in a hurry to figure in the Kentucky Derby, May 1.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—Looks as if the Wood Memorial would be run at Jamaica today merely to decide which horse might run third in the Kentucky Derby—and, of course, for a little matter of 40,000 bucks. . . . Now that Coaltown has proved he can run a distance there doesn't seem to be any way of stopping the Calumet entry. . . . At Hialeah last winter, Handicapper John Campbell refused to pass judgment on Coaltown until "some horse comes up beside him and looks him in the eye"—which is a horseman's way of saying a horse has met a real challenge. . . . But how can they look him in the eye if they can't get near enough?

Soft Reply

Casimir (Slug) Witucki, one of Indiana's best football linemen, lost 14 pounds during the first week of spring drills. . . . He was displaying his new look to Coach Clyde Smith when Smith noticed that Slug still was carrying some extra weight around his hips. . . . "That might come off, too, before we're through," said Clyde. . . . "Oh, no," exclaimed Witucki. Those are my hip pads."

Shorts And Shells

Sixty-eight American Legion baseball teams have signed up for state competition in North Carolina. That's quite an increase over last year. . . . Rutgers' fine football passing combination, Frank Burns to Herm Hering, has been reversed this spring. Hering pitches and Burns catches for the baseball team. . . . More than 200 entries already have been listed for the final Olympic wrestling trials next week, with 16 of them coming from the Oklahoma Aggies and ten from Iowa State Teachers. . . . Auburn, N. Y., boasts a Y-Church Basketball League which has just ended its 41st consecutive year of operation and fans up that way are wondering if it isn't a record. Any information?

Full Of Pep

Broadway Johnny Cox, the New Orleans boxing press agent, is boosting Featherweight Champion Willie Pep as the equal of Abe Attell and Johnny Kilbane (maybe because Pep is due to fight in New Orleans this summer). . . . But Johnny gives some good reasons—the leading contenders who have fallen clear down the ladder after Pep got through with them. . . . Ex-Champ Chalky Wright, Phil Terranova, Sal Bartolo and Jock Leslie all faded out after being manhandled by Willie and the most recent challenger, Humberto Sierra, looked very bad in his next appearance after being stopped by Pep.

Weak End Notes

Although Michigan's spring football drills haven't gone very far, they're already listing Gene Derricote, Dick Kempthorn, Dom Tomasi, Art Wistert and Dan Dworsky as guys who'll be stars next fall. . . . But on which Michigan team? . . . Luke Appling, the White Sox veteran third baseman, is proposing himself as president of the 'I Hate Night Baseball' lodge since Stan Hack is out of the majors. . . . Says Appling: "Stan hated it, but not any more than old Luke." . . . Gosh, we thought they both were old enough to stay out after dark.

Oak Grove Fighter One of Outstanding Battlers Of State

OAK GROVE, La., April 24.—(Special)—With the high school boxing season just closed, Lamar Hankins, Oak Grove High School 98-pounder, rolled up a most enviable record climaxed by his march through all opposition to the state championship of his class at Baton Rouge.

Hankins, 14-year-old son of Mrs. Betty Hankins, Oak Grove, and Fletcher Hankins, Monroe, had the hardest road to travel in winning his state title than any other class fighter in the tournament. His conquests included victories over Alvin Menard, national champion of Scott High, in the quarter-finals, and in the semi-finals he decisioned Charles Weaver, defending state champ of Crowley. He met and defeated J. R. Hodges, La-Grange of Lake Charles, in the finals.

Winner of 67 of his 71 ring appearances in recent years, Hankins was aclaimed the fighter making the most outstanding contribution to the tournament and thus was awarded the special Francis Brink trophy. Sportsmanship, ability, achievement, and courage was taken into consideration in making the award.

The Tiger puncher, already tagged one of the finest prep fighters in the south and the best in this section of the state since Sylvian Wiggins, Neville of Monroe, won the 98-pound state title in 1940, is a terrific counter puncher with a deadly left and a good follow-up with his right.

Rain does not clear the air of impurities, according to tests made in 14 American industrial cities.

LEGION BALL NOTES

Representatives of a dozen American Legion Junior baseball clubs in northeast Louisiana will meet here next Sunday afternoon to adopt schedules for three leagues in the district and make all other plans necessary for the formal opening of official play, probably late in May.

Teams known ready to operate are Ferriday, Winnsboro, Jonesville, Columbia, Lake Providence, Delhi, Rayville, Bastrop, Farmerville, Ruston, Jonesboro, and Monroe-West Monroe. The deadline for accepting any additional teams from the Fifth District this season is the Sunday meeting.

A primary aim of the American Legion in its junior baseball program is to forward sportsmanship among the nation's youthful athletes—and the fans.

1. The good sportsman has learned respect for rules. The good citizen has also learned respect for rules, though the rules which he respects are properly known as laws.

2. The good sportsman has learned fair play. The good citizen has also learned fair play in that he is always tolerant of the political, economic and religious views of others.

3. The good sportsman has learned loyalty. The good citizens has also learned loyalty, the basis of all sound organization.

4. The good sportsman has learned teamwork. The good citizen has also learned teamwork, which is merely another name for cooperation. A nation of individualists would pass swiftly into anarchy.

5. The good sportsman has learned gameness. A good citizen has also learned gameness in that he does not capitulate or whine when the tide sets against him. The grumbler lacks sportsmanship.

6. The good sportsman has learned democracy. The good citizen has also learned democracy in that he recognizes no standard of human excellence save merit.

T. W. "Bill" Hardy, chairman of Legion baseball for the L. B. Faulk Post here, after watching the Monroe-West Monroe club in a workout under the direction of Coach Pete Medak, announced the squad "looks good for this early in the season, and the pitching will be better this year."

John Nicosia is all set to turn out his third American Legion team at Winnsboro, and the former Northeast Junior College athlete has an all-year job in athletics at the Franklin parish seat. He coaches all athletics, football, basketball, and baseball, at Winnsboro High School, and also is a member of the Winnsboro Red Sox baseball organization.

At Rayville, Don Darling is preparing for his second junior club. His first team last year won the championship of the "East League" composed of Delhi, Winnsboro, and Ferriday in addition to Rayville.

RUSTON, DUBACH PLAY EXHIBITION CONTEST TODAY

Big Eight Champs Face Rivals For Benefit Of Legion Programs

RUSTON, La., April 21.—(Special)—The Ruston Volunteers open their baseball season here tomorrow in a benefit game for the American Legion. Their opponent will be Dubach, strong Big Eight League rival of the Vols who won the league championship for the past two seasons under the guidance of Berry Hinton, playing manager.

The game will give the Ruston fans an opportunity to see what Manager Hinto has to offer for 1948, and at the same time proceeds of the contest, beginning at 3 o'clock at Fraser Field, will go to the American Legion to help finance the Legion's Boys' State and junior baseball programs.

The Vols are boasting just about the best player in the Big Eight League when it comes to catching, team play, handling the pitchers, and hitting when the chips are down in their star backstop, "Round Man" Willett.

A few newcomers with the Vols will be the Thigpen brothers, Pete Fields, and a few recruits from Hinton's Louisiana Tech squad.

The Dubach team will be back almost intact relative to last year's roster. Manager Barteet will have his hard hitting outfield of Roberson, Fuller, and Pendergrass, and his infield will be the same as last year with C. Hanna on first; Norris, of the all-league team, on second; Foster, now on the Louisiana Tech team, at shortstop; and Tatum holding down third.

Dubach always had a good group of chunkers, but this year, in addition to Richard Colvin, the pride of Dubach, they have "Lefty" Smith, Doug Colvin, and Scott, the latter three being regulars of the Tech team.

BOYS' BAEBALL TEAMS ARE SEEKING CONTESTS

COLUMBIA, La., April 24.—(Special)—Coach Woodrow Turner, who is developing wide athletic interests at Columbia High School, is also mapping a kids' baseball program to be conducted throughout the remainder of the school year and summer season.

Turner has three kids' teams already at work and is seeking games with other teams of this area in the age groups with which he is working.

GIRL SOFTBALLERS GIVE BASEBALL TRY

JONESVILLE, La., April 24.—(Special)—It may not prove the age-old argument about which is the fastest game—softball or baseball—but it certainly will be a novelty Sunday afternoon when the Jonesville Bruins, a 15-year-old age limit boys baseball team, meets the Southern Chevrolet girls' softball team of Alexandria.

They'll play baseball on Block High School diamond beginning at 3:30 p. m.

Although the advantage seems to be all the boys, the record of the Southern Chevrolet girls evens things up. They were finalists in the 1947 state semi-pro softball tournament. Managing the feminine aggregation is Agnes Grice of Alexandria. The Herrin-Collins-McInnis team of Baton Rouge edged the Alexandrians in the final game to take the championship.

Sportswriter Ray Lee of the Alexandria Daily Town Talk said this week that he didn't know how the girls would fare in baseball but if they did half as well as they perform in softball, "the Bruins are in for a mighty rough afternoon."

The game will be the season's opener for the Bruins and Coach Frank Schneider has selected Bud Wilson as the starting hurler.

Harrisonburg Wins Fame With One-Man Squad—Henry Hand

HARRISONBURG, La., April 24.—(Special—You've heard of one-man track teams but "you ain't heard nuthin" until you've been told about the antics of Henry Hand, a senior at Harrisonburg High School.

The diminutive honor student is really a one-man team at Harrisonburg High because he is the only one to don thinclads. And, he did it so well that he won two firsts, a second and a third in the Class B and C events at the annual Central Louisiana Rally in Pineville last week end.

Coaching himself for four weeks prior to the rally, Hand set the best time of the day (including A and AA entries) in the half-mile to win in two minutes and seventeen seconds.

Using chairs he borrowed from the school auditorium as practice dummies prior to the rally, Hand sped over the high hurdles to win first place in 19 seconds.

Getting in only a couple of weeks practice with a javelin, he tossed the spear 132 feet for second place honors in that event.

Although running third in the 440-yard dash, Henry was only two seconds behind the winner who nipped over the line at 56 seconds.

For his efforts, the plucky lad received two gold medals, a silver and a bronze one.

In racking up these honors, Hand was watched by only one hometown supporter, Clarence Routon, Jr., who made the trip to Pineville to keep the trackman company.

Catahoula parish schools do not have track and field teams so when Henry transferred to Harrisonburg High School from Coushatta last fall, he was dismayed at the thought of losing out of track competition. However, he began a month ago preparing himself for the Central Louisiana Rally.

Despite his excellent showing, he will not be allowed to compete in the state rally because eligibility is based on a team score.

His one-man team score was 17 points while several schools boasting complete teams only compiled 18.

If there are any college coaches reading this—yes, he graduates in May.

DERBY DANDIES

NEW YORK, April 24—(NEA)—Escadru won the Ardsley Handicap at a mile-and-a-sixteenth over a sloppy Jamaica track last fall by running well off the pace and letting go in the stretch.

In the Experimental Freed Handicap No. 2 at the same distance and over a fast, but deep, Jamaica strip, William L. Brann's chestnut son of Challenger 2nd was rushed to keep up with the early speed, lugged in again and flattened out. He closed well in the Experimental Handicap No. 1 at six furlongs.

Escadru takes his musical name from the maternal side of the family—Escalade, Escadrille and Escuino. A big, handsome fellow, he is called Red by the boys around the barn.

He is beautifully bred. Challenger 2nd commanded the highest stud fee advertised in 1947, $2500 and no return. His dam is a Sir Gallahad III mare. He was foaled at Glade Valley Farm, Frederick, Md.

Tony Kelley, who galloped him, was very high on Escadru.

"He's a colt of beautiful disposition and unusual intelligence," he said, "very smart, quick to learn and well mannered.

Trainer Ed Christmas chose to wait until August at Saratoga before starting Escadru, and he had trice won, showed and finished fourth by the time the Champagne Stakes rolled around.

There he was one of five which raced heads and necks apart to the stretch, where he swept around the leaders on tne outside and led to the 16th pole. There Vulcan's Forge bounded past to prevail by better than a length in the good time of 1:36 3/5 for the mile.

Escadru appeared to lug in all the way, and Johnny Adams' efforts to keep him from bothering horses might have cost him the race.

Escadru had a more clear-cut excuse in the Remsen Handicap.

He was bumped hard by Quebec as they came out of the gate, and as he moved in pursuit of My Request, Myrmidon and Ace Admiral going into the back-stretch he was blocked, and Adams was forced to rise in his stirrups and take back.

Escadru moved up on the outside while Big If and My Request fought through the stretch, and again Adams had his hands full trying to keep his mount from bearing in. My Request gave up, and Escadru in second place was closing fastest of all.

His time in the slop of the Ardsley, 1:45 4/5, was but a shade lower than that for the Remsen, which was run over a fast track.

In 10 starts, Escadru has won four races, placed twice, showed once and been out of the money three times. He has earned $35,000.

Escadru is the type that figures to come on, but he'll have to move in a hurry to figure in the Kentucky Derby, May 1.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—Looks as if the Wood Memorial would be run at Jamaica today merely to decide which horse might run third in the Kentucky Derby—and, of course, for a little matter of 40,000 bucks. . . . Now that Coaltown has proved he can run a distance there doesn't seem to be any way of stopping the Calumet entry. . . . At Hialeah last winter, Handicapper John Campbell refused to pass judgment on Coaltown until "some horse comes up beside him and looks him in the eye"—which is a horseman's way of saying a horse has met a real challenge. . . . But how can they look him in the eye if they can't get near enough?

Soft Reply

Casimir (Slug) Witucki, one of Indiana's best football linemen, lost 14 pounds during the first week of spring drills. . . . He was displaying his new look to Coach Clyde Smith when Smith noticed that Slug still was carrying some extra weight around his hips. . . . "That might come off, too, before we're through," said Clyde. . . . "Oh, no," exclaimed Witucki. Those are my hip pads."

Shorts And Shells

Sixty-eight American Legion baseball teams have signed up for state competition in North Carolina. That's quite an increase over last year. . . . Rutgers' fine football passing combination, Frank Burns to Herm Hering, has been reversed this spring. Hering pitches and Burns catches for the baseball team. . . . More than 200 entries already have been listed for the final Olympic wrestling trials next week, with 16 of them coming from the Oklahoma Aggies and ten from Iowa State Teachers. . . . Auburn, N. Y., boasts a Y-Church Basketball League which has just ended its 41st consecutive year of operation and fans up that way are wondering if it isn't a record. Any information?

Full Of Pep

Broadway Johnny Cox, the New Orleans boxing press agent, is boosting Featherweight Champion Willie Pep as the equal of Abe Attell and Johnny Kilbane (maybe because Pep is due to fight in New Orleans this summer). . . . But Johnny gives some good reasons—the leading contenders who have fallen clear down the ladder after Pep got through with them. . . . Ex-Champ Chalky Wright, Phil Terranova, Sal Bartolo and Jock Leslie all faded out after being manhandled by Willie and the most recent challenger, Humberto Sierra, looked very bad in his next appearance after being stopped by Pep.

Weak End Notes

Although Michigan's spring football drills haven't gone very far, they're already listing Gene Derricote, Dick Kempthorn, Dom Tomasi, Art Wistert and Dan Dworsky as guys who'll be stars next fall. . . . But on which Michigan team? . . . Luke Appling, the White Sox veteran third baseman, is proposing himself as president of the 'I Hate Night Baseball' lodge since Stan Hack is out of the majors. . . . Says Appling: "Stan hated it, but not any more than old Luke." . . . Gosh, we thought they both were old enough to stay out after dark.

OAK GROVE, La., April 24.—(Special)—With the high school boxing season just closed, Lamar Hankins, Oak Grove High School 98-pounder, rolled up a most enviable record climaxed by his march through all opposition to the state championship of his class at Baton Rouge.

Hankins, 14-year-old son of Mrs. Betty Hankins, Oak Grove, and Fletcher Hankins, Monroe, had the hardest road to travel in winning his state title than any other class fighter in the tournament. His conquests included victories over Alvin Menard, national champion of Scott High, in the quarter-finals, and in the semi-finals he decisioned Charles Weaver, defending state champ of Crowley. He met and defeated J. R. Hodges, LaGrange of Lake Charles, in the finals.

Winner of 67 of his 71 ring appearances in recent years, Hankins was aclaimed the fighter making the most outstanding contribution to the tournament and thus was awarded the special Francis Brink trophy. Sportsmanship, ability, achievement, and courage was taken into consideration in making the award.

The Tiger puncher, already tagged one of the finest prep fighters in the south and the best in this section of the state since Sylvian Wiggins, Neville of Monroe, won the 98-pound state title in 1940, is a terrific counter puncher with a deadly left and a good follow-up with his right.

Rain does not clear the air of impurities, according to tests made in 14 American industrial cities.

LEGION BALL NOTES

Representatives of a dozen American Legion Junior baseball clubs in northeast Louisiana will meet here next Sunday afternoon to adopt schedules for three leagues in the district and make all other plans necessary for the formal opening of official play, probably late in May.

Teams known ready to operate are Ferriday, Winnsboro, Jonesville, Columbia, Lake Providence, Delhi, Rayville, Bastrop, Farmerville, Ruston, Jonesboro, and Monroe-West Monroe. The deadline for accepting any additional teams from the Fifth District this season is the Sunday meeting.

A primary aim of the American Legion in its junior baseball program is to forward sportsmanship among the nation's youthful athletes—and the fans.

1. The good sportsman has learned respect for rules. The good citizen has also learned respect for rules, though the rules which he respects are properly known as laws.

2. The good sportsman has learned fair play. The good citizen has also learned fair play in that he is always tolerant of the political, economic and religious views of others.

3. The good sportsman has learned loyalty. The good citizens has also learned loyalty, the basis of all sound organization.

4. The good sportsman has learned teamwork. The good citizen has also learned teamwork, which is merely another name for cooperation. A nation of individualists would pass swiftly into anarchy.

5. The good sportsman has learned gameness. A good citizen has also learned gameness in that he does not capitulate or whine when the tide sets against him. The grumbler lacks sportsmanship.

6. The good sportsman has learned democracy. The good citizen has also learned democracy in that he recognizes no standard of human excellence save merit.

T. W. "Bill" Hardy, chairman of Legion baseball for the L. B. Faulk Post here, after watching the Monroe-West Monroe club in a workout under the direction of Coach Pete Medak, announced the squad "looks good for this early in the season, and the pitching will be better this year."

John Nicosia is all set to turn out his third American Legion team at Winnsboro, and the former Northeast Junior College athlete has an all-year job in athletics at the Franklin parish seat. He coaches all athletics, football, basketball, and baseball, at Winnsboro High School, and also is a member of the Winnsboro Red Sox baseball organization.

At Rayville, Don Darling is preparing for his second junior club. His first team last year won the championship of the "East League" composed of Delhi, Winnsboro, and Ferriday in addition to Rayville.

RUSTON, DUBACH PLAY EXHIBITION CONTEST TODAY

Big Eight Champs Face Rivals For Benefit Of Legion Programs

RUSTON, La., April 21.—(Special)—The Ruston Volunteers open their baseball season here tomorrow in a benefit game for the American Legion. Their opponent will be Dubach, strong Big Eight League rival of the Vols who won the league championship for the past two seasons under the guidance of Berry Hinton, playing manager.

The game will give the Ruston fans an opportunity to see what Manager Hinto has to offer for 1948, and at the same time proceeds of the contest, beginning at 3 o'clock at Fraser Field, will go to the American Legion to help finance the Legion's Boys' State and junior baseball programs.

The Vols are boasting just about the best player in the Big Eight League when it comes to catching, team play, handling the pitchers, and hitting when the chips are down in their star backstop, "Round Man" Willett.

A few newcomers with the Vols will be the Thigpen brothers, Pete Fields, and a few recruits from Hinton's Louisiana Tech squad.

The Dubach team will be back almost intact relative to last year's roster. Manager Barteet will have his hard hitting outfield of Roberson, Fuller, and Pendergrass, and his infield will be the same as last year with C. Hanna on first; Norris, of the all-league team, on second; Foster, now on the Louisiana Tech team, at shortstop; and Tatum holding down third.

Dubach always had a good group of chunkers, but this year, in addition to Richard Colvin, the pride of Dubach, they have "Lefty" Smith, Doug Colvin, and Scott, the latter three being regulars of the Tech team.

BOYS' BAEBALL TEAMS ARE SEEKING CONTESTS

COLUMBIA, La., April 24.—(Special)—Coach Woodrow Turner, who is developing wide athletic interests at Columbia High School, is also mapping a kids' baseball program to be conducted throughout the remainder of the school year and summer season.

Turner has three kids' teams already at work and is seeking games with other teams of this area in the age groups with which he is working.

He has a club of boys eight to ten years old, another for kids 10 to 12, and another for boys 12 to 14. Any teams of corresponding ages in this area desiring games with Columbia outfits are invited to contact Coach Turner.

CROSSED WIRES CAUSE RADIO EMBARASSMENT

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—An obscene word uttered by an exasperated public telephone patron was broadcast today when a telephone line and the wire carrying the broadcast of the Yankee-Red Sox baseball game became entangled.

The epithet—one not used in polite society—had hardly hit the eardrums of station WINS listners when technicians cut off the broadcast. Recorded music quickly followed.

Mel Allen was describing the progress of the game when the frustrated telephone patron expostulated.

A WINS spokesman said the wire from Allen's microphone at Yankee Stadium to the studio apparently "had been hooked into a public circuit and some irate person trying to put through a call heard the broadcast and broke into it.

"We cut him off immediately."

By 3:18 p.m. another line had been put into service and baseball went back on the air.

RUSTON'S LEGION PROSPECTS GOOD

In the pitching department, Coach Fox will have Louis Pipes, one of the best pitchers in Legion ball last year. Billy Davis, an all-state football and basketball player at Ruston High School, can be counted on for dependable pitching, good fielding and hitting. The Lowery twins have turned in excellent mound performances for Coach "Moose" Phillips' Ruston High Bearcats this spring and again will be a big help to the Legion team.

The catching department is expected to come up with a battle between three boys. Price, Gray and the ace backstop at Calhoun High, for the first string position.

There will be many candidates for the infield, including Humble, Berry, and Davis from last year's team. Humble should prove a valuable man with the stick this season, while Berry, the youngster of the team, has improved considerably over last year. Several of Coach Eddie McLane's Kid Leaguers will be out, including Pat McLane, Berry Hinton's promising youngster, and a natural player called "T Head." Several of "Moose" Phillips' infielders will be on hand.

Three regulars, Lee Roy Skinner, Sherrel, and Davis (and Pines when he's not pitching), will be back for the outfield.

Practice for the Legion junior squad will begin immediately after the high school playing season is over May 3. The Feazell-Elliot Ford Dealers of Ruston will again furnish a new bus for transportation and also new uniforms.

Players from Dubach, Calhoun, Choudrant, Simsboro, and Ruston are being invited to tryout for the team at the first practice scheduled for May 3. Any boy who will not reach his eighteenth birthday during 1948 is eligible to play.

ESSO OILERS VISIT WINNSBORO TODAY

WINNSBORO, La., April 24.—(Special)—The strong Winnsboro Red Sox, undefeated in five games this year, will engage the Esso Oilers of Baton Rouge here Sunday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock at Memorial Park.

The Crimson Hose knocked off the Oilers at Baton Rouge last Sunday, but Manager Pat Flanagan promises the Essos will come here better prepared to stop the Red Sox if possible.

On May 3 the Red Sox will be at home to Max Lanier's former major league All-Stars, described as the world's greatest traveling ball club. Lanier, former St. Louis Cardinal hurler who appeared in three World Series and on two major league All-Star teams, has banded together the major leaguers who jumped to the Mexican League a couple of years ago and are barnstorming the country while awaiting their "five-year rest" period to elapse before returning to the majors.

CLARKS DEFEATS REDSKINS, 13 TO 1

Rufus Yossett Comes Within One Out Of Pitching No-Hitter

CLARKS, La., April 24.—(Special)—The Clarks Lumberjacks of the North Central Louisiana League, coasted to a 13-1 victory over Northeast Junior College of L. S. U. here last night behind a stellar one-hit pitching job by Rufus Yossett, Lumberject hurler from West Monroe.

Yossett had the Indians completely handcuffed and an apparent no-hit no-run performance in the making after he reached the last inning of the seven-frame contest lacking only one out in order to register his no-hitter.

But with two out in the seventh, Ed Miller, Indian catcher, came up to line out a clean single for the lone N. J. C. hit and spoil Yossett's prospects of a perfect mound job. He fanned 12.

The Lumberjecks pasted two N. J. C. hurlers, Fluitt and Lindsey, for 12 hits including a homer by Steele and a triple by Thompson. Clarks goes to Monroe for a return game with the Tribe on May 11.

Jack Curtis Battles Rex Mobley For Light-Heavy Crown Tuesday

AFTER CROWN

Mel Peters And Angelo Austiro Billed For Semi-Final At Kallio's

Jack Curtis, former holder of the world's light heavyweight wrestling crown and most consistent attraction Promoter Gus Kallio has been able to bring here in nearly nine years of local promoting, will make another bid for the belt when he meets Champion Rex Mobley, Texas City, Tex., in the main event match at Kallio's Walnut street arena here Tuesday night.

Mobley successfully defended his belt here last week against the surprise challenge of Angelo Austiro, Clifton, N. J., when the latter was given the match on the strength of a win over Bobby Segura, Mexican champ, who had beaten Charlie Laye, the immediate past light-heavy kingpin.

However, Curtis is beyond a doubt a more capable opponent for Mobley than was Austiro, and the Vicksburg, Miss., flash can be counted on to give the Texas toughie a mighty busy night.

Mobley, who has held the throne on three or four different occasions and first appeared in this territory with the belt in 1940, made his most recent acquisition by defeating Charlie Laye, Knoxville, Tenn., a few weeks ago at Jackson, Miss. Laye had come into possession of the belt for the first time a few months previously by dethroning Curtis.

The title scramble Tuesday will have a time limit of an hour and a half with two falls to win.

Promoter Kallio last night said Claude Skidmore, Jackson, Miss., was being brought here to referee the night's matches.

Appearing in the semi-final will be Mel Peters, Portland, Ore., and Angelo Austiro for an hour time limit brawl with two falls to win.

Peters is still top contender for the light-heavy belt himself, and Angelo figures he is still due for some consideration for the close call he gave Mobley the past week.

CINDERELLAS FACE GREENVILLE TEAM

The Cinderella Sports return to duty against fast semi-pro opposition here this afternoon when they meet the Greenville Brown Bombers of Greenville, Miss., at 3 o'clock at Casino Park.

Manager Hardy Goins', fast Negro semi-pro club, beaten in only two games this year and once by the professional Harlem Globe Trotters, expects to send a lefthander, Judy Napoleon or J. B. Williams, to the mound against the visiting Greenville club today.

The Sports have been practicing hard the past week and feel confident they are ready to hit their winning stride again.

Special seats are reserved for white fans.

COLUMBIA TO FACE HODGE CLUB TODAY

COLUMBIA, La., April 24.—(Special)—The Columbia Ramblers will meet Jonesboro-Hodge here Sunday afternoon at Memorial Park in the Ramblers' last exhibition appearance before entering official play in the North Central Louisiana League on Sunday, May 2.

Jonesboro-Hodge is one of the top contenders in the Big Eight League and is expected to offer some stiff competition for the Ramblers who will be at league strength for the tilt tomorrow.

Pete Medak, veteran first sacker and manager of the Columbia team, will likely choose as his starting pitcher one of the club's new lefthanders who has not seen action in a game so far this season. Hodge is expected to open with an ace righthander.

Attendance has been good at games so far this season with local interest in the club pretty high. It is believed attendance records of 1947 will be equalled or bettered.

MY REQUEST 1ST IN WOOD, BOOSTS DERBY CHANCES

Long Shot, Mount Marcy, Romps Home Second In Memorial Run

By John Chandler

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—Duplicating his daddy's victory in 1942, My Request gave the Derby hopes of 10 other three-year-olds a setback today by driving to a tingling length and a half triumph in the 24th running of the Wood Memorial at Jamaica.

Thus the handsome chestnut son of Requested, who won this mile and one sixteenth classic six years ago, goes to Louisville with a perfect record for the season and established himself a colt to reckon with in the Kentucky Derby a week from today.

Trainers said after the race that My Request would be the only horse to go to the derby. Trainers of the second, third and fourth horses—Mount Marcy, Better Self and Salmagundi—said those steeds definitely would not go.

A long shot came along to grab second money. C. V. Whitney's Mount Marcy, who closed at 40 to 1, held a length margin over King Ranch's Better Self, who finished third after being established second choice in the wagering.

Made the even money favorite by the crowd of 48,711 persons who jampacked this Long Island course, My Request paid off at $4, $3.20 and $2.40 for $2. The victory, worth $34,600 to Whitaker, shot My Request's total earnings to $160,825.

My Request went the distance in 1:46 1/5, a full second more than it took his father six years ago. After his Wood triumph, Requested went to Louisville and finished fourteenth in a 15-horse field.

For a time it looked like a one-two Texas finish, as My Request and Better Self, from the big Texas King Ranch, fought it out. Then as they swept into the stretch turn, Better Self found the going too tough, and My Request steadily pulled away under the able guidance of Jockey Doug Dodson.

The others, including William Helis' Salmagundi—winner of the Santa Anita Derby—never were in the race. Salmagundi, who ran eighth and last to My Request in the Experimental No. 2, looked better this afternoon, but it wasn't good enough as he finished fourth.

Joe W. Brown's Riverland, second to My Request in the Experimental No. 1 April 3, was fifth, and A. J. Sickett's Gasparilla, coupled with Better Self as an entry of Trainer Max Hirsch, was sixth.

DOWNSVILLE WINS TWO MORE SCRAPS

DOWNSVILLE, La., April 24.—(Special)—Downsville High School's baseball team "did it again" the past week, registering two more victories at the expense of Linville and Spearsville.

Idle the week before when their dates were rained out, Downsville took up its bats again last Tuesday to slug out a 19-to-1 victory over Linville with Watson the winning pitcher. L. Bayles banged out a triple with the bases loaded, Carter got three hits in five times at bat, and Tidwell hit safely three for four.

Thursday afternoon Spearsville, winner the week before of the Doyline tournament, came to Downsville "hotter than a fire cracker," but the local boys cooled the Spearsville lads, 10 to 2.

The game started fast with neither team able to score until the last of the third when Downsville came through with three successive bunts to load the bags, and then L. Bayles came through with a triple, and before the inning was over Downsville had scored five times. Both Spearsville runs came in the top of the fifth when Billy Henderson homered with a mate on base. J. Bayles, Downsville, hit for the circuit in the fourth with one on.

Spearsville got four hits against five for Downsville, but Spearsville errors and eight free passes helped Downsville along. Taylor was the winning pitcher.

Downsville's record for the season is nine victories and one defeat.

The time for the mile and one-sixteenth was 1:42 4/5.

The race was regarded as a preview of the $50,000 added mile and one-eighth Bay Meadows Handicap scheduled for a week from today.

Amble In finished strong in the stretch to take second but could not gain on the leader. Miss Doreen ran third and Hank H was fourth.

Mafosta, packing high weight of 126 pounds and the favorite, paid $4.20, $2.60 and $2.10. Amble In, coupled with Hank H as an entry, returned $2.50 and $2.10 and Miss Doreen, entered with Tropical Sea, paid $2.10 to show.

CROSSED WIRES CAUSE RADIO EMBARASSMENT

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—An obscene word uttered by an exasperated public telephone patron was broadcast today when a telephone line and the wire carrying the broadcast of the Yankee-Red Sox baseball game became entangled.

The epithet—one not used in polite society—had hardly hit the eardrums of station WINS listners when technicians cut off the broadcast. Recorded music quickly followed.

Mel Allen was describing the progress of the game when the frustrated telephone patron expostulated.

A WINS spokesman said the wire from Allen's microphone at Yankee Stadium to the studio apparently "had been hooked into a public circuit and some irate person trying to put through a call heard the broadcast and broke into it.

"We cut him off immediately."

By 3:18 p. m. another line had been put into service and baseball went back on the air.

RUSTON'S LEGION PROSPECTS GOOD

In the pitching department, Coach Fox will have Louis Pipes, one of the best pitchers in Legion ball last year. Billy Davis, an all-state football and basketball player at Ruston High School, can be counted on for dependable pitching, good fielding and hitting. The Lowery twins have turned in excellent mound performances for Coach "Moose" Phillips' Ruston High Bearcats this spring and again will be a big help to the Legion team.

The catching department is expected to come up with a battle between three boys, Price, Gray and the ace backstop at Calhoun High, for the first string position.

There will be many candidates for the infield, including Humble, Berry, and Davis from last year's team. Humble should prove a valuable man with the stick this season, while Berry, the youngster of the team, has improved considerably over last year. Several of Coach Eddie McLane's Kid Leaguers will be out, including Pat McLane, Berry Hinton's promising youngster, and a natural player called "T Head." Several of "Moose" Phillips' infielders will be on hand.

Three regulars, Lee Roy Skinner, Sherrel, and Davis (and Pines when he's not pitching), will be back for the outfield.

Practice for the Legion junior squad will begin immediately after the high school playing season is over May 3. The Feazell-Elliot Ford Dealers of Ruston will again furnish a new bus for transportation and also new uniforms.

Players from Dubach, Calhoun, Choudrant, Simsboro, and Ruston are being invited to tryout for the team at the first practice scheduled for May 3. Any boy who will not reach his eighteenth birthday during 1948 is eligible to play.

ESSO OILERS VISIT WINNSBORO TODAY

WINNSBORO, La., April 24.—(Special)—The strong Winnsboro Red Sox, undefeated in five games this year, will engage the Esso Oilers of Baton Rouge here Sunday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock at Memorial Park.

The Crimson Hose knocked off the Oilers at Baton Rouge last Sunday, but Manager Pat Flanagan promises the Essos will come here better prepared to stop the Red Sox if possible.

On May 3 the Red Sox will be at home to Max Lanier's former major league All-Stars, described as the world's greatest traveling ball club. Lanier, former St. Louis Cardinal hurler who appeared in three World Series and on two major league All-Star teams, has banded together the major leaguers who jumped to the Mexican League a couple of years ago and are barnstorming the country while awaiting their "five-year rest" period to elapse before returning to the majors.

CLARKS DEFEATS REDSKINS, 13 TO 1

Rufus Yossett Comes Within One Out Of Pitching No-Hitter

CLARKS, La., April 24.—(Special)—The Clarks Lumberjacks of the North Central Louisiana League, coasted to a 13-1 victory over Northeast Junior College of L. S. U. here last night behind a stellar one-hit pitching job by Rufus Yossett, Lumberject hurler from West Monroe.

Yossett had the Indians completely handcuffed and an apparent no-hit no-run performance in the making after he reached the last inning of the seven-frame contest lacking only one out in order to register his no-hitter.

But with two out in the seventh, Ed Miller, Indian catcher, came up to line out a clean single for the lone N. J. C. hit and spoil Yossett's prospects of a perfect mound job. He fanned 12.

The Lumberjecks pasted two N. J. C. hurlers, Fluitt and Lindsey, for 12 hits including a homer by Steele and a triple by Thompson. Clarks goes to Monroe for a return game with the Tribe on May 11.

Jack Curtis Battles Rex Mobley For Light-Heavy Crown Tuesday

AFTER CROWN

Mel Peters And Angelo Austiro Billed For Semi-Final At Kallio's

Jack Curtis, former holder of the world's light heavyweight wrestling crown and most consistent attraction Promoter Gus Kallio has been able to bring here in nearly nine years of local promoting, will make another bid for the belt when he meets Champion Rex Mobley, Texas City, Tex., in the main event match at Kallio's Walnut street arena here Tuesday night.

Mobley successfully defended his belt here last week against the surprise challenge of Angelo Austiro, Clifton, N. J., when the latter was given the match on the strength of a win over Bobby Segura, Mexican champ, who had beaten Charlie Laye, the immediate past light-heavy kingpin.

However, Curtis is beyond a doubt a more capable opponent for Mobley than was Austiro, and the Vicksburg, Miss., flash can be counted on to give the Texas toughie a mighty busy night.

Mobley, who has held the throne on three or four different occasions and first appeared in this territory with the belt in 1940, made his most recent acquisition by defeating Charlie Laye, Knoxville, Tenn., a few weeks ago at Jackson, Miss. Laye had come into possession of the belt for the first time a few months previously by dethroning Curtis.

The title scramble Tuesday will have a time limit of an hour and a half with two falls to win.

Promoter Kallio last night said Claude Skidmore, Jackson, Miss., was being brought here to referee the night's matches.

Appearing in the semi-final will be Mel Peters, Portland, Ore., and Angelo Austiro for an hour time limit brawl with two falls to win.

Peters is still top contender for the light-heavy belt himself, and Angelo figures he is still due for some consideration for the close call he gave Mobley the past week.

CINDERELLAS FACE GREENVILLE TEAM

The Cinderella Sports return to duty against fast semi-pro opposition here this afternoon when they meet the Greenville Brown Bombers of Greenville, Miss., at 3 o'clock at Casino Park.

Manager Hardy Goins', fast Negro semi-pro club, beaten in only two games this year and once by the professional Harlem Globe Trotters, expects to send a lefthander, Judy Napoleon or J. B. Williams, to the mound against the visiting Greenville club today.

The Sports have been practicing hard the past week and feel confident they are ready to hit their winning stride again.

Special seats are reserved for white fans.

COLUMBIA TO FACE HODGE CLUB TODAY

COLUMBIA, La., April 24.—(Special)—The Columbia Ramblers will meet Jonesboro-Hodge here Sunday afternoon at Memorial Park in the Ramblers' last exhibition appearance before entering official play in the North Central Louisiana League on Sunday, May 2.

Jonesboro-Hodge is one of the top contenders in the Big Eight League and is expected to offer some stiff competition for the Ramblers who will be at league strength for the tilt tomorrow.

Pete Medak, veteran first sacker and manager of the Columbia team, will likely choose as his starting pitcher one of the club's new lefthanders who has not seen action in a game so far this season. Hodge is expected to open with an ace righthander.

Attendance has been good at games so far this season with local interest in the club pretty high. It is believed attendance records of 1947 will be equalled or bettered.

MY REQUEST 1ST IN WOOD, BOOSTS DERBY CHANCES

Long Shot, Mount Marcy, Romps Home Second In Memorial Run

By John Chandler

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—Duplicating his daddy's victory in 1942, My Request gave the Derby hopes of 10 other three-year-olds a setback today by driving to a tingling length and a half triumph in the 24th running of the Wood Memorial at Jamaica.

Thus the handsome chestnut son of Requested, who won this mile and one sixteenth classic six years ago, goes to Louisville with a perfect record for the season and established himself a colt to reckon with in the Kentucky Derby a week from today.

Trainers said after the race that My Request would be the only horse to go to the derby. Trainers of the second, third and fourth horses—Mount Marcy, Better Self and Salmagundi—said those steeds definitely would not go.

A long shot came along to grab second money. C. V. Whitney's Mount Marcy, who closed at 40 to 1, held a length margin over King Ranch's Better Self, who finished third after being established second choice in the wagering.

Made the even money favorite by the crowd of 48,711 persons who jampacked this Long Island course, My Request paid off at $4, $3.20 and $2.40 for $2. The victory, worth $34,600 to Whitaker, shot My Request's total earnings to $160,825.

My Request went the distance in 1:46 1/5, a full second more than it took his father six years ago. After his Wood triumph, Requested went to Louisville and finished fourteenth in a 15-horse field.

For a time it looked like a one-two Texas finish, as My Request and Better Self, from the big Texas King Ranch, fought it out. Then as they swept into the stretch turn, Better Self found the going too tough, and My Request steadily pulled away under the able guidance of Jockey Doug Dodson.

The others, including William Helis' Salmagundi—winner of the Santa Anita Derby—never were in the race. Salmagundi, who ran eighth and last to My Request in the Experimental No. 2, looked better this afternoon, but it wasn't good enough as he finished fourth.

Joe W. Brown's Riverland, second to My Request in the Experimental No. 1 April 3, was fifth, and A. J. Sickett's Gasparilla, coupled with Better Self as an entry of Trainer Max Hirsch, was sixth.

DOWNSVILLE WINS TWO MORE SCRAPS

DOWNSVILLE, La., April 24.—(Special)—Downsville High School's baseball team "did it again" the past week, registering two more victories at the expense of Linville and Spearsville.

Idle the week before when their dates were rained out, Downsville took up its bats again last Tuesday to slug out a 19-to-1 victory over Linville with Watson the winning pitcher. L. Bayles banged out a triple with the bases loaded, Carter got three hits in five times at bat, and Tidwell hit safely three for four.

Thursday afternoon Spearsville, winner the week before of the Doyline tournament, came to Downsville "hotter than a fire cracker," but the local boys cooled the Spearsville lads, 10 to 2.

The game started fast with neither team able to score until the last of the third when Downsville came through with three successive bunts to load the bags, and then L. Bayles came through with a triple, and before the inning was over Downsville had scored five times. Both Spearsville runs came in the top of the fifth when Billy Henderson homered with a mate on base. J. Bayles, Downsville, hit for the circuit in the fourth with one on.

Spearsville got four hits against five for Downsville, but Spearsville errors and eight free passes helped Downsville along. Taylor was the winning pitcher.

Downsville's record for the season is nine victories and one defeat.

The external human ear contains three muscles, but most people have no control over them.

MAX LANIER'S ALL-STARS TO VISIT MONROE

EX-BIG LEAGUERS WILL SHOW HERE IN TWO BATTLES

Play Local Aces Next Saturday, May 4; At Winnsboro May 3

Major league baseball stars of a couple of years ago, who caused considerable excitement in the American and National loops when they heeded the lure of Jorge Pasquel's pesos to broaden their careers in the Mexican League, will be in Monroe next week-end when Max Lanier, once great pitching ace of the St. Louis Cardinals, invade north Louisiana with his major league All-Stars.

Max Lanier

Lanier and his assortment of former Cardinals, Dodgers, Giants, Red Sox, Browns, Tigers and International and American Association stars, play their first game in this area next Saturday night when they meet the Monroe All-Stars, a team composed of the best available talent in this area, at Casino Park.

The barnstorming outfit will return to Casino Park for a second appearance on Tuesday night, May 4, and sandwiched in between the two games here will be a Monday, May 3, date with the Winnsboro Red Sox, regarded as the most powerful semi-pro outfit in Louisiana, at Winnsboro's Memorial Park.

The imposing array of baseball talent, finding things not as they had been painted to be below the border, returned to their native land with complaints of "pitiful conditions that exist in Mexico . . . rotten food, wretched housing and traveling conditions . . . as well as broken promises" that drove them away from Mexico.

Pitchers

Sal Maglie, New York Giants.
Harry Feldman, New York Giants.
Fred Martin, St. Louis Cardinals.
"Hoot" Gibson, Toledo, American Association.
Max Lanier, St. Louis Cardinals.

Catchers

Myron Hayworth, St. Louis Browns.
James Steiner, Boston Red Sox.

Infielders

Roy Zimmerman, first, New York Giants.
George Hausmann, second, New York Giants.
Lou Klein, third, St. Louis Cardinals.
Stan Breard, shortstop, Montreal, International League.
Murray Franklin, utility, Detroit Tigers.

Outfield

Louis Olmo, Brooklyn Dodgers.
Danny Gardello, New York Giants.
Roland Gladu, Brooklyn Dodgers.

Lanier's All-Stars, barred from professional baseball by Commissioner A. B. "Happy" Chandler for five years because they "jumped" to Mexico, are out to prove "to the world that we can still play baseball," and all are awaiting for the time when they can return to show the majors. Chandler's edict bans their appearance only against contracted players in professional leagues of the nation, and the appearance against Lanier's crew in no way will affect baseball aspirations of semi-pros playing against them.

Without Lanier and a number of the players now traveling with him, the St. Louis Cardinals were just another ball club last year. Max defeated the National League Champion Brooklyn Dodgers the last ten times he faced them, and was lured to Mexico for a $100,000 bonus, the highest ever paid in the history of baseball to an individual player.

"Certainly there has been some barnstorming of major league stars, but always after the real baseball season is over," Lanier says. "However, our team is out to prove to the world we can play baseball, and your town will receive our best efforts. These are not just exhibition games for us."

Lanier appeared in three World Series and was picked on two major league All-Star teams. "Chuck" Klein was with him on the championship Cardinal Club of 1943, and Catcher Myron Hayworth, traveling with him, did some fancy backstopping for the St. Louis Browns.

The traveling All-Stars swing out of Florida this week, coming up through Alabama and Mississippi, and their first showing in Louisiana will be at the game here next Saturday night.

Pete Medak, former professional player with the Monroe White Sox of the Cotton States League, Shreveport of the Texas League, and Atlanta of the Southern Association, will manage the Monroe All-Stars in their appearance against the Lanier outfit.

TRIO OF COLLEGE RECORDS TUMBLE AT DRAKE RELAYS

Seven Prep Marks Set; Dillard Runs To His 55th Triumph

DES MOINES, April 23.—(AP)—Harrison Dillard, America's greatest hurdler, today raced to his 55th consecutive victory to become the outstanding individual performer of the 39th Drake Relays.

Dillard, who yesterday sparked Baldwin-Wallace College to a new meet record in the college half-mile relay, today tied his own Drake record of 14.1 seconds in the 120-yard high hurdles.

Altogether three college records were broken and one tied in the two-day meet. Seven new high school marks were set.

University of Texas speedsters, meanwhile, scored a triple today as they scored victories in the four-mile, 440 and 880-yard relays.

Performances in the field events failed to equal existing marks today. Yesterday Minnesota's fortune Gordien broke the Drake seven-year-old discus record with a toss of 165 feet 5 inches.

The 24-year-old Dillard was pressed by Clyde Scott of Arkansas, until the last barrier when Bill Porter, Northwestern, came up to finish second.

Charley Peters, Indiana's Western Conference indoor sprint champion, handed Charley Parker of Texas, his first defeat of the year in winning the 100-yard dash. Parker salvaged only third place, as Paul Bienz, Tulane, finished second. The wind and slow track held Peter's time to 10 seconds flat.

The Texas miler, 120-pound Jerry Thompson, anchored the Longhorn's four-mile relay team to victory in 17 minutes, 30.3 seconds, only seven-tenths of a second slower than the record.

The Texans captured their second relay, the quarter mile in 42.1 seconds—a second slower than the record. Texas' third victory was in the 880 yard event in 1:26.4.

John Gough, Oklahoma, won the hop, step and jump with a leap of 46 feet, 6 1/4 inches, while Norman Wasser, Illinois, captured the shot put with a heave of 52 feet, 9 3/4 inches. The high jump resulted in a two way tie between Illinois' Dwight Eddleman and Verne McGrew, Rice Institute, who leaped 6 feet, 6 inches.

The pole vault also ended in two way tie, Harry Cooper, Minnesota, and Laurence Busby, Purdue, both cleared 13 feet, 9 3/4 inches.

BROWNS BEAT CHISOX

MAX LANIER'S ALL-STARS TO VISIT MONROE

Play Local Aces Next Saturday, May 4; At Winnsboro May 3

Major league baseball stars of a couple of years ago, who caused considerable excitement in the American and National loops when they heeded the lure of Jorge Pasquel's pesos to broaden their careers in the Mexican League, will be in Monroe next week-end when Max Lanier, once great pitching ace of the St. Louis Cardinals, invade north Louisiana with his major league All-Stars.

Max Lanier

Lanier and his assortment of former Cardinals, Dodgers, Giants, Red Sox, Browns, Tigers and International and American Association stars, play their first game in this area next Saturday night when they meet the Monroe All-Stars, a team composed of the best available talent in this area, at Casino Park.

The barnstorming outfit will return to Casino Park for a second appearance on Tuesday night, May 4, and sandwiched in between the two games here will be a Monday, May 3, date with the Winnsboro Red Sox, regarded as the most powerful semi-pro outfit in Louisiana, at Winnsboro's Memorial Park.

The imposing array of baseball talent, finding things not as they had been painted to be below the border, returned to their native land with complaints of "pitiful conditions that exist in Mexico . . . rotten food, wretched housing and traveling conditions . . . as well as broken promises" that drove them away from Mexico.

Pitchers

Sal Maglie, New York Giants.
Harry Feldman, New York Giants.
Fred Martin, St. Louis Cardinals.
"Hoot" Gibson, Toledo, American Association.
Max Lanier, St. Louis Cardinals.

Catchers

Myron Hayworth, St. Louis Browns.
James Steiner, Boston Red Sox.

Infielders

Roy Zimmerman, first, New York Giants.
George Hausmann, second, New York Giants.
Lou Klein, third, St. Louis Cardinals.
Murray Franklin, utility, Detroit Tigers.

Outfield

Louis Olmo, Brooklyn Dodgers.
Danny Gardello, New York Giants.
Roland Gladu, Brooklyn Dodgers.

Lanier's All-Stars, barred from professional baseball by Commissioner A. B. "Happy" Chandler for five years because they "jumped" to Mexico, are out to prove "to the world that we can still play baseball," and all are awaiting for the time when they can return to show the majors. Chandler's edict bans their appearance only against contracted players in professional leagues of the nation, and the appearance against Lanier's crew in no way will affect baseball aspirations of semi-pros playing against them.

Without Lanier and a number of the players now traveling with him, the St. Louis Cardinals were just another ball club last year. Max defeated the National League Champion Brooklyn Dodgers the last ten times he faced them, and was lured to Mexico for a $100,000 bonus, the highest ever paid in the history of baseball to an individual player.

"Certainly there has been some barnstorming of major league stars, but always after the real baseball season is over," Lanier says. "However, our team is out to prove to the world we can play baseball, and your town will receive our best efforts. These are not just exhibition games for us."

Lanier appeared in three World Series and was picked on two major league All-Star teams. "Chuck" Klein was with him on the championship Cardinal Club of 1943, and Catcher Myron Hayworth, traveling with him, did some fancy backstopping for the St. Louis Browns.

The traveling All-Stars swing out of Florida this week, coming up through Alabama and Mississippi, and their first showing in Louisiana will be at the game here next Saturday night.

Pete Medak, former professional player with the Monroe White Sox of the Cotton States League, Shreveport of the Texas League, and Atlanta of the Southern Association, will manage the Monroe All-Stars in their appearance against the Lanier outfit.

Leading hitters of the game were Dan Albritton and George Miller, Sterlington, and V. Antley and H. Foster, Point, each with two safe blows in four times at bat.

Seven Prep Marks Set; Dillard Runs To His 55th Triumph

DES MOINES, April 23.—(AP)—Harrison Dillard, America's greatest hurdler, today raced to his 55th consecutive victory to become the outstanding individual performer of the 39th Drake Relays.

Dillard, who yesterday sparked Baldwin-Wallace College to a new meet record in the college half-mile relay, today tied his own Drake record of 14.1 seconds in the 120-yard high hurdles.

Altogether three college records were broken and one tied in the two-day meet. Seven new high school marks were set.

University of Texas speedsters, meanwhile, scored a triple today as they scored victories in the four-mile, 440 and 880-yard relays.

Performances in the field events failed to equal existing marks today. Yesterday Minnesota's fortune Gordien broke the Drake seven-year-old discus record with a toss of 165 feet 5 inches.

The 24-year-old Dillard was pressed by Clyde Scott of Arkansas, until the last barrier when Bill Porter, Northwestern, came up to finish second.

Charley Peters, Indiana's Western Conference indoor sprint champion, handed Charley Parker of Texas, his first defeat of the year in winning the 100-yard dash. Parker salvaged only third place, as Paul Bienz, Tulane, finished second. The wind and slow track held Peter's time to 10 seconds flat.

The Texas miler, 120-pound Jerry Thompson, anchored the Longhorn's four-mile relay team to victory in 17 minutes, 30.3 seconds, only seven-tenths of a second slower than the record.

The Texans captured their second relay, the quarter mile in 42.1 seconds—a second slower than the record. Texas' third victory was in the 880 yard event in 1:26.4.

John Gough, Oklahoma, won the hop, step and jump with a leap of 46 feet, 6 1/4 inches, while Norman Wasser, Illinois, captured the shot put with a heave of 52 feet, 9 3/4 inches. The high jump resulted in a two way tie between Illinois' Dwight Eddleman and Verne McGrew, Rice Institute, who leaped 6 feet, 6 inches.

The pole vault also ended in two way tie, Harry Cooper, Minnesota, and Laurence Busby, Purdue, both cleared 13 feet, 9 3/4 inches.

BROWNS BEAT CHISOX

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—(AP)—Chuck Stevens' first inning home run with Bob Dillinger on base proved the margin of victory over the Chicago White Sox as the St. Louis Browns won their first game of 1948, 6 to 4, today. An eighth inning rally which counted three white sox runs was nipped by a Brownie double play.

HATTIESBURG, Miss., April 24.—(AP)—Hattiesburg scored in the fifth and sixth innings today to defeat Laurel High's Tornadoes, 4 to 2, in a seven inning diamond tilt.

MONROE MASTERS MARION'S MIDGETS

The Monroe Midgets, in their initial appearance of the season, handed the Marion Midgets their first defeat on a baseball diamond here yesterday afternoon, 11 to 6.

It was a hard fought game for five and a half innings, but the Monroe boys, coming to bat in the sixth with the score tied, 6 and 6, teed off for seven more runs to sew up the game.

Sehon, Jones, and H. McVicker, hurling for Marion, allowed only four hits, while Gannaway and Leos, pitching for the locals, gave up only two hits. Errors and bases on balls contributed to the scoring.

GIANTS SLUG BRAVES

BOSTON, April 24.—(AP)—The New York Giants outslugged the Boston Braves, 16 to 9, today in a wild game that brought a total of 27 hits off 12 pitchers. A triple by Whitey Lockman in the eighth inning off Clyde Shoun proved the decisive blow for the Giants.

Sklar Finals 2 Edge Tests; New Success In South Delhi

Dykes Completion Direct Western Offset To Recent Carter Abandonment

Two more successful completions on the Dykes tract in section 9-21-1W yesterday enabled Sam Sklar to push the limits of Ora field still farther to the southwest. The new producers are the Dykes No. 11 and No. 12, both in the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of the section.

The Dykes No. 11 was officially gauged at a pumping potential of around 120 barrels a day. The No. 12, not yet officially gauged, was reported by the operators to have penetrated a 14-and-a-half-foot saturated sand. The Dykes No. 12, significantly, is a direct western offset to the Carter Oil Company's Frost Lumber Industries No. 1, section 10-21-1W, abandoned several days earlier at a total depth of 2,116 feet.

Sklar meanwhile has staked location for his outermost edge test, the Dykes No. 13, in the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 9.

Elsewhere in the southwest extension, Carbons Consolidated brought in two of its three initial ventures—the Anderson Johnson No. 1 and No. 2, both in section 34-22-1W. Completed as pumpers, the No. 1 was rated at 247 barrels a day, and the No. 2 at 214 barrels.

Other completions, all pumpers, were C. H. Murphy, Jr's Clyde No. 5 and No. 6, section 27-22-1W, rated respectively at 78 and 84 barrels a day; Murphy's Norris No. 7, section 26-22-1W, 77 barrels a day; Shell's Frost Lumber Industries D-11, section 3-21-1W, 117 barrels a day; and Shell's Frost Agerton Unit No. 1, section 14-22-1W. 117 barrels a day.

Another casualty for the week was Shell's Frost Lumber Industries A-38 in section 12-22-1W, a proposed confirmation test of the recently-completed A-37 which extended Ora a mile to the northeast.

Two miles above the Shell project, Midstates Oil Corporation and Lyons and Prentiss are preparing to drill ahead at the Frost Lumber Industries No. 1, section 36-22-1W, after a drill stem test at 2,193 feet recovered salt water with only a slight tinge of oil. The operators will try for production in a second sand, believed about 40 or 50 feet further down, similar to the structure which Shell penetrated at the outpost A-37.

C. M. Bagley and Jerry Cararas meanwhile have moved in a heavy rig to squeeze their Auger No. 1, also in section 36-22-1W, preparatory to reperforating.

Twelve miles northeast of Farmerville, the Ritchie Grocery Company, acting through Dan Mingledorff, abandoned the wildcat Edwards No. 1, section 1-22-2E.

In the southeast sector of the parish, Pan American Production is drilling ahead at the Albritton No. 1, section 10-19-E, in the hope of finding production in a lower series of the Cotton Valley. A drill stem test several days ago flowed between 25-30 million cubic feet of gas and a small amount of distillate. The hole was bottomed at 7,384 feet in the Travis Peak.

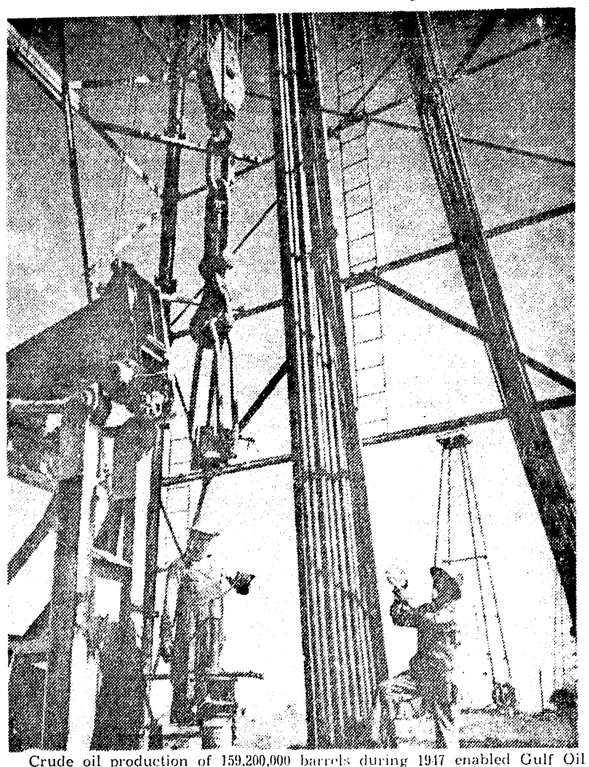
GULF SETS NEW RECORD



Crude oil production of 159,200,000 barrels during 1947 enabled Gulf Oil Corporation to exceed its previous year's record by more than six per cent. Largely responsible for the increase were fields in Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, Arkansas and California. Expanded output and refinery operations, plus unprecedented crude oil prices provided the company with a net income of $95,540,059, compared with $58,284,830 in 1946. Above, Gulf workers in South Louisiana run tubing on a well during a clean out operation.

Gasoline Supply Crisis Foreseen

Record Demand This Summer Will Present Acute Problem; Industry Moving To Meet Requirements Without Rationing

Continuing unprecedented demands for gasoline are rapidly threatening to force the nation's petroleum industry into one of its most trying periods.

Despite record production of crude oil, requirements for fueling a steadily increasing number of automobiles, trucks, tractors and airplanes are expected to be about eight per cent greater than in 1947, when shortages were experienced by more than one section of the nation.

Whether the industry will be able to meet the demands will depend on several factors. Among these are the quantity of oil products to be diverted to military uses, and the extent of stockpiling to be undertaken by the federal government for emergency purposes.

The demand on the Pacific Coast is likely to be met with little difficulty unless the military situation in the Far East should change considerably.

Otherwise, increasing production in the East Indies, where facilities are being rapidly restored, should take care of requirements in the Pacific without any severe drain on California.

The question of meeting gasoline requirements east of the Rockies presents a different and much more acute problem. However, with increased crude production and some increase in exports from South America and the Middle East, the prospects are that civilian demands can be met. This forcast in turn is based on a no more than moderate increase in military requirements.

The industry, fully aware of the difficulties already in sight, is taking steps to cope with them. Storage space at terminals is being expanded as quickly as possible, and transportation facilities are being improved.

In the past year, U. S. refiners increased processing capacities by about 500,000 barrels a day. Crude oil production has risen by a similar amount, currently around 5,375,000 barrels a day compared with 4,865,000 a year ago.

Even with the heavy demands made upon it last winter, the industry was able to increase gasoline stocks to a present level of approximately 113,000,000 barrels, or about 13,000,000 more than last year. At the current rate of consumption, however, the increase would be sufficient for only about six days. With the first signs of spring, gasoline demands exceeded production and by the first of April stocks were depleted by 256,000 barrels.

To accomodate the certain increase in the coming months, the industry lats year spent around $2,000,000,000 to improve and expand its facilities. Expenditures 10 per cent greater this year are anticipated, provided steel and other materials are available.

The reasons for the expected increase in consumption are readily apparent. First, passenger cars in use the first part of this year numbered about 2,000,000 more than in the previous year. The number is growing steadily, and the cars themselves are being driven more.

Truck registrations are increasing at a greater rate than passenger cars, with some 900,000 more added last year. The number of buses has increased also. Trucks and buses together, both of which consume several times as much gasoline as passenger cars, account for the biggest increase in all types of highway vehicles.

To keep pace with increased demands for food use of mechanized farm equipment has increased about two and a half times over 1941. Last year, approximately a million tractors were purchased. They are being turned out at a faster rate this year.

The use of larger planes for domestic service and the expansion of airlines into the international field are being reflected in an increased demand for civilian aviation fuel. So critical has supply become that several oil companies have seuggested elimination of overlapping services and restrictions of schedules to flights assured of maximum payloads.

In view of these conditions, the industry hopes to boost crude output to an average of 5,450,000 barrels daily during the present quarter and to 5,500,000 in the third quarter of the year. Other sources of supply include around 400,000 barrels daily of natural gasoline, and between 450,000 and 500,000 barrels of imports.

If this goal is achieved, and exports are decreased by about 10 per cent under last year, the industry is confident of meeting the expected eight per cent increase in consumption without a breakdown in supply. There is a strong possibility, however, that spot shortages may appear, particularly toward the end of the summer.

The industry at present foresees no necessity for gasoline rationing. Voluntary appeals to conserve fuel are expected to hold consumption in line, with few persons inconvinced.

STATE TOPS U. S. IN OIL FINDINGS

Discoveries Last Year Account For One-Fourth Of All New Proved Reserves

Louisiana topped all other states in the amount of proved crude oil reserves discovered last year, the American Petroleum Institute reported yesterday.

New oil discoveries in the state accounted for approximately one-fourth of all new proved reserves of liquid hydrocarbons (crude oil and natural gas liquids) discovered in the entire United States.

Louisiana ranks third in actual oil production, exceeded only by Texas and California. The rate of discovery last year, however, was well above that of either of these two states.

Total proved reserves of the country discovered last year were 704,881,000 barrels. Of the total, Louisiana accounted for 182,625,000 barrels of the reserves.

Other major discoveries were:

Oklahoma, 141,490,000 barrels; Texas 102,634,000; Colorado 87,577,000; Wyoming 74,395,000; Mississippi 38,882,000; and California 5,351,000 barrels.

Crude reserve increases: Louisiana 139,207,000 barrels; Texas 131,177,000; Wyoming 89,953,000,000; Colorado 82,012,000; Mississippi 33,456,000; and California 1,472,000.

Natural gas liquid reserve increases: Oklahoma 86,686,000 barrels; Louisiana 43,418,000; Mississippi 5,426,000; California 3,879,000. Texas reserves decreased 28,543,000 barrels.

Proved reserves in new pools in Louisiana totaled 66,814,000 barrels in 1947, while extensions of existing fields and revised estimates of field reserves accounted for 293,132,000 barrels. Subtracting Louisiana's production for the year, 177,321,000 barrels, gives the total new reserves of liquid hydrocarbons.

Discoveries last year put Louisiana in third place in the total amount of proved crude oil reserves and second place in proved natural gas liquid reserves. During 1947, the API reports, crude reserves were increased to an aggregate of 1,948,284,000 barrels, and natural gas liquid reserves to 48,855,000 barrels.

Natural gas reserves mounted in 1947 to a total of 23,481,233,000 cubic feet, placing the state second in the country. The net gain for Louisiana was 1,069,722,000 cubic feet; for Texas, 3,662,107,000 cubic feet. Mississippi's increased was 82,247,000 cubic feet.

Domes Found In Gulf

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—Indications of the existence of some salt dome geological formations, possibly oil-bearing, have been discovered from 20 to 75 miles off the gulf coast, the interior and navy departments announced today.

The discovery was made in the course of a joint scientific exploration of the continental shelf by the office of naval research and the geological survey.

"These structures have the same gravimetric characteristics as oil-bearing salt domes found on land," a joint navy-interior release said.

At the same time, spokesmen for the two government agencies said experts will have to determine by more detailed exploration whether oil exists in the area, and—if so—whether it is present in sufficient quantities to warrant exploitation.

The area in which the supposed salt domes lie is rectangular and extends seaward about 75 miles from the shore between Sabine Pass, Texas, and Grand Chenicre, La.

The presence of the geological structures was found as a result of gravity studies made by the Tidelands Exploration Co. of Houston, Tex., working under a contract with the geological survey. Much of the area in which the studies were conducted lies well beyond that so far explored by commercial interests, the repartments said.

A gravimetric map of the area was released by the geologic survey. Copies are available for examination at the survey's offices here and at field offices at Tulsa, Okla., Houston and Austin, Tex.; and also in the state geologists' offices at Baton Rouge, La., and Austin, Texas.

Hunt Abandons LaSalle Wildcat Three Miles South Of Nebo Field Limits

American Liberty Oil Company last week added another producer in the Franklin parish South Delhi field. The new completion was the Cleve Dixon No. 2, section 12-16-8E, an offset to the Dixon No. 1 which confirmed production in the area when brought in last January.

Gauged through a 10/64-inch choke, the well flowed 162 barrels of 41 degree oil. Perforations were between 3,626-36 feet.

American Liberty and Murphy Sun, meanwhile, are preparing separate projects to expand the productive limits of the field. American Liberty has staked location for the Holt No. 10, section 15-16-8E, and the southwest edge of the field. Murphy Sun had applied for the Holt A-4, section 6-16-8E, on the northeast flank.

Three miles south of the LaSalle parish Nebo field, H. L. Hunt abandoned his wildcat Nebo Oil Company F-140 at 8,035 feet.

Only other completion outside Union parish during the week was Arkansas Fuel Oil Company's Tremont Lumber C-23, section 35-10-1E of the LaSalle Tullos-Urania sector. An official gauge rated the daily capacity at 109 barrels a day pumping from 1,518-23 feet.

Fourteen miles west of Monroe, the California Company is drilling below 2,592 feet at the wildcat Walter Maxey No. 2, section 32-18-1E, after setting 10 5/8-inch surface pipe at 1,833 feet. California's other Ouachita venture, the Breece Lumber Company No. 2, in Lafourche swamp, is still shut down by high water.

J. K. Wadley is drilling below 2,540 feet at the Richland parish wildcat W. C. Chennault No. 1, section 2-16-6E, seven miles southwest of Rayville.

A. G. Hooper, Jr., of Shreveport is reported to have completed agreements for a Franklin parish wildcat about six miles northeast of Crowville and a mile and a half southeast of production in the Lamar field. Specific location of the test, the Shelly Estate No. 1, will be in section 2-15-9E. Operations are scheduled to begin by July 1, with the Massive sand of the Tuscaloosa as the tentative pay target.

The fourth of a recent series of Winn parish wildcats went by the boards last week when Burden, Kemp and Hunter plugged the Tremont Lumber No. 4, section 26-12-2W. Previously, the operators swabbed oil cut mud and salt water after logging an oil sand at 1,342-45 feet. Further tests, however, excluded the possibility of any commercial production.

The acreage in all probability will be turned back to Stanolind Oil and Gas Company, from which the present operators obtained the Tremont block as a farm-out.

Carter Oil Company is coring in what may be the Bodcaw horizon of the Cotton Valley at its wildcat Marvin Mathews No. 1, section 22-18-4W, one mile east of Simsboro. An earlier drill-stem test at 9,716 feet recovered distillate and gas-cut mud, but disclosed a tight formation of low porosity. Contract depth is 10,000 feet.

AREA OIL QUOTAS RAISED 238 BBLS.

Monroe District Falls Behind Shreveport; State Total Set At 521,317

Ora field in Union parish and the recently-opened South Delhi sector in Franklin emerged with the largest production increases for the coming month, but setbacks in other areas enabled the district as a whole to gain only 238 barrels.

The May allowable for the Monroe district has been set by the state conservation department at a total of 85,289 barrels a day—compared with 85,051 barrels in April.

Only other area to reflect an increase in South Big Creek, up a meager 21 barrels a day. Ora jumped 807 barrels to a May figure of 10,723, and South Delhi 218 barrels to 872.

All other areas in the district suffered decreases ranging from 42 barrels a day to 374. Tullos-Urania remains unchanged at 1,900 barrels. LaSalle took the biggest cut, down 374 barrels to 18,501, and the Lake St. John area followed closely with a drop of 206 barrels to 21,534.

	May	April
Ora	10,723	9,916
South Delhi	872	654
Delhi, W. Delhi	22,939	23,065
Holly Ridge	2,981	3,941
Lake St. John	21,534	21,740
LaSalle	18,501	18,875
Big Creek	5,240	5,282
South Big Creek	575	596
Tullos-Urania	1,900	1,900
	85,289	85,051

The increase for all north Louisiana fields is 539 barrels a day, or a gross allowable for May of 129,774 barrels daily. The slight rise, 539 barrels, was less than half the gain during April.

For the first time in more than a year, the Shreveport district increased over the Monroe area—391 barrels a day more for the western sector as against 238 for Monroe producers.

The statewide increase established a new record for the 25th consecutive month and pushed production well over the half-million mark. The May allowable was fixed at 521,317 barrels a day, compared with 516,755 during April—a gain of 4,562 barrels.

All of the South Louisiana districts were boosted. Largest is Lafayette, up 2,045 barrels to 135,326. New Orleans and Lake Charles increased by approximately 900 barrels each, and Houma by 136.

The state allowables by districts are:

	May	April
North Louisiana:
Monroe	85,289	85,051
Shreveport	44,485	44,184
..	129,579	129,235
South Louisiana:
Lafayette	135,326	133,281
New Orleans	111,233	110,301

DOROTHY DIX

Woman Has Privilege In 1948 Of Proposing Marriage

DEAR MISS DIX: There is a man with whom I am associated in business. We are both in our middle forties. We have the same education, personalities, social standards, about the same amount of property and we also do the same type of work. Neither of us ever has been married. We frequently go out together and enjoy each other's society greatly.

The question is: Would it be proper for me to suggest marriage, so we could be together and enjoy having a good home? The problem is up to me, for I know he never will propose. I feel that we would be very congenial and happy.

SALLY ANNE

DOROTHY DIX

ANSWER: It is Leap Year, Sally Anne, and that gives you your chance. Take it. Pop the question and the chances are dollars to doughnuts that he will say YES.

Many a man is a lonely old bachelor simply because he was too shy ever to ask the girl he wanted to marry him. He couldn't summon up courage to tell Sally Anne or Mary Jane or whatever her name was how much he loved her and wanted her, and he hung around and hung around without ever coming to the point. And she waited and waited for him to speak until she got tired and discouraged and married somebody else.

WOMEN NO LONGER TIMID

Anyway, women are not the timid creatures now that they used to be. When they want a thing they go after it. They don't waste their time in wishful waiting. So if you love this man and are pretty sure that he loves you, and both of you are at an age when you want to settle down and have a home of your own, why, I think you would be perfectly silly not to take advantage of your Leap Year privilege.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My boy friend is overseas and will be home very soon. This is my problem: Will he be changed, as people tell me, after his long absence? It has been two years since we have been together, but we write often and I have dated no other boys. I am 17 and Joe is 19.

ANSWER: Of course, your boy friend will be changed after two years in the army in a foreign country, where everything has been new and different to him and where all his habits and tastes will have altered. Every soldier who was in the war came back a changed man, and that is what has brought about the thousands and thousands of unhappy marriages and divorces that are wrecking so many lives.

No one is to blame for it. It is just life. The boy was no longer a boy. He was a man who had outgrown his wife or his sweetheart. He had seen the world. He had faced death and suffering. And the things that once satisfied him, satisfied him no longer. And the girls had changed, too.

Between 15 and 17 years of age there is a gap that takes time to bridge. So you are a wise child in sensing this and realizing that you and the boy friend will have to get acquainted all over again and see whether you want to scrap your childhood romance or not. My earnest advice to you is not to marry in haste. Take time to think it all over.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My wife died a few months ago, leaving me with three children whom I am trying my best to rear properly. My chief problem is my daughter. She is 15 1/2 years old and does not learn readily. All through grade school she had a hard time mastering her studies and I have to help her every night with her high school work but she fails in every test and examination. She tries so hard to learn and is so willing, and the harder she tries the less she seems to accomplish.

She is studying music and slowly is making headway. She is very anxious to quit high school and go to work in a department store where a friend of ours, who is the manager of it, will get her a job and train her in the work. What do you think about it?

REVEREND H. A. M.

ANSWER: I think that is the ideal solution of your difficulty If your daughter is in high school she must have gotten a fair practical education, enough to fit her to do the work she wishes. Not all people are bookish, nor does all education come out of books, and the things that your daughter will learn in business will be just as important to her as anything she could learn in school.

If your girl is unhappy and bored in school, the chances are that, as she has no mother to look after her and protect her, she will be in danger of running wild and getting into bad company. By all means let your daughter take the job that is offered her.

ACTRESS, TOPPING TO MARRY MONDAY

The way was cleared yesterday for the marriage when Arline Judge, 34-year-old Topping's third wife, divorced him in Bridgeport, Conn., charging extreme cruelty. Topping was her fifth husband.

The marriage, the blonde actress's studio said, will be solemnized by the Rev. Stewart P. MacLennan, retired pastor of the Hollywood Presbyterian Church, at the Bel-Air home of William R. (Billy) Wilkerson, Hollywood trade paper publisher. Wilkerson will be best man.

Matron of honor will be Sara Hamilton, a magazine writer, and Miss Turner's five-year-old daughter, Cheryl, born of her marriage to Stephen Crane, will be flower girl. Miss Turner was twice married to Crane and once to Bandleader Artie Shaw.

The nuptials are scheduled for about 2 p. m., and afterward Wilkerson will give a champagne party for some 150 friends of the bridal coupe.

Miss Turner, 28, has ordered a $30,000 trousseau, and two shifts of seamstresses are working busily getting it in order.

Lingerie Designer Juel Park said that Miss Turner's order includes $5,000 worth of silk panties and nighties, with embroidered mottoes.

The purple finch is not at all purple. The male is of an old-rose color and the female has the general sparrow-like appearance.

ELECTRONICS UNIT ACTIVATED HERE

Battalion Now Holding Weekly Meetings At Selman Field Tuesdays

Electronics Warfare Battalion 8-8 has recently been activated in this area, with headquarters at Selman field, and weekly meetings are being held to interest persons in the "entirely voluntary" group, it was announced Saturday. The group is said to be badly in need of personnel to man the activity.

It was stated that the group activity would remain voluntary until the complement of officers and men is obtained, and it is hoped to get the activity on an organized basis so that members will receive drill pay.

Quarters have been provided in the former enlisted men's service building 28-1 at Selman field, and the city is furnishing electric power. The navy has shipped over $200,000 in equipment which is now being installed, it was said. The equipment includes transmitters of various navy types, radio direction finder types, radio direction finder equipment, radar equipment and other electronic gear so that when installation is completed, Monroe will have one of the most unique Naval Reserve Electronics Warfare Battalion setups anywhere in this part of the nation, according to the announcement.

The weekly meetings are held on Tuesday nights, starting at 7:30 p. m. in the headquarters building of the battalion.

The personnel sought may be former navy men, former army men or men with no military background, but who are interested in learning something about electronics. Required ages are between 19 and 45 years, and there are also some openings for former WAVES, WACS or women marines.

It was pointed out that the facilities of the activity are available to all "ham" operators.

Sklar Finals 2 Edge Tests; New Success In South Delhi

Dykes Completion Direct Western Offset To Recent Carter Abandonment

Two more successful completions on the Dykes tract in section 9-21-1W yesterday enabled Sam Sklar to push the limits of Ora field still farther to the southwest. The new producers are the Dykes No. 11 and No. 12, both in the northeast quarter of the section.

The Dykes No. 11 was officially gauged at a pumping potential of around 120 barrels a day. The No. 12, not yet officially gauged, was reported by the operators to have penetrated a 14-and-a-half-foot saturated sand. The Dykes No. 12, significantly, is a direct western offset to the Carter Oil Company's Frost Lumber Industries No. 1, section 10-21-1W, abandoned several days earlier at a total depth of 2,116 feet.

Sklar meanwhile has staked location for his outermost edge test, the Dykes No. 13, in the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 9.

Elsewhere in the southwest extension, Carbons Consolidated brought in two of its three initial ventures—the Anderson Johnson No. 1 and No. 2, both in section 34-22-1W. Completed as pumpers, the No. 1 was rated at 247 barrels a day, and the No. 2 at 214 barrels.

Other completions, all pumpers, were C. H. Murphy, Jr's Clyde No. 5 and No. 6, section 27-22-1W, rated respectively at 78 and 84 barrels a day; Murphy's Norris No. 7, section 26-22-1W, 77 barrels a day; Shell's Frost Lumber Industries D-11, section 3-21-1W, 117 barrels a day; and Shell's Frost Agerton Unit No. 1, section 14-22-1W, 117 barrels a day.

Another casualty for the week was Shell's Frost Lumber Industries A-38 in section 12-22-1W, a proposed confirmation test of the recently-completed A-37 which extended Ora a mile to the northeast.

Two miles above the Shell project, Midstates Oil Corporation and Lyons and Prentiss are preparing to drill ahead at the Frost Lumber Industries No. 1, section 36-22-1W, after a drill stem test at 2,193 feet recovered salt water with only a slight tinge of oil. The operators will try for production in a second sand, believed about 40 or 50 feet further down, similar to the structure which Shell penetrated at the outpost A-37.

C. M. Bagley and Jerry Cararas meanwhile have moved in a heavy rig to squeeze their Auger No. 1, also in section 36-22-1W, preparatory to reperforating.

Twelve miles northeast of Farmerville, the Ritchie Grocery Company, acting through Dan Mingledorff, abandoned the wildcat Edwards No. 1, section 1-22-2E.

In the southeast sector of the parish, Pan American Production is drilling ahead at the Albritton No. 1, section 10-19-E, in the hope of finding production in a lower series of the Cotton Valley. A drill stem test several days ago flowed between 25-30 million cubic feet of gas and a small amount of distillate. The hole was bottomed at 7,384 feet in the Travis Peak.

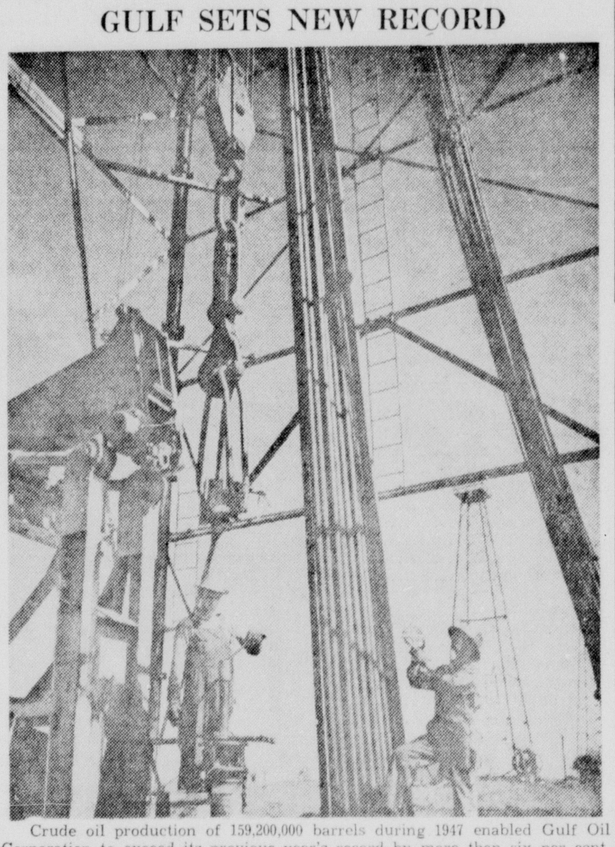
GULF SETS NEW RECORD



Crude oil production of 159,200,000 barrels during 1947 enabled Gulf Oil Corporation to exceed its previous year's record by more than six per cent. Largely responsible for the increase were fields in Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, Arkansas and California. Expanded output and refinery operations, plus unprecedented crude oil prices provided the company with a net income of $95,540,059, compared with $58,284,830 in 1946. Above, Gulf workers in South Louisiana run tubing on a well during a clean out operation.

Gasoline Supply Crisis Foreseen

Record Demand This Summer Will Present Acute Problem; Industry Moving To Meet Requirements Without Rationing

Continuing unprecedented demands for gasoline are rapidly threatening to force the nation's petroleum industry into one of its most trying periods.

Despite record production of crude oil, requirements for fueling a steadily increasing number of automobiles, trucks, tractors and airplanes are expected to be about eight per cent greater than in 1947, when shortages were experienced by more than one section of the nation.

Whether the industry will be able to meet the demands will depend on several factors. Among these are the quantity of oil products to be diverted to military uses, and the extent of stockpiling to be undertaken by the federal government for emergency purposes.

The demand on the Pacific Coast is likely to be met with little difficulty unless the military situation in the Far East should change considerably.

Otherwise, increasing production in the East Indies, where facilities are being rapidly restored, should take care of requirements in the Pacific without any severe drain on California.

The question of meeting gasoline requirements east of the Rockies presents a different and much more acute problem. However, with increased crude production and some increase in exports from South America and the Middle East, the prospects are that civilian demands can be met. This forcast in turn is based on a no more than moderate increase in military requirements.

The industry, fully aware of the difficulties already in sight, is taking steps to cope with them. Storage space at terminals is being expanded as quickly as possible, and transportation facilities are being improved.

In the past year, U. S. refiners increased processing capacities by about 500,000 barrels a day. Crude oil production has risen by a similar amount, currently around 5,375,000 barrels a day compared with 4,865,000 a year ago.

Even with the heavy demands made upon it last winter, the industry was able to increase gasoline stocks to a present level of approximately 113,000,000 barrels, or about 13,000,000 more than last year. At the current rate of consumption, however, the increase would be sufficient for only about six days. With the first signs of spring, gasoline demands exceeded production and by the first of April stocks were depleted by 256,000 barrels.

To accomodate the certain increase in the coming months, the industry lats year spent around $2,000,000,000 to improve and expand its facilities. Expenditures 10 per cent greater this year are anticipated, provided steel and other materials are available.

The reasons for the expected increase in consumption are readily apparent. First, passenger cars in use the first part of this year numbered about 2,000,000 more than in the previous year. The number is growing steadily, and the cars themselves are being driven more.

Truck registrations are increasing at a greater rate than passenger cars, with some 900,000 more added last year. The number of buses has increased also. Trucks and buses together, both of which consume several times as much gasoline as passenger cars, account for the biggest increase in all types of highway vehicles.

To keep pace with increased demands for food use of mechanized farm equipment has increased about two and a half times over 1941. Last year, approximately a million tractors were purchased. They are being turned out at a faster rate this year.

The use of larger planes for domestic service and the expansion of airlines into the international field are being reflected in an increased demand for civilian aviation fuel. So critical has supply become that several oil companies have seuggested elimination of overlapping services and restrictions of schedules to flights assured of maximum payloads.

In view of these conditions, the industry hopes to boost crude output to an average of 5,450,000 barrels daily during the present quarter and to 5,500,000 in the third quarter of the year. Other sources of supply include around 400,000 barrels daily of natural gasoline, and between 450,000 and 500,000 barrels of imports.

If this goal is achieved, and exports are decreased by about 10 per cent under last year, the industry is confident of meeting the expected eight per cent increase in consumption without a breakdown in supply. There is a strong possibility, however, that spot shortages may appear, particularly toward the end of the summer.

The industry at present foresees no necessity for gasoline rationing. Voluntary appeals to conserve fuel are expected to hold consumption in line, with few persons inconvinced.

STATE TOPS U. S. IN OIL FINDINGS

Discoveries Last Year Account For One-Fourth Of All New Proved Reserves

Louisiana topped all other states in the amount of proved crude oil reserves discovered last year, the American Petroleum Institute reported yesterday.

New oil discoveries in the state accounted for approximately one-fourth of all new proved reserves of liquid hydrocarbons (crude oil and natural gas liquids) discovered in the entire United States.

Louisiana ranks third in actual oil production, exceeded only by Texas and California. The rate of discovery last year, however, was well above that of either of these two states.

Total proved reserves of the country discovered last year were 704,881,000 barrels. Of the total, Louisiana accounted for 182,625,000 barrels of the reserves.

Other major discoveries were:

Oklahoma, 141,490,000 barrels; Texas 102,634,000; Colorado 87,577,000; Wyoming 74,395,000; Mississippi 38,882,000; and California 5,351,000 barrels.

Crude reserve increases: Louisiana 139,207,000 barrels; Texas 131,177,000; Wyoming 89,953,000,000; Colorado 82,012,000; Mississippi 33,456,000; and California 1,472,000.

Natural gas liquid reserve increases: Oklahoma 86,686,000 barrels; Louisiana 43,418,000; Mississippi 5,426,000; California 3,879,000. Texas reserves decreased 28,543,000 barrels.

Proved reserves in new pools in Louisiana totaled 66,814,000 barrels in 1947, while extensions of existing fields and revised estimates of field reserves accounted for 293,132,000 barrels. Subtracting Louisiana's production for the year, 177,321,000 barrels, gives the total new reserves of liquid hydrocarbons.

Discoveries last year put Louisiana in third place in the total amount of proved crude oil reserves and second place in proved natural gas liquid reserves. During 1947, the API reports, crude reserves were increased to an aggregate of 1,948,284,000 barrels, and natural gas liquid reserves to 48c,855,000 barrels.

Natural gas reserves mounted in 1947 to a total of 23,481,233,000 cubic feet, placing the state second in the country. The net gain for Louisiana was 1,069,722,000 cubic feet; for Texas, 3,662,107,000 cubic feet. Mississippi's increased was 82,247,000 cubic feet.

Domes Found In Gulf

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP)—Indications of the existence of some salt dome geological formations, possibly oil-bearing, have been discovered from 20 to 75 miles off the gulf coast, the interior and navy departments announced today.

The discovery was made in the course of a joint scientific exploration of the continental shelf by the office of naval research and the geological survey.

"These structures have the same gravimetric characteristics as oil-bearing salt domes found on land," a joint navy-interior release said.

At the same time, spokesmen for the two government agencies said experts will have to determine by more detailed exploration whether oil exists in the area, and—if so—whether it is present in sufficient quantities to warrant exploitation.

The area in which the supposed salt domes lie is rectangular and extends seaward about 75 miles from the shore between Sabine Pass, Texas, and Grand Cheniere, La.

The presence of the geological structures was found as a result of gravity studies made by the Tidelands Exploration Co. of Houston, Tex., working under a contract with the geological survey. Much of the area in which the studies were conducted lies well beyond that so far explored by commercial interests, the repartments said.

A gravimetric map of the area was released by the geologic survey. Copies are available for examination at the survey's offices here and at field offices at Tulsa, Okla., Houston and Austin, Tex.; and also in the state geologists' offices at Baton Rouge, La., and Austin, Texas.

Hunt Abandons LaSalle Wildcat Three Miles South Of Nebo Field Limits

American Liberty Oil Company last week added another producer in the Franklin parish South Delhi field. The new completion was the Cleve Dixon No. 2, section 12-16-8E, an offset to the Dixon No. 1 which confirmed production in the area when brought in last January.

Gauged through a 10/64-inch choke, the well flowed 162 barrels of 41 degree oil. Perforations were between 3,62f-36 feet.

American Liberty and Murphy Sun, meanwhile, are preparing separate projects to expand the productive limits of the field. American Liberty has staked location for the Holt No. 10, section 15-16-8E, and the southwest edge of the field. Murphy Sun had applied for the Holt A-4, section 6-16-8E, on the northeast flank.

Only other completion outside Union parish during the week was Arkansas Fuel Oil Company's Tremont Lumber C-23, section 35-10-1E of the LaSalle Tullos-Urania sector. An official gauge rated the daily capacity at 109 barrels a day pumping from 1,518-23 feet.

Fourteen miles west of Monroe, the California Company is drilling below 2,592 feet at the wildcat Walter Maxey No. 2, section 32-18-1E, after setting 10 5/8-inch surface pipe at 1,833 feet. California's other Ouachita venture, the Breece Lumber Company No. 2, in Lafourche swamp, is still shut down by high water.

J. K. Wadley is drilling below 2,540 feet at the Richland parish wildcat W. C. Chennault No. 1, section 2-16-6E, seven miles southwest of Rayville.

A. G. Hooper, Jr., of Shreveport is reported to have completed agreements for a Franklin parish wildcat about six miles northeast of Crowville and a mile and a half southeast of production in the Lamar field. Specific location of the test, the Shelly Estate No. 1, will be in section 2-15-9E. Operations are scheduled to begin by July 1, with the Massive sand of the Tuscaloosa as the tentative pay target.

The fourth of a recent series of Winn parish wildcats went by the boards last week when Burden, Kemp and Hunter plugged the Tremont Lumber No. 4, section 26-12-2W. Previously, the operators swabbed oil cut mud and salt water after logging an oil sand at 1,342-45 feet. Further tests, however, excluded the possibility of any commercial production.

The acreage in all probability will be turned back to Stanolind Oil and Gas Company, from which the present operators obtained the Tremont block as a farm-out.

Carter Oil Company is coring in what may be the Bodcaw horizon of the Cotton Valley at its wildcat Marvin Mathews No. 1, section 22-18-4W, one mile east of Simsboro. An earlier drill-stem test at 9,716 feet recovered distillate and gas-cut mud, but disclosed a tight formation of low porosity. Contract depth is 10,000 feet.

AREA OIL QUOTAS RAISED 238 BBLS.

Monroe District Falls Behind Shreveport; State Total Set At 521,317

Ora field in Union parish and the recently-opened South Delhi sector in Franklin emerged with the largest production increases for the coming month, but setbacks in other areas enabled the district as a whole to gain only 238 barrels.

The May allowable for the Monroe district has been set by the state conservation department at a total of 85,289 barrels a day—compared with 85,051 barrels in April.

Only other area to reflect an increase in South Big Creek, up a meager 21 barrels a day. Ora jumped 807 barrels to a May figure of 10,723, and South Delhi 218 barrels to 872.

All other areas in the district suffered decreases ranging from 42 barrels a day to 374. Tullos-Urania remains unchanged at 1,900 barrels. LaSalle took the biggest cut, down 374 barrels to 18,501, and the Lake St. John area followed closely with a drop of 206 barrels to 21,534.

The increase for all north Louisiana fields is 539 barrels a day, or a gross allowable for May of 129,774 barrels daily. The slight rise, 539 barrels, was less than half the gain during April.

For the first time in more than a year, the Shreveport district increased over the Monroe area—301 barrels a day more for the western sector as against 238 for Monroe producers.

The statewide increase established a new record for the 25th consecutive month and pushed production well over the half-million mark. The May allowable was fixed at 521,317 barrels a day, compared with 516,755 during April—a gain of 4,562 barrels.

All of the South Louisiana districts were boosted. Largest is Lafayette, up 2,045 barrels to 135,326. New Orleans and Lake Charles increased by approximately 900 barrels each, and Houma by 136.

DOROTHY DIX

Woman Has Privilege In 1948 Of Proposing Marriage

DEAR MISS DIX: There is a man with whom I am associated in business. We are both in our middle forties. We have the same education, personalities, social standards, about the same amount of property and we also do the same type of work. Neither of us ever has been married. We frequently go out together and enjoy each other's society greatly.

The question is: Would it be proper for me to suggest marriage, so we could be together and enjoy having a good home? The problem is up to me, for I know he never will propose. I feel that we would be very congenial and happy.

SALLY ANNE

DOROTHY DIX

ANSWER: It is Leap Year, Sally Anne, and that gives you your chance. Take it. Pop the question and the chances are dollars to doughnuts that he will say YES.

Many a man is a lonely old bachelor simply because he was too shy ever to ask the girl he wanted to marry him. He couldn't summon up courage to tell Sally Anne or Mary Jane or whatever her name was how much he loved her and wanted her, and he hung around and hung around without ever coming to the point. And she waited and waited for him to speak until she got tired and discouraged and married somebody else.

WOMEN NO LONGER TIMID

Anyway, women are not the timid creatures now that they used to be. When they want a thing they go after it. They don't waste their time in wishful waiting. So if you love this man and are pretty sure that he loves you, and both of you are at an age when you want to settle down and have a home of your own, why, I think you would be perfectly silly not to take advantage of your Leap Year privilege.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My boy friend is overseas and will be home very soon. This is my problem: Will he be changed, as people tell me, after his long absence? It has been two years since we have been together, but we write often and I have dated no other boys. I am 17 and Joe is 19.

ANSWER: Of course, your boy friend will be changed after two years in the army in a foreign country, where everything has been new and different to him and where all his habits and tastes will have altered. Every soldier who was in the war came back a changed man, and that is what has brought about the thousands and thousands of unhappy marriages and divorces that are wrecking so many lives.

No one is to blame for it. It is just life. The boy was no longer a boy. He was a man who had outgrown his wife or his sweetheart. He had seen the world. He had faced death and suffering. And the things that once satisfied him, satisfied him no longer. And the girls had changed, too.

Between 15 and 17 years of age there is a gap that takes time to bridge. So you are a wise child in sensing this and realizing that you and the boy friend will have to get acquainted all over again and see whether you want to scrap your childhood romance or not. My earnest advice to you is not to marry in haste. Take time to think it all over.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My wife died a few months ago, leaving me with three children whom I am trying my best to rear properly. My chief problem is my daughter. She is 15 1/2 years old and does not learn readily. All through grade school she had a hard time mastering her studies and I have to help her every night with her high school work but she fails in every test and examination. She tries so hard to learn and is so willing, and the harder she tries the less she seems to accomplish.

She is studying music and slowly is making headway. She is very anxious to quit high school and go to work in a department store where a friend of ours, who is the manager of it, will get her a job and train her in the work. What do you think about it?

REVEREND H. A. M.

ANSWER: I think that is the ideal solution of your difficulty If your daughter is in high school she must have gotten a fair practical education, enough to fit her to do the work she wishes. Not all people are bookish, nor does all education come out of books, and the things that your daughter will learn in business will be just as important to her as anything she could learn in school.

If your girl is unhappy and bored in school, the chances are that, as she has no mother to look after her and protect her, she will be in danger of running wild and getting into bad company. By all means let your daughter take the job that is offered her.

ACTRESS, TOPPING TO MARRY MONDAY

The way was cleared yesterday for the marriage when Arline Judge, 34-year-old Topping's third wife, divorced him in Bridgeport, Conn., charging extreme cruelty. Topping was her fifth husband.

The marriage, the blonde actress's studio said, will be solemnized by the Rev. Stewart P. MacLennan, retired pastor of the Hollywood Presbyterian Church, at the Bel-Air home of William R. (Billy) Wilkerson, Hollywood trade paper publisher. Wilkerson will be best man.

Matron of honor will be Sara Hamilton, a magazine writer, and Miss Turner's five-year-old daughter, Cheryl, born of her marriage to Stephen Crane, will be flower girl. Miss Turner was twice married to Crane and once to Bandleader Artie Shaw.

The nuptials are scheduled for about 2 p. m., and afterward Wilkerson will give a champagne party for some 150 friends of the bridal coupe.

Miss Turner, 28, has ordered a $30,000 trousseau, and two shifts of seamstresses are working busily getting it in order.

Lingerie Designer Juel Park said that Miss Turner's order includes $5,000 worth of silk panties and nighties, with embroidered mottoes.

The purple finch is not at all purple. The male is of an old-rose color and the female has the general sparrow-like appearance.

ELECTRONICS UNIT ACTIVATED HERE

Electronics Warfare Battalion 8-8 has recently been activated in this area, with headquarters at Selman field, and weekly meetings are being held to interest persons in the "entirely voluntary" group, it was announced Saturday. The group is said to be badly in need of personnel to man the activity.

It was stated that the group activity would remain voluntary until the complement of officers and men is obtained, and it is hoped to get the activity on an organized basis so that members will receive drill pay.

Quarters have been provided in the former enlisted men's service building 28-1 at Selman field, and the city is furnishing electric power. The navy has shipped over $200,000 in equipment which is now being installed, it was said. The equipment includes transmitters of various navy types, radio direction finder types, radio direction finder equipment, radar equipment and other electronic gear so that when installation is completed, Monroe will have one of the most unique Naval Reserve Electronics Warfare Battalion setups anywhere in this part of the nation, according to the announcement.

The weekly meetings are held on Tuesday nights, starting at 7:30 p. m. in the headquarters building of the battalion.

The personnel sought may be former navy men, former army men or men with no military background, but who are interested in learning something about electronics. Required ages are between 19 and 45 years, and there are also some openings for former WAVES, WACS or women marines.

It was pointed out that the facilities of the activity are available to all "ham" operators.

New York

At times prices dropped as much as 85 cents a bale as a continuation of Friday's liquidating movement disclosed a lack of buyers. The sell-off, however, encountered short covering and the market turned higher.

The May contract was inclined to lag on the advance as a moderate amount of liquidating continued prior to first notice day next Tuesday.

Futures closed 40 cents to $1.00 a bale higher than the previous close.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—The liveliest week in the stock market in 19 months closed today on a note of caution.

Profit-taking sales interrupted at least temporarily the spring rally that has extended through six successive weeks. With a number of sizable blocks changing hands in the first hour of the short session today transfers totaled around 800,000 shares. This pushed the total for the week in the neighborhood of 10,500,000.

Bonds and commodities were narrow.

Boyle's Notebook

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—Spring house-cleaning used to involve only a determined wife, an unwilling husband—and a few arguments.

For a day or two the place looked like it had been hit by an untidy typhoon. The lady of the house disarranged the furniture, knotted an old cloth around her head and began madly flailing the walls, floors and ceilings with mop, broom and dust cloth.

When all the dirt had been shooed out, the glaze died down in the lady's eye, and she limped to her couch for a long afternoon nap—victory at rest.

The husband's role in the entire procedure consisted largely of self-pitying grunts as he shoved the furniture back into position over the worn places in the rug. But all it cost him was a few sore muscles. His pocketbook wasn't bruised much.

Today "house-cleaning" is as complex as a military amphibious landing—and about as expensive. You don't need the advice of a decorator so much as you do the help of a banker.

At least that is the situation in my cliff-dweller's cave at the moment. Frances began by describing it as "a house-cleaning." For two weeks I came home each night to find battalions of strange people swabbing the joint, slapping paint at the walls and waving samples of vari-colored bunting that would blanch a chameleon.

"I guess this year we are really refurnishing as much as we are plain house-cleaning," Frances finally said. "After seven years I think we can stand a change."

"Per acre?" I asked.

"Per yard."

A man came to rebuild two easy chairs and a love seat. He charged more than the fellow who sold them to us. Another man came and rolled up the rug.

"I'll beat it myself and save money," I offered.

"He didn't come to beat it," said my hausfrau. "He's taking it away. I paid $35 for that rug second-hand eight years ago. It's so worn you can see the color of the floor through it. We're getting a new rug."

"Well, try to keep it under $75," I said.

"Li ten, Midas," said Frances. "Today $75 won't buy a prayer mat for a one-legged Moslem."

A man with a bucket came in and painted the front and back walls a lovely blue-bottle-fly-green. Then he departed leaving untouched the gray side walls—the pleasant, cheerful gray a man's face gets after staying out all night.

"He coming back tomorrow to finish up?"

"No, we're trying something new for us—a two-color living room," said Frances, and added as I started to yelp:

"You don't have to live all your life in a room with one color."

"But my friends will just think I was too cheap to have the rest of it painted."

"Well?—" she began ominously. I decided not to press the point.

When I saw the final figure for overhauling the house, I went to see an older man whose wife had been seized by the same refurnishing phobia. He was in black despair.

"Twenty-five years ago," he recalled hollowly, "I rented a six-room cottage on a good plot of ground. The rent was $35 a month. I furnished the six rooms and filled the coal bin for $2,500.

"I am now furnishing an alleged three-room apartment. It costs $103 a month and I don't know yet where the third room is. All I can find is a bedroom and a living room.

"To date the living room alone has cost me $3,287.96 to furnish. And my wife says she isn't through yet.

"And you come to me expecting sympathy!"

TEENAGERS' RIVALRY ENDS IN HOMICIDE

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—Rivalry between two "gangs" of Brooklyn teenagers caused the fatal shooting of a bystander and the arrest of three youths on homicide charges, police said today.

William Gottlieb, 18, was shot and killed and a companion John Murphy, 15, was hit over the head with a gun when the two interfered with three youths chasing a member of a rival gang last night.

Charged with homicide were Anthony Lucera, 17, Thomas Scardaci, 17, and George Boundy, 16. Two other youths found with guns which they said Lucera had given them were charged with carrying concealed weapons.

Police Inspector William Whalen told this story of the shooting:

There was a feud between the "Tigers" and the "President Street Boys," gangs composed of youths from the Red Hook and South Brooklyn sections.

Last Thursday night a "President Street" boy beat a "Tiger" in a fight which had been arranged to determine supremacy.

Smarting over their defeat, the three youths charged with homicide set out last night to avenge their standard bearer. When the champion saw them, he fled. As the "Tiger" trio gave chase, Gottlieb and Murphy halted them to remonstrate and the shooting occurred.

GREEN BELT

MOSCOW—(AP)—A green belt around Stalingrad, including forest belts, parks and orchards, is being laid out to protect the city from sand storms. The green belt will girdle the Volga industrial city in a broad arc with both ends reaching the waterfront. Hydroelectric engineering projects involving the construction of a system of reservoirs also have been started. Hot winds blowing from the vicinity of the Caspian, where there are deserts, have long prevailed as far north as Stalingrad. If the green belt is successful there will be a radical change in the city's climate, it is stated.

Boyle's Notebook

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—Spring house-cleaning used to involve only a determined wife, an unwilling husband—and a few arguments.

For a day or two the place looked like it had been hit by an untidy typhoon. The lady of the house disarranged the furniture, knotted an old cloth around her head and began madly flailing the walls, floors and ceilings with mop, broom and dust cloth.

When all the dirt had been shooed out, the glaze died down in the lady's eye, and she limped to her couch for a long afternoon nap—victory at rest.

The husband's role in the entire procedure consisted largely of self-pitying grunts as he shoved the furniture back into position over the worn places in the rug. But all it cost him was a few sore muscles. His pocketbook wasn't bruised much.

Today "house-cleaning" is as complex as a military amphibious landing—and about as expensive. You don't need the advice of a decorator so much as you do the help of a banker.

At least that is the situation in my cliff-dweller's cave at the moment. Frances began by describing it as "a house-cleaning." For two weeks I came home each night to find battalions of strange people swabbing the joint, slapping paint at the walls and waving samples of vari-colored bunting that would blanch a chameleon.

"I guess this year we are really refurnishing as much as we are plain house-cleaning," Frances finally said. "After seven years I think we can stand a change."

I looked at the price of a drapery sample she held in her hand. My hair rose in horror.

"Per acre?" I asked.

"Per yard."

A man came to rebuild two easy chairs and a love seat. He charged more than the fellow who sold them to us. Another man came and rolled up the rug.

"I'll beat it myself and save money," I offered.

"He didn't come to beat it," said my hausfrau. "He's taking it away. I paid $35 for that rug second-hand eight years ago. It's so worn you can see the color of the floor through it. We're getting a new rug."

"Well, try to keep it under $75," I said.

"Listen, Midas," said Frances. "Today $75 won't buy a prayer mat for a one-legged Moslem."

A man with a bucket came in and painted the front and back walls a lovely blue-bottle-fly-green. Then he departed leaving untouched the gray side walls—the pleasant, cheerful gray a man's face gets after staying out all night.

"He coming back tomorrow to finish up?"

"No, we're trying something new for us—a two-color living room," said Frances, and added as I started to yelp:

"You don't have to live all your life in a room with one color."

"But my friends will just think I was too cheap to have the rest of it painted."

"Well?—" she began ominously. I decided not to press the point.

When I saw the final figure for overhauling the house, I went to see an older man whose wife had been seized by the same refurnishing phobia. He was in black despair.

"Twenty-five years ago," he recalled hollowly, "I rented a six-room cottage on a good plot of ground. The rent was $35 a month. I furnished the six rooms and filled the coal bin for $2,500.

"I am now furnishing an alleged three-room apartment. It costs $103 a month and I don't know yet where the third room is. All I can find is a bedroom and a living room.

"To date the living room alone has cost me $3,287.96 to furnish. And my wife says she isn't through yet.

"And you come to me expecting sympathy!"

TEENAGERS' RIVALRY ENDS IN HOMICIDE

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—Rivalry between two "gangs" of Brooklyn teenagers caused the fatal shooting of a bystander and the arrest of three youths on homicide charges, police said today.

William Gottlieb, 18, was shot and killed and a companion John Murphy, 15, was hit over the head with a gun when the two interfered with three youths chasing a member of a rival gang last night.

Charged with homicide were Anthony Lucera, 17, Thomas Scardaci, 17, and George Boundy, 16. Two other youths found with guns which they said Lucera had given them were charged with carrying concealed weapons.

There was a feud between the "Tigers" and the "President Street Boys," gangs composed of youths from the Red Hook and South Brooklyn sections.

Last Thursday night a "President Street" boy beat a "Tiger" in a fight which had been arranged to determine supremacy.

Smarting over their defeat, the three youths charged with homicide set out last night to avenge their standard bearer. When the champion saw them, he fled. As the "Tiger" trio gave chase, Gottlieb and Murphy halted them to remonstrate and the shooting occurred.

GREEN BELT

MOSCOW—(AP)—A green belt around Stalingrad, including forest belts, parks and orchards, is being laid out to protect the city from sand storms. The green belt will girdle the Volga industrial city in a broad arc with both ends reaching the waterfront. Hydroelectric engineering projects involving the construction of a system of reservoirs also have been started. Hot winds blowing from the vicinity of the Caspian, where there are deserts, have long prevailed as far north as Stalingrad. If the green belt is successful there will be a radical change in the city's climate, it is stated.

JEWISH WOMEN FORM COUNCIL

National Group Will Elect Officers At Annex Monday Afternoon

The first regular meeting of the Monroe section of the National Council of Jewish Women will be held Monday at 2 p.m. in the temple annex. Election of officers, presentation of by-laws and the signing of the charter will take place at this meeting. The speaker of the afternoon will be Mrs. Paul L. Godchaux, Jr., of New Orleans, past president of the New Orleans section.

The National Council of Jewish Women is the oldest Jewish women's organization in America. Organized in 1893 it now has 300 senior and junior sections throughout the United States and an enrollment of 65,000 members.

Through its five-point program of social welfare, social legislation, contemporary Jewish affairs, international relations and service to foreign born, the national council has gained much recognition for its magnificent services to the community for its welfare work among women and children and for its services to the foreign born of all faiths.

For a half-century, the council has fought for legislation that would enable democracy to work for all Americans, and throughout the country, council sections continue to rally wide community support for child welfare, slum clearance, social security and other legislative action that parallels the development of social progress in the nation.

The local section will follow closely the aims and ideals of the national organization and its advent in the community is expected to prove most valuable.

Mrs. David Aron has been acting as temporary chairman of the Monroe section and will preside at the meeting on Monday.

Looking Ahead In Washington

(By the World Staff of The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Well informed officials here gravely fear that the Jews and Arabs are loading up for a long and bloody struggle in Palestine. The clash is probable, they say, after the last of the British troops leave on May 15.

The United Nations, now engaged in decorous, parliamentary considerations of the trusteeship plan, has only about three weeks in which to find some adequate solution to the Palestine problem, as they see it.

The outbreak could turn into a terrific disaster, they believe, with massacres, devastation of cities and the destruction of some of the most deeply venerated religious shrines in the world.

They foresee blood and flame spreading throughout the Middle East, endangering the military position of the western powers in that part of the world, as well as the Middle East oil supply. That oil is a prime factor in the success of the Marshall plan, and both Britain and the U. S. count heavily on it for the use of their fleets and air forces in that region.

Political Airplanes

WASHINGTON—Politics has a lot to do with Congress' sudden interest in expanding our air power, according to the private advance of congressional leaders in both parties.

Many representatives and senators hope that a vote for a bigger combat air force may delay or even avoid a record vote on the peace-time draft or universal military training. They are afraid neither will be popular, and this is no year for a politician to make enemies.

But backers of the draft-U. M. T. programs intend to force all members of Congress to stand up and be counted, even if their program is beaten.

Political Weather

LONDON—Labor party leaders are expected to call a general election in the fall of 1949—about six months earlier than the regularly scheduled one—if their legislative program is completed by then. The idea seems to be to have the balloting before winter. Cold weather hardships hurt the party in power.

Political Atoms

WASHINGTON—Republican senators concede that they are carefully studying the political angles to renomination of Chairman David E. Lilienthal and four other members of the Atomic Energy Commission.

There probably will be a long delay before G. O. P. policy has jelled.

If the nominations are not confirmed, Senate leaders are hoping a Republican president will be in Washington next year to fill the positions. But G. O. P. planners are wary of exposing themselves to a charge of playing politics with the most important defense weapon in an unsettled world. And unless the Senate acts in the next few weeks, the Democrats are certain to raise that cry.

Recovery Program

LONDON—The new economic-military alliance among Britain, France and the Benelux countries is not expected to develop into a five-nation customs union in the near future. It will be a long time, say government officials, before the five nations leap the biggest hurdle—Britain's preferential trade arrangements with other members of the commonwealth. A multi-lateral pact erasing currency differences, however, is expected.

Ottawa—Trade Minister C. D. Howe says he will go to Washington soon to discuss Canadian participation in the European recovery program—as a partner of the U. S., he adds, not a satellite.

LONDON—Reliable sources here expect the U. S. to make a vigorous effort to prevent any further ebbing of Britain's financial reserves while U. S. recovery plan dollars are flowing in. The U. S. is expected to do two things: (1) Attempt to get Britain to impose stringent measures against the flight of capital out of the country; (2) attempt to persuade other countries to reduce their sterling balances in London in return for Marshall plan assistance.

Briefly Noted

WASHINGTON—Max Ball quotes the axiom, "There is nothing so permanent as a temporary job in Washington." He accepted the directorship of the oil and gas division in the interior department—the government's top oil job—in December, 1946, with the understanding he would be relieved after six months. Now he has served solemn notice on the department's oil advisory committee that they'll have "to get busy and find somebody to replace me." . . . The veterans administration is concerned that so few of the 100,000 ex-GI's who developed speech defects while in the service are letting the government help them correct th trouble. The VA is urging them to take advantage of government medical service if they need it and then to enroll in speech clinics at government expense.

Tax Facts

WASHINGTON—Under the old tax law, when a man's wife died he had to make out a new withholding tax exemption certificate right away, dropping the exemption for her. The new law permits the widower to claim her as an exemption during the whole of the year in which she dies—employers who want to give a bonus to a deserving employe no longer will have to go through the old complicated procedure to find out how much to withhold for taxes. All he has to do under the new tax law is take out 15 per cent of the amount of the bonus.

Capital Chaff

WASHINGTON—People still write to the agriculture department for free seeds, although the free seed distribution was discontinued 25 years ago. . . . Ever since the president's air policy commission criticized the airlines, the lines have been making a strenuous effort to keep arrivals and departures on schedule and to study the reason for delays.

Global Glimpses

TEHRAN—Iran wants the U. S. to lend her enough money to pay for packing and shipping the military equipment which is being sent here. An American embassy spokesman says U. S. officials are considering the request.

MEXICO CITY—Smuggling U. S. goods into Mexico is becoming a big business, according to Ramon Beteta, secretary of the treasury. As an example, he says, 4,570 automobiles have been brought in illegally at Nuevo Laredo alone in the past year and a half. The government intends to try to decrease smuggling by tightening up on border patrols and by easing some of the restrictions on imports.

WARSAW, Poland—A new campaign against "American imperialism" and the European recovery program will be launched on May Day by the Communist Workers party. The Communists, who already have arranged to absorb the left-wing Polish Socialists, may on that day also announce the "merger" and the formation of "one great workers party."

Political Calendar

Wednesday—Delaware Republicans pick 9 delegates. New Mexico Republicans name 8.

Mr. C. A. Hall,
Hall Funeral Home,
Monroe, Louisiana
Dear Mr. Hall:

My father took out one of your new low cost burial insurance policies and he had it only 15 days when he died suddenly with a heart attack. When the family and I came in to make the arrangements you treated us with all the kindness, and courtesy and respect that any person in the world could have received. You allowed us the full $360.69-benefit.

We were intending to purchase a $600.00 funeral whether he had a policy or not. We wish we had words to tell you how much we appreciate your kindness and your honesty in allowing us the full face amount of the policy.

All the burial insurance companies that I know of charge around $1.75 per month or $20.00 per year, and in some cases more for a $300.00 benefit on a person that was the age of my father, which was 58. But on your new assessment company from 3 months to 60 years, the regular quarterly rate is only 75c per quarter (3 months) or $3.00 per year.

We think what you now have is the finest low cost burial insurance there is. We understand that your company is the only one in Monroe, West Monroe or Ouachita Parish that has this low cost assessment rate.

I highly commend you and your entire staff and will never fail to highly recommend you to all who desire the best and finest service and burial insurance at a very reasonable low rate.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) L. A. S.

MUNICIPAL GROUP MEETING PLANNED

Louisiana Officials Will Consider Legislative Problems

BATON ROUGE, La., April 24.—(Special)—The annual convention of the Louisiana Municipal Association will be held in Baton Rouge, April 29 and 30 and May 1, according to Mayor Powers Higginbotham, president. Local city commissioners and the city attorney constitute the convention committee, he said.

JEWISH WOMEN FORM COUNCIL

National Group Will Elect Officers At Annex Monday Afternoon

The first regular meeting of the Monroe section of the National Council of Jewish Women will be held Monday at 2 p.m. in the temple annex. Election of officers, presentation of by-laws and the signing of the charter will take place at this meeting. The speaker of the afternoon will be Mrs. Paul L. Godchaux, Jr., of New Orleans, past president of the New Orleans section.

The National Council of Jewish Women is the oldest Jewish women's organization in America. Organized in 1893 it now has 300 senior and junior sections throughout the United States and an enrollment of 65,000 members.

Through its five-point program of social welfare, social legislation, contemporary Jewish affairs, international relations and service to foreign born, the national council has gained much recognition for its magnificent services to the community for its welfare work among women and children and for its services to the foreign born of all faiths.

For a half-century, the council has fought for legislation that would enable democracy to work for all Americans, and throughout the country, council sections continue to rally wide community support for child welfare, slum clearance, social security and other legislative action that parallels the development of social progress in the nation.

The local section will follow closely the aims and ideals of the national organization and its advent in the community is expected to prove most valuable.

Mrs. David Aron has been acting as temporary chairman of the Monroe section and will preside at the meeting on Monday.

Looking Ahead In Washington

(By the World Staff of The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Well informed officials here gravely fear that the Jews and Arabs are loading up for a long and bloody struggle in Palestine. The clash is probable, they say, after the last of the British troops leave on May 15.

The United Nations, now engaged in decorous, parliamentary considerations of the trusteeship plan, has only about three weeks in which to find some adequate solution to the Palestine problem, as they see it.

The outbreak could turn into a terrific disaster, they believe, with massacres, devastation of cities and the destruction of some of the most deeply venerated religious shrines in the world.

They foresee blood and flame spreading throughout the Middle East, endangering the military position of the western powers in that part of the world, as well as the Middle East oil supply. That oil is a prime factor in the success of the Marshall plan, and both Britain and the U. S. count heavily on it for the use of their fleets and air forces in that region.

Political Airplanes

WASHINGTON—Politics has a lot to do with Congress' sudden interest in expanding our air power, according to the private advance of congressional leaders in both parties.

Many representatives and senators hope that a vote for a bigger combat air force may delay or even avoid a record vote on the peace-time draft or universal military training. They are afraid neither will be popular, and this is no year for a politician to make enemies.

But backers of the draft-U. M. T. programs intend to force all members of Congress to stand up and be counted, even if their program is beaten.

Political Weather

LONDON—Labor party leaders are expected to call a general election in the fall of 1949—about six months earlier than the regularly scheduled one—if their legislative program is completed by then. The idea seems to be to have the balloting before winter. Cold weather hardships hurt the party in power.

Political Atoms

WASHINGTON—Republican senators concede that they are carefully studying the political angles to renomination of Chairman David E. Lilienthal and four other members of the Atomic Energy Commission.

There probably will be a long delay before G. O. P. policy has jelled.

If the nominations are not confirmed, Senate leaders are hoping a Republican president will be in Washington next year to fill the positions. But G. O. P. planners are wary of exposing themselves to a charge of playing politics with the most important defense weapon in an unsettled world. And unless the Senate acts in the next few weeks, the Democrats are certain to raise that cry.

Recovery Program

LONDON—The new economic-military alliance among Britain, France and the Benelux countries is not expected to develop into a five-nation customs union in the near future. It will be a long time, say government officials, before the five nations leap the biggest hurdle—Britain's preferential trade arrangements with other members of the commonwealth. A multi-lateral pact erasing currency differences, however, is expected.

Ottawa—Trade Minister C. D. Howe says he will go to Washington soon to discuss Canadian participation in the European recovery program—as a partner of the U. S., he adds, not a satellite.

LONDON—Reliable sources here expect the U. S. to make a vigorous effort to prevent any further ebbing of Britain's financial reserves while U. S. recovery plan dollars are flowing in. The U. S. is expected to do two things: (1) Attempt to get Britain to impose stringent measures against the flight of capital out of the country; (2) attempt to persuade other countries to reduce their sterling balances in London in return for Marshall plan assistance.

Briefly Noted

WASHINGTON—Max Ball quotes the axiom, "There is nothing so permanent as a temporary job in Washington." He accepted the directorship of the oil and gas division in the interior department—the government's top oil job—in December, 1946, with the understanding he would be relieved after six months. Now he has served solemn notice on the department's oil advisory committee that they'll have "to get busy and find somebody to replace me." . . . The veterans administration is concerned that so few of the 100,000 ex-GI's who developed speech defects while in the service are letting the government help them correct th trouble. The VA is urging them to take advantage of government medical service if they need it and then to enroll in speech clinics at government expense.

Tax Facts

WASHINGTON—Under the old tax law, when a man's wife died he had to make out a new withholding tax exemption certificate right away, dropping the exemption for her. The new law permits the widower to claim her as an exemption during the whole of the year in which she dies—employers who want to give a bonus to a deserving employe no longer will have to go through the old complicated procedure to find out how much to withhold for taxes. All he has to do under the new tax law is take out 15 per cent of the amount of the bonus.

Capital Chaff

WASHINGTON—People still write to the agriculture department for free seeds, although the free seed distribution was discontinued 25 years ago. . . . Ever since the president's air policy commission criticized the airlines, the lines have been making a strenuous effort to keep arrivals and departures on schedule and to study the reason for delays.

Global Glimpses

TEHRAN—Iran wants the U. S. to lend her enough money to pay for packing and shipping the military equipment which is being sent here. An American embassy spokesman says U. S. officials are considering the request.

MEXICO CITY—Smuggling U. S. goods into Mexico is becoming a big business, according to Ramon Beteta, secretary of the treasury. As an example, he says, 4,570 automobiles have been brought in illegally at Nuevo Laredo alone in the past year and a half. The government intends to try to decrease smuggling by tightening up on border patrols and by easing some of the restrictions on imports.

WARSAW, Poland—A new campaign against "American imperialism" and the European recovery program will be launched on May Day by the Communist Workers party. The Communists, who already have arranged to absorb the left-wing Polish Socialists, may on that day also announce the "merger" and the formation of "one great workers party."

Political Calendar

Tuesday—Massachusetts primaries to elect 35 Republican and 36 Democratic delegates. Pennsylvania primaries to elect 73 Republican and 74 Democratic delegates.

Wednesday—Delaware Republicans pick 9 delegates. New Mexico Republicans name 8.

Mr. C. A. Hall,
Hall Funeral Home,
Monroe, Louisiana
Dear Mr. Hall:

My father took out one of your new low cost burial insurance policies and he had it only 15 days when he died suddenly with a heart attack. When the family and I came in to make the arrangements you treated us with all the kindness, and courtesy and respect that any person in the world could have received. You allowed us the full $300.00-benefit.

We were intending to purchase a $500.00 funeral whether he had a policy or not. We wish we had words to tell you how much we appreciate your kindness and your honesty in allowing us the full face amount of the policy.

All the burial insurance companies that I know of charge around $1.75 per month or $20.00 per year, and in some cases more for a $300.00 benefit on a person that was the age of my father, which was 58. But on your new assessment company from 3 months to 60 years, the regular quarterly rate is only 75c per quarter (3 months) or $3.00 per year.

We think what you now have is the finest low cost burial insurance there is. We understand that your company is the only one in Monroe, West Monroe or Ouachita Parish that has this low cost assessment rate.

I highly commend you and your entire staff and will never fail to highly recommend you to all who desire the best and finest service and burial insurance at a very reasonable low rate.

Sincerely yours,

Sherrouse P.-T. A. Scrapbook Wins Excellent Rating

Resolutions adopted at the state convention of the Louisiana P.-T. A. in Lafayette were read and discussed by Mrs. Mike John. "The purpose of the local public health service act of 1948 is to assist states in developing and maintaining local public health units organized to provide basic full-time public health services in areas of the nation and in the training of all types of personnel for local public health work," said Mrs. John.

"Federal assistance under the bill would be in the form of grants to states which in turn would distribute funds to their local subdivisions in accordance with the provisions of federally approved state plans. This bill is sponsored by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers," said Mrs. John.

Mrs. W. O. Webb, president, discussed the federal aid bill which was so ably presented by Miss Mary Titus, N. E. A. consultant. One point of interest concerning the bill is the amount spent on education—Russia spending 7 per cent of her national income; England spending 3 per cent while the United States spends only 1 1/2 per cent.

Miss Titus urged that every leader in education should write to his congressman and urge that he not only be prepared to vote for the bill, but to work actively with House leaders to see that it is brought to the floor.

Miss Titus in closing quoted from Lowell Mellett who says, "The education bill can properly be considered a defense measure. Brain as well as brawn is required to win wars in these days.

Announcement of the Summer Round-Up Clinic was made for May 12 at 8:30 at Sherrouse School.

The Sherrouse P.-T. A. Scrapbook which won excellent rating at the state convention was displayed. This book was compiled by Mrs. Raymond John and Mrs. Sidney Williams.

PROGRAM OF RARE CHARM WILL BE PRESENTED BY THE MUSICAL COTERIE NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

Music both familiar and rare will be brought to life with unflagging understanding and imagination by members of the Musical Coterie next Friday night when they will present a program of Contemporary American Music in the Crystal ball room of the Virginia Hotel.

The Musical Coterie has a tradition of rare programs beautifully presented and this program on Friday night will add one more star to the crown so richly earned.

Mrs. H. H. Land, an accomplished musician and a charter member of the Musical Coterie, has the following to say:

"The Musical Coterie" is presenting a program of great interest not only to local music-lovers but to musicians in neighboring towns and cities. (Invitations have been accepted by musicians in Shreveport, Baton Rouge Ruston, Winnsboro, Giraud, et.)

In the United States young composers appear to be sprouting everywhere. It may well be that we are just beginning to tap our creative potentialities. In a very real sense Europe has come to us. Stravinsky, Hindemith, Schoenberg, Milhaud and Martinu are living and composing in the United States. It would be strange indeed if the presence of these contemporary masters had no effect whatever on our younger generation.

The general tone of contemporary art whether in music, painting, or poetry, is much more sophisticated than was that of the past. We have but to compare a poem by E. E. Cummings with one by Shelley and a canvas by Picasso by one by Ingres or Constable, to become aware of the more sophisticated technical level upon which the modern artist pitches his work. We must remember, the twentieth century artist faces a world infinitely more complex, more baffling than any that the past has known.

It is not good to limit one's listening, exclusive or even mainly, to one period or one type of music. Too many youthful enthusiasts are satisfied to listen only to a few selected contemporary radicals." The average music lover, brought up on the good old Classical-Romantic diet is left in utter bewilderment by Contemporary music.

As listeners, it is best that we appreciate the good works of all time, including our own, and that we build within ourselves the means of widening the horizon so as to be able to embrace the tomorrow when it comes."

MRS. JACK MASUR IS GRACIOUS HOSTESS TO READER'S CLIQUE

"Flower Arrangement as Folk Art" was the theme used by Mrs. John Lewis, a guest on the program at a recent meeting of the Reader's Clique held in the home of Mrs. Jack Masur on Park Avenue. This course concluded a series on gardening presented by the chairmen, Mrs. Joseph Bennett and Mrs. Ivy Jordan.

Mrs. Lewis is noted in the Twin Cities for her artistic skill in flower arrangement. It is a fascinating hobby for Mrs. Lewis, who has found that creating beautiful pictures with flowers enhances the joy of every-day living. She arranged many attractive pieces of art for her audience.

"This business of flower arrangement is new to us in America," she said. "The Japanese have worked years with flowers in this manner. More and more our women are becoming conscious of what can be done with flowers. Not until the nineteen thirties did the public become aware that scattered individuals were enjoying their cut flowers in a special way. This art, at present, goes beyond the pretty bouquets of yesterday. It has become a challenging and stimulating skill, with possibilities unlimited."

Garden Club lectures have motivated people to experiment. The ideas and principles presented in a book will not make one creative in arranging. Only a gradual freeing of your creative instincts can do that. But an understanding of certain principles are indispensable for making your creative expression explicit and clear. The experience of flower arrangement can mean a great deal in terms of a rich life for the individual. Even your first attempt adds to the pleasure of home life. Within a few days you are at work again. Since it has taken centuries to discover certain principles of art, and the individual does not have centuries for trial and error to discover them for himself, study is indicated here as in the other arts. Those who are genuinely interested can learn first from various authorities on flower arrangement, then enjoy venturing their own experiments.

Indeed it may be that the United States is on the way toward developing a folk art. You may ask "What is a folk art?" A folk art comes from the home life of the people and reflects the wide interest. Easily available materials are essential to a folk art. It seems a paradox to say that the principles of art must be recognized and the practice of the art must be spontaneous. To know the delight of creating beautiful pictures with flowers is now the gracious heritage of all.

One of the most captivating pictures created by Mrs. Lewis at this time was of red amaryllis lilies and green hydrangea leaves. "With leaves you can do surprising things," she said.

After a short business hour Mrs. Masur invited her guests into the dining room where drinks and confections were served. The lace-covered table was adorned with an attractive centerpiece of pink roses.

Sherrouse P.-T. A. Scrapbook Wins Excellent Rating

Miss Betty McReynolds, Of Houston, Is The Bride Of Mr. William B. Junod

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Logan Junod have returned from Houston, Texas, where they attended the marriage of their son, Mr. William Boyden Junod to Miss Betty McReynolds, daughter of Mrs. Felix Columbus McReynolds at St. Mark's Episcopal Church with the rector, Rev. James V. Knapp, officiating.

The altar was banked with southern smilax and fern, forming a background for multiple cathedral candles and a profusion of Easter lilies and white stock. The aisles of the church were marked with tapers in single standards at each pew, ornamented with Easter lilies and tied with satin ribbons.

This was the beginning of Mrs. Gates' famous iris garden in West Monroe. She found herself dreaming of the beautiful iris. Her thoughts went back continually to the little cottage in Tennessee enveloped in a purple and yellow haze. She set to work replacing the gumbo clay of her yard into sandy loam. The first year she set out 24 varities in double rows and raised the entire bed above the ground for proper drainage. She worked feverishly and contacted iris growers in every section of the state. She became a member of the American Iris Society and profited by the information offered. The blooming of irises in Mrs. Gates' garden is one of the unfailing miracle of spring.

The cultivation and growing of iris is not an easy task according to Mrs. Gates. It takes patience, understanding and above all a knowledge of planting and soil condition. Perhaps the loveliest blossoms grow by this iris enthusiast is the Sunburst. It represents the peak of a new development in Louisiana irises as its name implifies, its coloration reminds one of the brilliance of a sunset. It is a dusty sunset-red with huge crest of brilliant yellow which covers almost half of the sepal. The claw is quite long and the sepals flare back and are rounded at the end. Its outstanding feature is its hue and brilliant radial crest.

Mrs. Gates is paritcularly proud of her Abbeville Red iris. The predominating colors are shades of red and yellow. Their large size and vigor of growth set them distinctly apart from the ordinary fulva. The petals are unusually wide and the floral parts are wide enough that they touch one another fully half their length. This gives them somewhat the appearance of the Jap iris. Most of the Abbeville Reds have a velvety sheen that is so often lacking in the common fulva. The bulk of the flower stems are over forty inches tall. Brown is the rarest color and Mrs. Gates has this particular variety in her garden.

Mrs. Gates is well posted on the subject of iris growing. She tells us that the discoveries of the late Dr. John K. Small of the New York Botanical Garden did much to focus the attention of the botanical world on the vastness of wild Iris beds in Louisiana and their almost infinite variation. However, there is good evidence that Louisianians had cultivated their swamp Irises for generations about their homes. At the time Dr. Small made his discoveries, there were in existence fine collections of native Iris in the gardens of several wild-flower lovers. Dr. Small expressed surprise at finding a collection of swamp Irises thriving in the wild-flower preseve of Miss Carolina Dormon in the sand hills of North Louisiana.

The hobby of collecting Irises from the bogs increased in popularity throughout the state from 1930 on. Continuing Mrs. Gates said: "What forms and types of Louisiana Irises will eventually take, no one can say. One thing, however, seems to be a safe gamble, and that is that our present swamp Irises of Louisiana are destined to be the foundation stock of a popular new race of garden irises.

Mrs. Gates has added many new varieties of irises to her garden this year. They vary in shades and add to the symphony of colors. The newest and rarest of blooms are: Albasuperba, Violet Symphony, Spindthrift Sensational (pink), Elmohr Collosal, Chantilly, Sable, Azure Skies, and Snow Carnival. In Fact Mrs. Gates has collected iris from every state where they are grown successfully. She is looking forward with an anticipatory thrill to the National Iris convention in Nashville, Tenn., May 7-10.

MISS HOOD ADDRESSES TEEN AGERS ON SUBJECT OF 'BEAUTY

Members of the "Ambitious Teenagers," were intrigued with the artistry of Miss Maibel Hood who demonstrated how make-up should be applied when she addressed them on the subject of "Build Your Beauty On Your Youth."

She said: I am happy to discuss with you teen-agers your skin problems. As you know there's a right way and a wrong way to do everything. Never neglect your skin, as you will never have but one face, let's take care of it.

This meeting is going to be an open forum and we are going to ask each other questions, so be free to ask me anything. My subject today is "Build Your Beauty on Your Youth". You are never too young to begin to be beautiful. A young skin is a precious skin. We term the covering on our face as skin while we are young, but, when we become grown we call it our complexion. It's the adjustment stage, that is the problem and that is why I am here today to help you teenagers get started right in care of your skin. Skin care is a habit.

You have time to take a bath, brush your teeth every day. You don't sleep in your clothes. Well, then it only takes fifteen minutes to care for your skin, so let's all start tonight to care for our skin. It takes three things to make a good skin:

Correct skin care. Correct and balanced diet. Exercise. For correct skin the right preparations for your type skin, whether your skin is very oily. The right makeup in color and right application. Correct diet consists of protected food for beauty, such as fresh fruits, fresh vegetables, and plenty of milk. Too much starches, fats, and sweets are bad for our complexion.

Correct exercises that develop good posture, plenty of fresh air and outdoor exercise, and plenty of sleep. You master these three, and you will will have good skin and a healthy body.

To know how to care for the skin, first you must know something about it, how it functions and its skin structure. Our skin is composed of three layers, epidermis, corum and true skin. Each one has its own duties to perform.

I am asked every day at what age should a girl start to use cream. You use cream the day you start to use makeup, because soap and water will not remove powder and rouge from the pores of the skin. It only cleans the surface of the skin. Teenagers have large pores, black heads, pimples, acne, bumps, and all of these are brought on from improper cleaning and now I am going to give treatments for cures for all five of these.

Now we are ready for our makeup. It serves three purposes: Makes it possible to wear any color in vogue, highlights one's beauty, and brings out hidden beauty.

The purpose of makeup is to e phasize your good points and mi mize your weak ones. Your lips a eyes are your vulnerable areas of t face and should always be kept w madeup. You get all of your expre sion from these two. How to app lipstick correctly (rouge). How to p powder on right and we have t tones in powder: cool tones and wa tones. Warm tones on cool skin, a cool tones on warm skins.

How to apply eye shadow a colors. Choose light eye shades f daytime, and dark eye shades f night. Give more exotic effect, ble carefully. Let us be more eye co scious. Bathe eyes with a good e lotion, take eye exercises daily a use eye cream every night. Mysterio changes take place in your body wh you start to blossom into womanhoo For instance, the aprocrine glan under your arms begin to secre daily a type of perspiration you ha never known before.

This is a closely related physic development and causes unpleasa odor on both your person and clothe There is nothing wrong with you, is just another sign you are growir up. You must keep yourself safe wi a good deodorant.

This was the beginning of Mrs. Gates' famous iris garden in West Monroe. She found herself dreaming of the beautiful iris. Her thoughts went back continually to the little cottage in Tennessee enveloped in a purple and yellow haze. She set to work replacing the gumbo clay of her yard into sandy loam. The first year she set out 24 varities in double rows and raised the entire bed above the ground for proper drainage. She worked feverishly and contacted iris growers in every section of the state. She became a member of the American Iris Society and profited by the information offered. The blooming of irises in Mrs. Gates' garden is one of the unfailing miracle of spring.

The cultivation and growing of iris is not an easy task according to Mrs. Gates. It takes patience, understanding and above all a knowledge of planting and soil condition. Perhaps the loveliest blossoms grow by this iris enthusiast is the Sunburst. It represents the peak of a new development in Louisiana irises as its name implifies, its coloration reminds one of the brilliance of a sunset. It is a dusty sunset-red with huge crest of brilliant yellow which covers almost half of the sepal. The claw is quite long and the sepals flare back and are rounded at the end. Its outstanding feature is its hue and brilliant radial crest.

Mrs. Gates is paritcularly proud of her Abbeville Red iris. The predominating colors are shades of red and yellow. Their large size and vigor of growth set them distinctly apart from the ordinary fulva. The petals are unusually wide and the floral parts are wide enough that they touch one another fully half their length. This gives them somewhat the appearance of the Jap iris. Most of the Abbeville Reds have a velvety sheen that is so often lacking in the common fulva. The bulk of the flower stems are over forty inches tall. Brown is the rarest color and Mrs. Gates has this particular variety in her garden.

Mrs. Gates is well posted on the subject of iris growing. She tells us that the discoveries of the late Dr. John K. Small of the New York Botanical Garden did much to focus the attention of the botanical world on the vastness of wild Iris beds in Louisiana and their almost infinite variation. However, there is good evidence that Louisianians had cultivated their swamp Irises for generations about their homes. At the time Dr. Small made his discoveries, there were in existence fine collections of native Iris in the gardens of several wild-flower lovers. Dr. Small expressed surprise at finding a collection of swamp Irises thriving in the wild-flower preseve of Miss Carolina Dormon in the sand hills of North Louisiana.

The hobby of collecting Irises from the bogs increased in popularity throughout the state from 1930 on. Continuing Mrs. Gates said: "What forms and types of Louisiana Irises will eventually take, no one can say. One thing, however, seems to be a safe gamble, and that is that our present swamp Irises of Louisiana are destined to be the foundation stock of a popular new race of garden irises.

Mrs. Gates has added many new varieties of irises to her garden this year. They vary in shades and add to the symphony of colors. The newest and rarest of blooms are: Albasuperba, Violet Symphony, Spindthrift Sensational (pink), Elmohr Collosal, Chantilly, Sable, Azure Skies, and Snow Carnival. In Fact Mrs. Gates has collected iris from every state where they are grown successfully. She is looking forward with an anticipatory thrill to the National Iris convention in Nashville, Tenn., May 7-10.

When Mrs. Fortenberry left with Mr. Fortenberry for a honeymoon in Tennessee she wore a lovely traveling ensemble of navy blue with a scarlet top coat and navy blue accessories. Her navy blue straw hat was trimmed with scarlet flowers.

The bride is a graduate of the Ouachita Parish high school and is a student at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. She is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

PRESENTED IN PIANO RECITAL

Miss Dot Tullos, talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Tullos of Chatham, La., who was recently presented in piano recital. She is a pupil of Paul Torgrimson and is a member of the National Fraternity of Student Musicians. She is a member of the College Singers and Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority. Miss Tullos is entering upon her junior year in music at Northwestern State College, Natchitoches, La. Miss Tullos' program was confined to Beethoven, Mozart and Chopin.

Purely Personal

Miss Freeda Mickel home from Dallas where she attended grand opera tells of the thrilling experience following the opera "Pagliacci". Miss Mickel and her two companions, Miss Cliffie Olmstead and Miss Agnes Solomon of this city, were waiting for a taxi, but one after the other passed them by. One finally drew up to the curb and imagine their surprise when Bjoerling, the star of "Pagliacci" opened the door and invited them to ride with him. He was going to a supper party in his honor and expressed himself as being "delighted" to share the taxi with them. Such gallantry is found on the stage but seldom in real life. Miss Mickel, speaking of the opera said she now knows why people feel the impulse to rise to their feet shouting Bravo! Grand opera is certainly a thrilling experience when it is done in grand manner. Traveling via airways made it possible for Miss Mickel and her companions to enjoy a wonderful week-end in Dallas.

An interesting visitor in the city is Mrs. W. R. Forrester and small daughter who arrived last week from Tacoma, Wash., to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Boies. Lt. Forrester is now stationed in Anchorage, Alaska.

Here's a wonderful sauce to serve with ham that was discovered in the Louisiana Delta country by Ann Nichols, Woman's Home Companion field reporter. Mash a ripe banana until smooth, add one third of a cup of mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon of salt, 1 teaspoon of prepared horseradish. Then fold in one half cup of cream whipped light and fluffy. It's absolutely divine with hot or cold ham.

Because the librarian, Miss Frances Flanders, has been so busy inaugurating the Bookmobile service in Ouachita parish, she has not had time to give out information about new books. Many of her patrons have told her that they miss the articles in the paper. This one will attempt to mention the most important books added during the past six weeks.

Since the Bookmobile now covers, or soon will cover every section in the parish, these books are available for everyone. If you notice a book that you would like to read, ask for it at the library in Monroe, West Monroe or the Bookmobile.

"The Foundling" by Georgette Heyer is a story of life in recent England. Miss Heyer writes with humor and understanding, and this book is just as good as her previous novel "The Reluctant Widow."

A. L. Crabb has written a series of novels based on life in Nashville. His latest story "Home to the Hermitage" is concerned with the romance of Rachel and Andrew Jackson. This book is delightful and will be widely read.

Frederick F. Van De Water has written a most appealing story of Revolutionary days in Vermont. There is a good love story in the book and the facts of history are most ably presented.

Elizabeth Goudge has written a number of beautiful books. Her public was rather small until her best selling "Green Dolphin Street" appeared. Now she has written another book that should have as great appeal. "Pilgrim's Inn" is her first novel with a modern setting. In this book she shows how a war weary family and their friends are changed and strengthened by the influence of the lovely old inn, which dominates the story.

The use of salt is still a luxury permitted only to the rich, in some parts of Africa, says Encyclopedia Britannica.

MORNING WEDDING UNITES MISS HORTON AND MR. FORTENBERRY

Miss Barbara Ann Horton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Horton of Sterlington, La., walked to the altar in a beautiful white gabardine suit with white accessories and a corsage of orchids when she became the bride of Mr. William M. Fortenberry, son of Mr. William M. Fortenberry of Bastrop, La.

The wedding took place at the First Methodist church this city with Rev. T. K. Means, who united the parents of the bride in marriage, officiating.

Mrs. Glenroy Emmons, violinist and Miss Martha Carroll, organist, rendered a prenuptial concert featuring "Ariosso" by Bach. Miss Marguerite Bailey, soloist, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mr. James Robert Fortenberry served as best man and James N. Magruder lighted the candles arranged in tiers among the flowers banking the altar.

When Mrs. Fortenberry left with Mr. Fortenberry for a honeymoon in Tennessee she wore a lovely traveling ensemble of navy blue with a scarlet top coat and navy blue accessories. Her navy blue straw hat was trimmed with scarlet flowers.

The bride is a graduate of the Ouachita Parish high school and is a student at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. She is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

Mr. Fortenberry is a graduate of Louisiana State University. He served for several years overseas as a pilot in the Air Force. He is now associated with the International Paper Co., in Bastrop as a construction engineer.

Out-of-town guests included: Mrs. M. Fortenberry, Sr., Eudora, Ark.; Mrs. J. H. Newton, Sr., Mrs. William M. Fortenberry, Jr., Mrs. Ray D. Magruder, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Newton, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Walker, Miss Joan Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Welton Brumfield, all of Amite, La.; Mr. James N. Magruder, Folsom, La.; Mrs. L. S. Fortenberry, Baton Rouge, La., Mr. James Robert Fortenberry, L. S. U., Baton Rouge, La.

Purely Personal

Miss Freeda Mickel home from Dallas where she attended grand opera tells of the thrilling experience following the opera "Pagliacci". Miss Mickel and her two companions, Miss Cliffie Olmstead and Miss Agnes Solomon of this city, were waiting for a taxi, but one after the other passed them by. One finally drew up to the curb and imagine their surprise when Bjoerling, the star of "Pagliacci" opened the door and invited them to ride with him. He was going to a supper party in his honor and expressed himself as being "delighted" to share the taxi with them. Such gallantry is found on the stage but seldom in real life. Miss Mickel, speaking of the opera said she now knows why people feel the impulse to rise to their feet shouting Bravo! Grand opera is certainly a thrilling experience when it is done in grand manner. Traveling via airways made it possible for Miss Mickel and her companions to enjoy a wonderful week-end in Dallas.

An interesting visitor in the city is Mrs. W. R. Forrester and small daughter who arrived last week from Tacoma, Wash., to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Boies. Lt. Forrester is now stationed in Anchorage, Alaska.

Here's a wonderful sauce to serve with ham that was discovered in the Louisiana Delta country by Ann Nichols, Woman's Home Companion field reporter. Mash a ripe banana until smooth, add one third of a cup of mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon of salt, 1 teaspoon of prepared horseradish. Then fold in one half cup of cream whipped light and fluffy. It's absolutely divine with hot or cold ham.

Because the librarian, Miss Frances Flanders, has been so busy inaugurating the Bookmobile service in Ouachita parish, she has not had time to give out information about new books. Many of her patrons have told her that they miss the articles in the paper. This one will attempt to mention the most important books added during the past six weeks.

Since the Bookmobile now covers, or soon will cover every section in the parish, these books are available for everyone. If you notice a book that you would like to read, ask for it at the library in Monroe, West Monroe or the Bookmobile.

ALTRUSA OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY WITH A BEAUTIFULLY APPOINTED LUNCHEON AT LA CASA TEA ROOM

Birthday anniversaries are wonderful events when they mark the steady progress of an organization such as the Altrusa Club. This club, organized thirty-one years ago, claims for membership far-sighted women whose motto is "Patriotism, Efficiency and Service."

Twenty-two members of the local Altrusa met last week at the La Casa to celebrate their thirty-first birthday anniversary. It was a gala event with several guests in attendance.

The club colors, blue and white, were accentuated in every detail of the beautifully appointed luncheon table. The central decor was a mammoth birthday cake surmounted with a spray of crystalized white flowers. Dogwood blossoms trailed to the four corners where candelabra supporting tall blue tapers were entwined with flowers and white ribbon. The place cards also served as programs.

Miss Emma Lee Short, president, presided, and in interesting manner spoke of the history and progress of the club. She said in part: The first Altrusa Club was organized in Nashville, Tenn., on April 11, 1917, just five days after we had entered World War I. A very timely motto was selected, "Patriotism, Efficiency and Service," which was significant of Altrusa's immediate purpose, to unite women for service on the home front.

The first president was Mamie L. Bass of Indianapolis, a wise and far-sighted woman who set up the Principles of Altrusa, which are held in esteem by Altrusans everywhere today. After the first Altrusa Club, which is the pioneer of all women's service clubs in America, was formed in Nashville, it was only a short time before three others were organized. They were Louisville, Indianapolis and Dayton. These four clubs were incorporated under the name of Altrusa Institute, today known as National Association of Altrusa Clubs Inc.

Today, Altrusa unites in a growing, purposeful organization of executive and professional women in 217 major cities of the United States, Mexico, Puerto Rico, Bermuda, Canada, Korea, and on April 2, our most recent addition was London, where Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, also an Altrusan, presented the charter to a brilliant company of women executives of twenty-six leading professions.

Altrusa's thirty-one years of "Patriotism, Efficiency and Service" indicate that its program has not been static but has grown with the changing needs of its members and the communities it serves.

The Altrusa of the future will be carried through good times and bad by the vision of its leadership, by the strength of its program and by the aims and ideals for which it stands. So ends our yesterday and we begin our tomorrow with our faces toward new horizons. Let us take specific action to implement the goals of the International theme "Live and Let Live".

The initiation of the eight new members was an impressive ceremony. A candle was lighted for each of the Altrusa Keys—Amity, Loyalty, Talent, Reciprocity, Unity, Service, and Achievement. The new members were then presented, and standing in the candlelit room earnestly made the Altrusa Pledge. Miss Short welcomed the new members, and in closing, recited the Principles of Altrusa.

Members and guests attending were: Miss Agatha Burkett, Mrs. Adrienne Carr, Miss Bernice McCoy, Miss Mary Benoit, Miss Helen Sype, Mrs. Addie Lou Juneman, Mrs. Thelma Bond, Miss Clydie Cox, Mrs. Helen Luckett, Miss Maibel Hood, Miss Marguerite Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Jewel Durham, Dr. Catherine Foster, Mrs. Gordie Phillips, Mrs. Audrey Davis, Mrs. Bonnie Brookings, Miss "Dutch" Martin, Rev. Lea Joyner, Mrs. Olive Sype, Mrs. George Guerriero and Miss Emma Lee Short.

Claiming interest today is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Merl L. Padgett of the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Lee, to Mr. Dan Cox, son of Mr. E. M. Cox of Shreveport.

The wedding will take place May 22 in the First Christian Church, this city.

Miss Padgett graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and continued her studies at Northeast Junior College of L. S. U. She also attended B. M. I.

Mr. Cox attended Northeast Junior College, Louisiana Tech., and Louisiana State University prior to entering the army. He served 3 1 2 years with army air forces in the South Pacific theatre of operations. For the past two years he has been stationed in the Monroe Office of Retail Credit Company, Inc., of Atlanta, Georgia.

NATIONAL PRESIDENT

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, recently elected state president of the Louisiana League of Women Voters, left Saturday night to attend the national conference in Grand Rapids, Mich. Mrs. Tisdale has served on the board of directors for four years and for the past year has been vice-president. She is also past-president of the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs and is now serving on the national board of the General Federation of Women's Clubs as extension chairman.

MRS. A. D. TISDALE WILL REPRESENT LOUISIANA AT NATIONAL MEETING OF LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The League of Women Voters, heir to the spirit of the early suffragists who fought for political enfranchisement of their sex, is boldly undertaking exploration of the rugged path of world economy and international trade. In every section of the country league members are forging ahead and where their weaker sisters might fail, search for ways leading to their goal.

A distinct honor was conferred upon Monroe when one of the city's most prominent club women, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, was named state president of the Louisiana League of Women Voters. Mrs. Tisdale left yesterday morning for Grand Rapids, Mich., to attend the national conference. She will bring back information of great importance to the local members who are forging ahead in the most remarkable manner.

Trade barriers and international relations concern all members of the League of Women Voters and these two subjects will be discussed at length by Mrs. Tisdale when she returns from the conference. Miss Myrtle Rodgers, president of the local league is also attending the conference and will have a wealth of information for the members when she returns.

Mrs. Tisdale, speaking of the problems of life today, said: "Facing a time judged the most critical ever faced by one civilization, League members know that there is more vital need for the type of citizen education given by the League of Women Voters than ever before. War too terrible to contemplate faces us. The Charter of UNESCO says, 'War begins in the minds of men.' It is in the minds of men that the defenses of peace must be constructed. The League works with the minds of men—to bring understanding of issues—to instill the idea of citizen responsibility for government. The citizens of a democracy decide policy. The tragedy of our civilization may be that they make this decision in ignorance. Could there be a greater, a more patriotic challenge to women citizens of America than to bring enlightenment offered by League work, to dispel this ignorance on issues to a degree that would bring wiser action by our country in these perilous times?"

Mrs. W. L. Jones Is Hostess To Magnolia Study Club

The Magnolia Study Club met in the lovely new home of Mrs. W. L. Jones, Jr., on Sherrouse Ave., with Mrs. E. E. Conner, co-hostess, for their April program meeting.

The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. V. Russell, club president, and Mrs. J. E. Nelson led the members in reading the club Collect.

Mrs. W. L. Jones presented two club members, Mrs. Roy Rickerson, who read a paper on "My Country," and Mrs. F. A. Serio, who reviewed "Woodrow Wilson and the Great Betrayal" by Thomas A. Bailey.

Mrs. Serio said in part: "The book is an account of one of the supreme tragedies of human history. The great betrayal when the United States turned its back on Wilson's pledges and failed to join the League of Nations. Bailey does not intend to kick the corpse of Lodge nor to whiten the tomb of Wilson. Neither is going to help us seek a real appreciation of the many forces that entered into the vast tragedy. He does state that the U. S. had a world to gain and nothing to lose by joining the League of Nations.

"Wilson's tactlessness and stubbornness had much to do with our colossal failure, however, he had the highest motives for what he did. Every generation makes its own blunders and no doubt our's will, but 'wise men learn by other men's mistakes, fools by their own.'

"Wilson was the greatest of the neutral statesmen, the greatest mediator, the greatest war leader, the greatest peacemaker, the greatest tragedy and the greatest disappointment.

"Reaching for the stars, he crashed to earth. He was a magnificent failure and in some ways a successful one. He once said: 'Ideas live, men die.' His ideas have lived. They are, and we must not forget that there are two phases of war, the fighting duration and the peace duration. Only a handful of statesmen can draw up a treaty of peace, but in a democracy, every citizen can actively participate in its ratification and in its execution. This he should do for we do not want to do the ghostly job a third time."

Miss Brown Is The Bride Of Mr. A. O. Roye

Charm and dignity characterized the wedding of Miss Lurline Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Brown of Baton Rouge, La., when she became the bride of Mr. Archie Oliver Roye, son of Mrs. H. O. Roye and the late H. O. Roye of Downsville, La., at the home of her parents.

The bride, walking with her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a gown of satin fashioned with a high neckline. The fitted bodice, buttoned down the back with tiny buttons. The long sleeves ended in points over her hands. The skirt was very full with a peplum falling into a long court train. From a tiara of orange blossoms her fingertip veil fell in graceful folds.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home. Mrs. Brown received in an advance model of black crepe, and the groom's mother was attractively attired in an aqua suit with brown accessories. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

The bride's table was charmingly arranged. A three-tiered cake, surmounted with bride and groom figurines and encircled and white flowers at the base was the central decor. White tapers burned in crystal candle holders on either side.

Individual wedding cakes and punch were served by Mrs. J. S. Monk and Mrs. Lebrana Newman, aunts of the bride. Miss Hilda Jean Monk, cousin of the bride, presided over the Bride's book.

The bride's traveling costume was a beige wool crepe suit with a pink crepe blouse and black accessories. After a short wedding trip, the young couple will reside at 322 Connell street in Baton Rouge.

Miss Brown attended L. S. U. and Baton Rouge Business College. Mr. Roye attended Louisiana Tech and is now majoring in forestry at L. S. U.

Birthday anniversaries are wonderful events when they mark the steady progress of an organization such as the Altrusa Club. This club, organized thirty-one years ago, claims for membership far-sighted women whose motto is "Patriotism, Efficiency and Service."

Twenty-two members of the local Altrusa met last week at the La Casa to celebrate their thirty-first birthday anniversary. It was a gala event with several guests in attendance.

The club colors, blue and white, were accentuated in every detail of the beautifully appointed luncheon table. The central decor was a mammoth birthday cake surmounted with a spray of crystalized white flowers. Dogwood blossoms trailed to the four corners where candelabra supporting tall blue tapers were entwined with flowers and white ribbon. The place cards also served as programs.

Miss Emma Lee Short, president, presided, and in interesting manner spoke of the history and progress of the club. She said in part: The first Altrusa Club was organized in Nashville, Tenn., on April 11, 1917, just five days after we had entered World War I. A very timely motto was selected, "Patriotism, Efficiency and Service," which was significant of Altrusa's immediate purpose, to unite women for service on the home front.

The first president was Mamie L. Bass of Indianapolis, a wise and far-sighted woman who set up the Principles of Altrusa, which are held in esteem by Altrusans everywhere today. After the first Altrusa Club, which is the pioneer of all women's service clubs in America, was formed in Nashville, it was only a short time before three others were organized. They were Louisville, Indianapolis and Dayton. These four clubs were incorporated under the name of Altrusa Institute, today known as National Association of Altrusa Clubs Inc.

Today, Altrusa unites in a growing, purposeful organization of executive and professional women in 217 major cities of the United States, Mexico, Puerto Rico, Bermuda, Canada, Korea, and on April 2, our most recent addition was London, where Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, also an Altrusan, presented the charter to a brilliant company of women executives of twenty-six leading professions.

Altrusa's thirty-one years of "Patriotism, Efficiency and Service" indicate that its program has not been static but has grown with the changing needs of its members and the communities it serves.

The Altrusa of the future will be carried through good times and bad by the vision of its leadership, by the strength of its program and by the aims and ideals for which it stands. So ends our yesterday and we begin our tomorrow with our faces toward new horizons. Let us take specific action to implement the goals of the International theme "Live and Let Live".

The initiation of the eight new members was an impressive ceremony. A candle was lighted for each of the Altrusa Keys—Amity, Loyalty, Talent, Reciprocity, Unity, Service, and Achievement. The new members were then presented, and standing in the candlelit room earnestly made the Altrusa Pledge. Miss Short welcomed the new members, and in closing, recited the Principles of Altrusa.

Members and guests attending were: Miss Agatha Burkett, Mrs. Adrienne Carr, Miss Bernice McCoy, Miss Mary Benoit, Miss Helen Sype, Mrs. Addie Lou Juneman, Mrs. Thelma Bond, Miss Clydie Cox, Mrs. Helen Luckett, Miss Maibel Hood, Miss Marguerite Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Jewel Durham, Dr. Catherine Foster, Mrs. Gordie Phillips, Mrs. Audrey Davis, Mrs. Bonnie Brookings, Miss "Dutch" Martin, Rev. Lea Joyner, Mrs. Olive Sype, Mrs. George Guerriero and Miss Emma Lee Short.

Claiming interest today is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Merl L. Padgett of the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Lee, to Mr. Dan Cox, son of Mr. E. M. Cox of Shreveport.

The wedding will take place May 22 in the First Christian Church, this city.

Miss Padgett graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and continued her studies at Northeast Junior College of L. S. U. She also attended B. M. I.

Mr. Cox attended Northeast Junior College, Louisiana Tech., and Louisiana State University prior to entering the army. He served 3 1/2 years with army air forces in the South Pacific theatre of operations. For the past two years he has been stationed in the Monroe Office of Retail Credit Company, Inc., of Atlanta, Georgia.

NATIONAL PRESIDENT

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, recently elected state president of the Louisiana League of Women Voters, left Saturday night to attend the national conference in Grand Rapids, Mich. Mrs. Tisdale has served on the board of directors for four years and for the past year has been vice-president. She is also past-president of the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs and is now serving on the national board of the General Federation of Women's Clubs as extension chairman.

MRS. A. D. TISDALE WILL REPRESENT LOUISIANA AT NATIONAL MEETING OF LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The League of Women Voters, heir to the spirit of the early suffragists who fought for political enfranchisement of their sex, is boldly undertaking exploration of the rugged path of world economy and international trade. In every section of the country league members are forging ahead and where their weaker sisters might fail, search for ways leading to their goal.

A distinct honor was conferred upon Monroe when one of the city's most prominent club women, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, was named state president of the Louisiana League of Women Voters. Mrs. Tisdale left yesterday morning for Grand Rapids, Mich., to attend the national conference. She will bring back information of great importance to the local members who are forging ahead in the most remarkable manner.

Trade barriers and international relations concern all members of the League of Women Voters and these two subjects will be discussed at length by Mrs. Tisdale when she returns from the conference. Miss Myrtle Rodgers, president of the local league is also attending the conference and will have a wealth of information for the members when she returns.

Mrs. Tisdale, speaking of the problems of life today, said: "Facing a time judged the most critical ever faced by one civilization, League members know that there is more vital need for the type of citizen education given by the League of Women Voters than ever before. War too terrible to contemplate faces us. The Charter of UNESCO says, 'War begins in the minds of men.' It is in the minds of men that the defenses of peace must be constructed. The League works with the minds of men—to bring understanding of issues—to instill the idea of citizen responsibility for government. The citizens of a democracy decide policy. The tragedy of our civilization may be that they make this decision in ignorance. Could there be a greater, a more patriotic challenge to women citizens of America than to bring enlightenment offered by League work, to dispel this ignorance on issues to a degree that would bring wiser action by our country in these perilous times?"

Mrs. W. L. Jones Is Hostess To Magnolia Study Club

The Magnolia Study Club met in the lovely new home of Mrs. W. L. Jones, Jr., on Sherrouse Ave., with Mrs. E. E. Conner, co-hostess, for their April program meeting.

The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. V. Russell, club president, and Mrs. J. E. Nelson led the members in reading the club Collect.

Mrs. A. T. White gave an interesting report from the fifth district meeting held in Tallulah.

Mrs. W. L. Jones presented two club members, Mrs. Roy Rickerson, who read a paper on "My Country," and Mrs. F. A. Serio, who reviewed "Woodrow Wilson and the Great Betrayal" by Thomas A. Bailey.

Mrs. Serio said in part: "The book is an account of one of the supreme tragedies of human history. The great betrayal when the United States turned its back on Wilson's pledges and failed to join the League of Nations. Bailey does not intend to kick the corpse of Lodge nor to whiten the tomb of Wilson. Neither is going to help us seek a real appreciation of the many forces that entered into the vast tragedy. A social period was enjoyed and refreshments served to the following members: Mrs. J. V. Russell, Mrs. L. N. Waddell, Mrs. C. J. Nichols, Mrs. R. P. McKay, Mrs. A. T. White, Mrs. F. A. Serio, Mrs. J. E. Nelson, Mrs. Roy Rickerson, Mrs. H. C. Miller, Mrs. E. E. Conner, Mrs. W. L. Jones, Jr., and Mrs. F. L. Tucker.

Miss Brown Is The Bride Of Mr. A. O. Roye

Charm and dignity characterized the wedding of Miss Lurline Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Brown of Baton Rouge, La., when she became the bride of Mr. Archie Oliver Roye, son of Mrs. H. O. Roye and the late H. O. Roye of Downsville, La., at the home of her parents.

Miss Sue Sumrall, wearing an ice blue satin model, rendered the pre-nuptial music. Miss Mary Ann Newman, cousin of the bride, lighted the candles, after which Miss Ruth Monk, gowned in azure blue crepe, sang "I Love You Truly", and "Always."

The impressive double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. D. Sumrall before an improvised altar flanked with palms, and baskets of white stock and candelabra supporting white tapers, were grouped in the background.

The bride, walking with her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a gown of satin fashioned with a high neckline. The fitted bodice, buttoned down the back with tiny buttons. The long sleeves ended in points over her hands. The skirt was very full with a peplum falling into a long court train. From a tiara of orange blossoms her fingertip veil fell in graceful folds.

Her only ornament was a gold teardrop necklace, an heirloom for over a hundred years in the groom's family.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home. Mrs. Brown received in an advance model of black crepe, and the groom's mother was attractively attired in an aqua suit with brown accessories. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

The bride's table was charmingly arranged. A three-tiered cake, surmounted with bride and groom figurines and encircled and white flowers at the base was the central decor. White tapers burned in crystal candle holders on either side.

Individual wedding cakes and punch were served by Mrs. J. S. Monk and Mrs. Lebrana Newman, aunts of the bride. Miss Hilda Jean Monk, cousin of the bride, presided over the Bride's book.

The bride's traveling costume was a beige wool crepe suit with a pink crepe blouse and black accessories. After a short wedding trip, the young couple will reside at 322 Connell street in Baton Rouge.

Miss Brown attended L. S. U. and Baton Rouge Business College. Mr. Roye attended Louisiana Tech and is now majoring in forestry at L. S. U.

MISS JULIA DOROTHY GATES

The engagement of Miss Gates to Mr. Bennie McLain Hixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Hixon of Mangham, La., is announced today by her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Matthews, Jr., of Baton Rouge.

PROMINENT COUPLE UNITED IN MARRIAGE IN WASHINGTON, D. C.

Interest is centered in the announcement of the marriage of Rosamond Cole Mowrer, daughter of Mrs. Fred David Cole of Stamford, Conn., and the late Mr. Cole, to Mr. Seymour Harold Glazer, son of Mr .and Mrs. Maurice Glazer of this city. The wedding was celebrated in Washington, D. C., in the presence of relatives and close friends.

The bride is a native of Augusta, Maine. She attended the University of Maine, where she was a member of Chi Omega sorority.

As a journalist, she has gained considerable recognition through important positions on staffs of newspapers and periodicals. Interesting experiences have been numerous while she did political reporting in Washington, D. C., worked on the European (Paris) edition of the Herald Tribune and served on the staffs of Time and Life until her marriage. She holds membership in the Women's National Press Club.

Mr. Glazer is well known here where he graduated from Northeast Junior College with high scholastic rating. He was editor of the Pow Wow, Northeast Junior College newspaper, on the staff of the yearbook, and held membership in Phi Theta Kappa, national junior college honor society, the piano club and the E. H. S club. Formerly a student at Juilliard School of Music, New York, he continued his interest in violin and was presented in concert here.

From the local college he went to Louisiana State University where he earned the bachelor's degree as a journalism major. He was managing editor of The Daily Reveille, University newspaper.

Following graduation, Mr. Glazer accepted a position with Newsweek. Giving up his work to enter naval service, he became a lieutenant on the staff of Adm. Thomas Kinkaid, commander of the 7th fleet. Following long service in China, he returned to his post with Newsweek soon after his discharge from the navy.

Out of one of the nation's laboratories comes news of a sandless glass that is acid proof, heat-resistant and which permits more ultra-violet light to pass through it than ordinary glass does.

GOOD WILL WEEK STARTING TODAY

Kiwanians Stress 150 Years Of Peace With Canada And England

Pointing out to the world that the United States and Canada have lived as peaceful neighbors for more than 150 years, President Truman and Prime Minister King jointly declared Saturday that the unfortified boundary between the two countries serves as an outstanding example of international good will.

The two chief executives, in letters to Dr. Charles W. Armstrong, president of Kiwanis International, lauded the friendship of their countries as Kiwanis clubs in nearly 3,000 communities prepared to observe United States-Canada Good Will Week from April 25 to May 2.

President Truman said that "Americans and Canadians are proud, not of the fact that they have never had a difference, but that their friendship has survived differences and has remained strong." He expressed the opinion that observances such as United States-Canada Good Will Week have "greater significance today than ever before."

Citing the "long-standing and increasingly close friendship between Canada and the United States," Prime Minister King declared, "it is an example of international good will which, in these days, should afford the highest possible inspiration to all nations of the world which seek peace by negotiation and conciliation."

Dr. Armstrong said that Kiwanians in the United States and Canada will observe the week "as a period of strengthening the ties that bind our two countries." Kiwanis clubs across the border will exchange speakers and messages of good will, he added.

SHERIFF-ELECT

HIRAM B. WALLER

WALLER TO TAKE FRANKLIN OFFICE

Salesman-Musician Will Go Into Sheriff's Post At Winnsboro Next Month

WINNSBORO, La., April 24.—(Special)—Hiram B. Waller, sheriff-elect of Franklin parish, will take office the latter part of May or the first of June, it was announced here today.

Waller, 30, native of Amite county, Mississippi, moved to Franklin parish with his family when he was five years old. For the past nine years he has been employed as grocery salesman.

In the first primary January 20, Waller was second in a field of four candidates. The incumbent, Allen Price, led Waller by approximately 430 votes. In the run-off, Waller polled over 3,800 votes to beat Price by 446 votes.

Waller, regarded as a "natural born" musician by his friends, used a small band in his campaign. During the election, one elderly lady who wanted to cast her vote asked:

"I can't remember the name of the man, but I want to vote for the man that plays the fiddle." The woman cast her vote for Waller.

While being interviewed, Waller stated that he believed working with the public as a salesman has qualified him for the sheriff's office and that he will do everything possible to be one of the best sheriffs Franklin parish has ever had.

The newly-elected sheriff, well-liked throughout Northeast Louisiana, is married and has three children. He has been a resident of Winnsboro for the past five years, having worked in Ferriday as clerk and east Texas as a salesman for a wholesale grocery concern.

"Gethsemane" will be the subject of the pastor's message at the morning hour. This should be a help to those who are going through trials and sufferings.

"The Hardening of the Heart" will be the theme of the evening message, based upon Heb. 3:18, "Harden Not Your Hearts." We hear a great deal about "hardening of the arteries"; the scriptures warn against "the hardening of the heart."

Our Sunday School attendance has been around 740 for several Sundays. How about pushing over the 800 mark? And there has been an upsurge in Training Union attendance. Keep it up. The Brotherhood welcomes men to their splendid programs and fellowship in the Social Center at 6:15.

The pastor is away today, and we are glad to welcome Rev. C. B. White, superintendent of our orphanage, to our pulpit. Bro. Turgeniev, author of Poems in Prose, tells how one day he met a beggar who besought him for alms. "I felt in my pockets," he writes. "No purse, watch, or handkerchief did I find. I had left them all at home. The beggar waited, and his outstretched hand twitched and trembled slightly. Embarrassed and confused, I seized his dirty hand and pressed it: "Don't be vexed with me, brother." The beggar raised his bloodshot eyes to mine, his blue lips smiled, and he returned the pressure of the chilled fingers. "Never mind, brother," he stammered. "Thank you for this. This, too, was a gift, brother." I felt that I, too, had received a gift from my brother."

The Sabbath School is a vital part of the church's program. Do you attend the class of your choice? If you do not, then an invitation is extended that you attend today. Do you not think that if the Sabbath School is a fit place for the son or the daughter that it is a fit place for you? You will receive a welcome, and the leader will offer you something to think about.

"Results Guaranteed" is the theme of the morning message. This is what the world is impressed by. Results are always forthcoming in the Church of the Living God when the people accept and practice the principle about which we are to think. What damage man does himself, his standing in the community, and the cause of Christ by procrastination!

"How to Study the Bible" is the subject of the evening meditation. For years many of us have been reading the Bible. Do we know how to read the Bible and derive the greatest good therefrom?

Each Christian should look forward to the Holy Sabbath Day, as another privilege and responsibility to bring self into the Holy of Holies with God. If we worship God in spirit and in truth we perform the highest and best of which human beings are capable. To fail in this is to choose the lower limitations of mere animal life. We call upon every member of this church to practice the God given privilege to worship God in His sanctuary and carry forward His work. Our evangelistic services will greatly depend upon the individual consecration of each soul. All people are cordially invited to worship with us.

Many Posts Will Be Represented At Sessions In West Monroe

The 13th district of the Department of Louisiana, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will hold its third meeting Sunday at the V. F. W. hall on Natchitoches Street in West Monroe. There are at present eight posts in the district, Arcadia post being added last week.

Harry Hipp, of Calhoun, is the commander, and will preside. Clarence T. Cash, immediate past commander of the Hudson-Leehy post of West Monroe, is the senior commander, and C. C. Minard, commander of the Columbia post, is the junior commander.

Paul Kirby, of Monroe, is the quartermaster. Representatives from Jonesboro, Ruston, Columbia, Arcadia, Bernice, Farmerville, West Monroe and Monroe are to be present.

Commander John E. Zufall of the Rodney J. Hobbs post of Monroe urges all the thirty delegates selected at the last regular meeting to be on hand for Sunday afternoon's meeting. Present elected officers carry over to another year as the district being of odd number elect on odd number years.

Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the meeting which begins at 2 p.m.

As an added attraction the newly-organized drum and bugle corps, under the direction of Billy (Fat) Sullivan, will give a short exhibition.

Botanically speaking, blackberries and raspberries are not berries. They are fruits, and the eggplant is a berry.

Kiwanians Stress 150 Years Of Peace With Canada And England

Pointing out to the world that the United States and Canada have lived as peaceful neighbors for more than 150 years, President Truman and Prime Minister King jointly declared Saturday that the unfortified boundary between the two countries serves as an outstanding example of international good will.

The two chief executives, in letters to Dr. Charles W. Armstrong, president of Kiwanis International, lauded the friendship of their countries as Kiwanis clubs in nearly 3,000 communities prepared to observe United States-Canada Good Will Week from April 25 to May 2.

President Truman said that "Americans and Canadians are proud, not of the fact that they have never had a difference, but that their friendship has survived differences and has remained strong." He expressed the opinion that observances such as United States-Canada Good Will Week have "greater significance today than ever before."

Citing the "long-standing and increasingly close friendship between Canada and the United States," Prime Minister King declared, "it is an example of international good will which, in these days, should afford the highest possible inspiration to all nations of the world which seek peace by negotiation and conciliation."

Dr. Armstrong said that Kiwanians in the United States and Canada will observe the week "as a period of strengthening the ties that bind our two countries." Kiwanis clubs across the border will exchange speakers and messages of good will, he added.

SHERIFF-ELECT

HIRAM B. WALLER

WALLER TO TAKE FRANKLIN OFFICE

Salesman-Musician Will Go Into Sheriff's Post At Winnsboro Next Month

WINNSBORO, La., April 24.—(Special)—Hiram B. Waller, sheriff-elect of Franklin parish, will take office the latter part of May or the first of June, it was announced here today.

Waller, 30, native of Amite county, Mississippi, moved to Franklin parish with his family when he was five years old. For the past nine years he has been employed as grocery salesman.

Waller, the youngest known man to become sheriff in the parish's history, defeated the incumbent, Allen Price in a second primary.

In the first primary January 20, Waller was second in a field of four candidates. The incumbent, Allen Price, led Waller by approximately 400 votes. In the run-off, Waller polled over 3,800 votes to beat Price by 446 votes.

Waller, regarded as a "natural born" musician by his friends, used a small band in his campaign. During the election, one elderly lady who wanted to cast her vote asked:

"I can't remember the name of the man, but I want to vote for the man that plays the fiddle." The woman cast her vote for Waller.

While being interviewed, Waller stated that he believed working with the public as a salesman has qualified him for the sheriff's office and that he will do everything possible to be one of the best sheriffs Franklin parish has ever had.

The newly-elected sheriff, well-liked throughout Northeast Louisiana, is married and has three children. He has been a resident of Winnsboro for the past five years, having worked in Ferriday as clerk and east Texas as a salesman for a wholesale grocery concern.

"Gethsemane" will be the subject of the pastor's message at the morning hour. This should be a help to those who are going through trials and sufferings.

"The Hardening of the Heart" will be the theme of the evening message, based upon Heb. 3:18, "Harden Not Your Hearts." We hear a great deal about "hardening of the arteries"; the scriptures warn against "the hardening of the heart."

Our Sunday School attendance has been around 740 for several Sundays. How about pushing over the 800 mark? And there has been an upsurge in Training Union attendance. Keep it up. The Brotherhood welcomes men to their splendid programs and fellowship in the Social Center at 6:15.

You are welcome to all services.

The pastor is away today, and we are glad to welcome Rev. C. B. White, superintendent of our orphanage, to our pulpit. Bro. It is good to have one of such humble spirit and deep devotion to be in the position he now occupies with the church.

For the evening service we are happy to have Rev. G. P. Goodwin, one of our own members and local preacher. Bro. Goodwin holds the confidence and respect of all and is welcome to our pulpit and always a valued member of our congregation.

Turgeniev, author of Poems in Prose, tells how one day he met a beggar who besought him for alms. "I felt in my pockets," he writes. "No purse, watch, or handkerchief did I find. I had left them all at home. The beggar waited, and his outstretched hand twitched and trembled slightly. Embarrassed and confused, I seized his dirty hand and pressed it: "Don't be vexed with me, brother." The beggar raised his bloodshot eyes to mine, his blue lips smiled, and he returned the pressure of the chilled fingers. "Never mind, brother," he stammered. "Thank you for this. This, too, was a gift, brother." I felt that I, too, had received a gift from my brother."

You are hereby invited to attend the worship services of the day. Sunday school begins at 9:45 a. m. Morning worship at 10:50. Sermon subject: "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Ernest D. Holloway, Minister

The Sabbath School is a vital part of the church's program. Do you attend the class of your choice? If you do not, then an invitation is extended that you attend today. Do you not think that if the Sabbath School is a fit place for the son or the daughter that it is a fit place for you? You will receive a welcome, and the leader will offer you something to think about.

"Results Guaranteed" is the theme of the morning message. This is what the world is impressed by. Results are always forthcoming in the Church of the Living God when the people accept and practice the principle about which we are to think. What damage man does himself, his standing in the community, and the cause of Christ by procrastination!

"How to Study the Bible" is the subject of the evening meditation. For years many of us have been reading the Bible. Do we know how to read the Bible and derive the greatest good therefrom?

A hearty welcome awaits you at all hours of worship.

MEMORIAL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Rev. Charley B. Robinson, Pastor

Each Christian should look forward to the Holy Sabbath Day, as another privilege and responsibility to bring self into the Holy of Holies with God. If we worship God in spirit and in truth we perform the highest and best of which human beings are capable. To fail in this is to choose the lower limitations of mere animal life. We call upon every member of this church to practice the God given privilege to worship God in His sanctuary and carry forward His work. Our evangelistic services will greatly depend upon the individual consecration of each soul. All people are cordially invited to worship with us.

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Earth's preparatory school must be improved to the utmost" (p. 486).

13TH DISTRICT V. F. W. TO MEET

Many Posts Will Be Represented At Sessions In West Monroe

The 13th district of the Department of Louisiana, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will hold its third meeting Sunday at the V. F. W. hall on Natchitoches Street in West Monroe. There are at present eight posts in the district, Arcadia post being added last week.

Harry Hipp, of Calhoun, is the commander, and will preside. Clarence T. Cash, immediate past commander of the Hudson-Leehy post of West Monroe, is the senior commander, and C. C. Minard, commander of the Columbia post, is the junior commander.

Paul Kirby, of Monroe, is the quartermaster. Representatives from Jonesboro, Ruston, Columbia, Arcadia, Bernice, Farmerville, West Monroe and Monroe are to be present.

Commander John E. Zufall of the Rodney J. Hobbs post of Monroe urges all the thirty delegates selected at the last regular meeting to be on hand for Sunday afternoon's meeting. Present elected officers carry over to another year as the district being of odd number elect on odd number years.

Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the meeting which begins at 2 p.m.

As an added attraction the newly-organized drum and bugle corps, under the direction of Billy (Fat) Sullivan, will give a short exhibition.

TARZAN

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

TARZAN HEARD A DEEP SOBBING, AND UPON ROUNDING AN OBSTACLE HE FOUND JANE SEARCHING AMONG THE RUINS FOR HIS BODY.

"JANE!" HE MURMURED, HOLDING HER CLOSE. "OH, JOHN!" SHE SOBBED. "I THOUGHT THEY HAD KILLED YOU!"

"WE MUST GET OUT, JANE. THE PRESSURE BEHIND THAT STREAM IS ENLARGING THE HOLE. THE CAVERN WILL BE FLOODED SOON."

"OUTSIDE, WE'LL HAVE A CHANCE," THE APE-MAN SAID. "WHAT HAPPENED TO MARLOW AND N'ANI?" "THEY ESCAPED," JANE REPLIED. "I SAW THEM REACH THE PASSAGE."

"THEY'LL BE WATCHING FOR US," TARZAN SAID. "IS THERE NO OTHER WAY OUT?" ASKED JANE "NONE," SAID TARZAN.
